

PERSONALITIES IN TARIFF DEBATE

Democratic and Republican Members Have Bitter Clashes in the House

WILSON SUBJECT OF ATTACK

Representative Falconer of Washington Assails Majority and Chief in Bitter Terms

WASHINGTON, May 1.— President Wilson's decision to put sugar on the free list in three years was sustained this afternoon by the house in considering the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill in committee of the whole. By a vote of 186 to 88 the house defeated an amendment of Representative Mann of Illinois proposing to strike the free sugar clause from the bill.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—A bitter exchange of personalities enlivened the house debate today on the tariff bill. From the time the legislators met it was apparent that the tension of the debate was wearing on several members' tempers and before long there were outbursts.

Representative Humphrey of Washington got "peevish" at Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania when the latter sought to interrupt his speech.

"The gentleman from Pennsylvania has been strutting around here exotically." Humphrey shouted. "The gentleman from Washington has had a personal grudge against me," Palmer retorted, "ever since I tipped his mileage graft of which he was the chief beneficiary in this house amounting to $4,000 a year for traveling here to three sessions of congress. Since then he has been criticizing me at every opportunity."

Before this passage, the speaker, president Wilson, had said about the resident Japanese in the Hawaiian Islands: "I am in danger at the democratic caucus," he declared: "You Hindoo-Japanese-Chinese lovers who want to push things on the free list, if you had a grain of sense must know you are ruining a great industry. You're trying to put the Japanese into California with a pedagogic president who knows a lot of fine phrases, but little about the labor economics of our country."

BALD JACK SPEAKER.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Jack Rose, the bald-headed gambler who figured so prominently in the murder of Herman Rosenthal and the trial of Lieut. Becker, qualified as an after-dinner speaker at the dinner of the Twilight club last night. Among those who spoke and listened to Rose's speech were Judge Ben B. Lindsay of Denver; Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss; Rev. Rose Pastor Stokes and the Mayor, Christian F. Reissner. Rose told his audience that if juvenile courts had existed when he was a boy his life might have been a different story.

DETECTIVE HUNTS GIRL.

NEWCASTLE, Ind., May 1. Enough money has been raised locally to keep a Burns detective month on the job of searching for little Catherine Winters, who mysteriously disappeared on March 2. The sleuth has been here for several days picking up the threads of the story and today was following the clew the nature of which was a secret.

RAIN CHECKS FIRES.

BEMIDJI, Minn., May 1.—La reports show that Bemidji's danger from the threatening forest fire Bemidji and near Remer and La George is past. A heavy fall of rain early this morning, coupled with fall of the wind and the heroic efforts of fire-fighters, led by Ranger Thornton, stayed the course of the holocaust.

U. S. BOATS HERE

The Ellinore and the David Tipton, two government boats, docked on the levee here last night, and continued on their journey up the river this morning. The Ellinore is the boat that has been detailed to place buoys and government lights on the river in this section. The Iris passed through the wagon bridge this morning, going down the river with a large load of lumber.

SNOW IN NORTHWEST
WINNIPEG, Man., May 1.—A heavy fall of snow was general throughout Alberta province yesterday, according to reports received here today.

LIVINGSTON, Mont., May 1
Snow covers the valleys in this section to the depth of four inches today. The farmers were complaining of dry soil and the unseasonable weather comes as a great relief.

A PRACTICAL LESSON
IN BALLOT VALUES

The spring election in Duluth resulted in a contested election regarding a high office, and the recount
showed that nearly all the ballots in
one precinct had been checked off
with lead pencil marks opposite the crosses made by the voters. As a result all these ballots were thrown out, and the election result was changed.

It doesn't matter whether the marking was innocently done by an election official, or was done design-
edly with the definite idea that a recount could be secured and the ballots thus tampered with thrown out.
The important thing is that the thing
COULD BE DONE, and that when done it ALTERED THE RESULT OF AN ELECTION.

That is the failure of any system
of voting in which the intent of the
voter is indicated by pencil marks.
It opens the way to the vitiation of
the election either by fraud or error, and it signally fails to protect the voter in his right to a voice in elections.

That is what the Coupon Ballot
obviates, and it will come back and
be used, sooner or later.

We note that in the current issue
La Follette's Weekly recognizes the value of the Coupon Ballot as a safe
way to overcome the objections to
the system of voting by mail.

FARM KNOWLEDGE

The new secretary of agriculture,
Prof. Houston, believes that the big job before his department now is to organize rural life so that country
dwellers may secure the benefit of
the vast amount of information and
scientific learning which for years has
been accumulating in the department.
This knowledge does not get distributed. The problem is to distribute
it. A knowledge of farming, practical farm credits, methods for marketing farm products—these are the things which must be secured to the farmer.

In order to further this work Secretary Houston has secured the services of Dr. T. N. Carver, professor
of economics in Harvard university,

to give his entire time and attention
to this work. "Rural Organization Service," is what the new work will be called and one branch of it will be the new division of markets for
which congress appropriated $50,000
last session.

"Marketing," said Secretary Houston, "is only one aspect of the great problem of rural organization. Other phases should be considered at
once. The general education board
has for years sought avenues for useful service to the people and has
now promised to co-operate with us
in the support of our farm demonstration work and this proposed rural extension service."

Organization will be conducted
around subjects which interest the particular locality. In one place it
may be roads, in another mosquitoes,
in another forestation or the protection of the range. The purpose is to bring the rural dwellers into cooperative unity. Money in plenty has been spent by the agricultural department for years in securing valuable information for farmers and it
is a sharp reflection upon one phase
of its efficiency that so little has reached the people it was intended to serve.

LET COUNCIL SEEK
PEACE AND PROGRESS

In the midst of a difficult situation
there is presented an opportunity for
members of the city council to do a patriotic duty. Of some members it
will exact suppression of personal
feelings and ignoring of slights, and
red-blooded men hate to "turn the other cheek." But if they would be respected by their constituents they
must ignore every consideration of
a personal nature and look ahead on
the broad pathway of public duty.

Mayor Sorensen has declared in
the most emphatic language that he is in favor of things that will build
for a growing city, a busy and prosperous city, a healthful city, a beautiful city, a city clean physically and morally.

For every one of these things
members of the council who supported another candidate for mayor declared themselves in the recent campaign. If they were for them then,
they certainly are for them now, and
to get them is the big achievement.
They can be secured ONLY BY CO-
OPERATION OF THE SOLID COUN-CIL AND THE MAYOR.

The Tribune believes justice demands that we take Mayor Sorensen
at his word, for he has spoken earnestly. It believes aldermen should not "lay for him" with hair-trigger
criticism, but should accept the situation and join hands in the attempt to make the administration worth while. Humans can't do this while their minds are filled with thoughts
of resentment, with factionalism of a personal nature. If we are to make history in La Crosse during the next two years, we must get together for
the community. Let every alderman
who has a grievance FORGET IT.
Bickering is a confession of disappointment—a smile is man's best fortification. After all, these personal misfortunes but strengthen us for life's real work. Let the test of action be, not whether the mayor is for
or against it, but whether it is sound
and good and honorable. That way
lies Greater La Crosse. If Ori J.
Sorensen leads in that direction, who
dare decline to follow him?

THE OTHER SIDE
OF THE STORY

That the people of California may
by legislative enactment violate an international treaty in no sense
proves that there is no justice in their contentions. Their side of the conflict does not fail to make an impression, and perhaps we cannot realize its real strength without
stepping into their shoes.

No doubt race prejudice is one
active motive in the minds of Californians, but prejudice seldom exists without something back of it.
For instance, back of what certain
people have been pleased to call
"class prejudice" in the United States is the trust question with all
its ramifications.

Californians claim that notwithstanding the coolie treaty cheap Japanese labor is flooding the country
districts of the state in the employ of wealthier Japanese who are gradually absorbing the land holdings,
and that the progress they are making warrants the fear that the whites
will shortly be dispossessed.

In Wisconsin we are friendly to
the Japanese, because we admire the
pluck of the aggressive little men,
and because we have no reason to dislike them. But when we consider the California situation let us trans-
pose the conditions and try to imagine how we would feel were Japanese rapidly acquiring the farm lands
of Wisconsin.

Drinking Song
Secretary of State Bryan serves nothing but soft drinks to the members
of the diplomatic corps at state dinners.—News Item.

Be our fortunes straight or bevel,
Let us riot, let us revel!
Let us fling care to—a person whom
to mention we decline.

Bring the flowing bowl, and fill her
To the brim with—sarsaparilla,
Or some other unfermented substitute for wicked wine.

Flushed with drink and fain of pleasure,
Tread we now a careless measure—
To the music of some hymn that
Doctor Watts or Wesley made.

Wreaths around our temples twine!
Let us sing of joys divine
Mounting in the ruby—grapejuice,
colored pop or lemonade.

Ever since the world began

—New York Evening Sun.

Daylight Economy
A girl from the country who had recently come to town to work and
who was busy all day went to a dentist one evening to have him extract a tooth which had been troubling her. She asked him what he would charge for the operation.
"Five dollars with gas, two without," was the answer.

"Oh," said the girl, "then I'll drop
in tomorrow and have it out by daylight."

He Was Butting In
That it is sometimes mighty easy
to get the truth if we ask for it was demonstrated the other evening by a story told by George Otis Smith, director of the geological survey at Washington.

One afternoon a philanthropic
party visited a public school in the poorer section of a big city, and while making a study of the conditions in
the knowledge factory thought it proper to ask the youngsters a few questions.

"Can any little boy or girl tell
me," said he impressively, "what is
the greatest of all the virtues?"

"Nothing doing. Every bright little face looked as if the mind back of it was doing a hard piece of thinking, but there was no reply.

"We will try it again," encouragingly said the philanthropist. "What
am I doing when I give up my time
and pleasure to come and talk to you
in your school?"

"I know now, mister!" exclaimed
Johnny Smith, raising his hand and snapping his fingers.

"Well, what am I doing, little
man?" smilingly asked the visitor.

"Buttin' in!" was the startling rejoinder of Johnny.

All-Absorbing Meals
A farmer who went to a large city
to see the sights engaged a room at a hotel, and before asked the clerk
about the hours for dining.

"We have breakfast from 6 to 11,
dinner from 11 to 3, and supper from 3 to 8," explained the clerk.

"Wa-al, say," inquired the farmer
in surprise, "what time air I goin'
ter git ter see the town?"—The Ladies' Home Journal.

Wouldn't Take Air
The bartender grasped the man
next the stove by the shoulder and
shook him until he was awake.

"Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd
better go out and get some fresh air.
It'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted drunkenly
and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again, with like result.

"You won't get out, won't you?"
he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the seat of the trousers, he escorted him
forcibly to the alley. "Get out there in the air and brace up," was his parting advice.

"Y' kin put me out if y' like, but"
—Zeph straightened up with drunken dignity—"ye can't make me take
no air, durn ye."—Everybody's Magazine.

Found More than All of Them
A city woman who recently passed
a few days at a farm bought some
poultry from the farmer with a view
to providing fresh eggs for breakfast
every morning. She sent them to town by messenger, at the same time
dispatching a note to her husband,
telling him to look out for the consignments. Her husband, on reaching his home that night, asked if the poultry had arrived. He was informed that it had, but explained the servant, he had carelessly left the basement door open and all the chickens had escaped. A fowl hunt
was immediately organized. The next day the husband, meeting his wife on
her return, exclaimed: "A nice time
I had with your poultry. I spent three hours hunting and only found
ten."

"You may consider yourself lucky,
then," replied his wife, "for I
bought only six."—Harper's Weekly.

The "Power Machine club" is the name of a unique organization advised by Mrs. Hilda Johnson-Haskins of Chicago. It is her idea to provide quarters equipped with "power" sewing machines, such as are used in factories, so that working girls may not only utilize the machines for making their own clothes,
but learn "operating," which would give them a broader opportunity to secure employment.

The Housewives' league of Detroit
has started a campaign to secure funds for the erection of a clubhouse
to be known as the Women's Building of Detroit. Profits accruing from a household and pure food show to be held May 5 to 10 are to be used as a nucleus for the fund.

SUICIDES WITH DYNAMITE
LADYSMITH, Wis., May 1.—
Blowing himself to atoms with dynamite, was the method of suicide adopted today by Peter Fluri, a farmer near here. Placing the explosive on the ground, Fluri lay down on the charge and watched the sputtering fuse shorten until the fulminating cap was exploded. An alleged quarrel with his wife is given as the reason for the deed.

FIGHT FOR KOPPE
GENEVA, Ill., May 1.—Attorneys for Harman Koppes, the 14 year old boy who confessed the murder of Mrs. Manny Sleep and her two babies, have begun the fight to save the boy from life imprisonment or a long penitentiary sentence. A motion to quash three indictments charging murder will be argued this week.

Afraid of the Draft
After passing the greater part of the evening with friends, John decided that home was the place for him,
and, arriving there, he elected to sleep in the front yard. Next morning, happening to look up, he saw his wife observing him from an open window. "Shut that window!"
he yelled. "Do you want me to catch my death of cold?"—Everybody's

Feet Cured Every Time by TIZ

Send at Once for Free Trial Package

Everyone who is troubled with sore, sweaty, or tender feet—swollen feet, smelly feet, corns, calluses or
bunions can quickly make their feet
well now. TIZ makes sore feet well
and swollen feet are quickly reduced
to their natural size. Thousands of ladies have been able to wear shoes
a full size smaller with perfect comfort. R. H. Cheney, Grundy Center, Iowa, says: "I put on a new pair of shoes the first of the week and have worn them every day since. I could never do this before using TIZ, and they are a half size smaller than I have been wearing."

TIZ is the only foot remedy ever
made which acts on the principle of
drawing out all the poisonous ex-
udations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog
up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out
and keeps them clean. It works right
off. You will feel better the very first time it's used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore
feet. Even if you should let yourself be fooled into taking a substitute for TIZ, you can't fool your feet.

Some whispered word of General Herbert's or the deputy's
reached them in the interval of silence that ensued. Then presently
in that silence they had both feared to break, the court-house bell rang
again. It was twelve o'clock. Elizabeth rose.

"I am going now, John," she
said, in a voice so low that he
scarcely heard her. "I am going home. You wish it—and you must sleep." She caught his hands and pressed them to her heart. "Oh,
my darling—good night!"

She came closer in his arms, and
held up her lips for him to kiss. The passion of life had given place to
the chill of death. It was today
that he was to die! No longer could
they think of it as a thing of tomorrow, for at last the day had
come.

"Yes, you must go," he said, in
the same low voice in which she had spoken.

"I love you, John—"
"As I do you, beloved," he answered gently.

"Oh, I can't leave you! My place is here with you to the very last—
do not send me away!"

"I could not bear it," he said steadily. "You must leave Mount Hope tomorrow—today—"
He felt her arms tighten about his neck.

"Today?" she faltered miserably.
Today—her arms relaxed. He pressed his lips to her pale cold lips and to her eyes, from which the light of consciousness had fled.

"General Herbert!" he called.
Instantly the general appeared in the doorway.

"She has fainted!" said North.
Her father turned as if with some vague notion of asking assistance, but North checked him.

"For God's sake take her away while she is still unconscious!" and he placed her in her father's arms.
For a moment his hand lingered on the general's shoulder. "Thank you,
—good-by!" and he turned away abruptly.

"Good-by—God bless you, John!"
said the general in a strained voice.
He seemed to hesitate for a moment as if he wished to say more,
then as North kept his back turned on him, he gathered the unconscious girl closer in his arms, and walked from the room.

North remained by the window,
his hands clutching the bars with convulsive strength, then the wind blew fresh and strong in his face brought him the sound of wheels; but this quickly died out in the distance.

"I am going to lie down and see if I can get some sleep," North said, throwing off his coat. "If I live."

The Just and
The Unjust

By Vaughan Kester

As he listened to these sounds,
from somewhere off in the distance
he heard the shriek of an engine's
whistle. They were coming now if they came at all! In spite of himself, his hope revived. To believe that they had faded was out of the question, and the beat of his pulse
and the throb of his heart quickened.

He endured twenty minutes of
suspense, then he heard voices;
Brockett threw open the door, and Elizabeth, white-faced and shaking, was before him.

"John!" she cried, with such
anguish that in one terrible instant
all hope went from him.

His soul seemed to stand naked
at the very gates of death, and the vision of his brutal ending came before his burning eyes. Words of protest trembled on his lips. This
endured but for an imperceptible
space of time, and then that larger space which was not for himself but for Elizabeth, took him quickly to
her side.

"John—" she cried again, and
held out her arms.

"Do not speak—I know," he said.
Her head drooped on his shoulder
and her strength seemed to forsake
her.

"I know, dear!" he repeated.
"We could do nothing!" she gasped.

"You have done everything that love and devotion could do!"
She looked up into his face.

"You are not afraid?" she whispered, clinging to him.

"I think not," he said simply.
"You are very brave, John—I shall try to be brave, also."

"My dear, dear Elizabeth!" he murmured sadly, and they were silent.

Without in the corridor, an occasional whispered word passed between General Herbert and the deputy.

"The governor would do nothing,
John," Elizabeth faltered at length.
"I understand, dear," he said
tenderly.

"He would not even see us; we went repeatedly to his house and to
the capitol, and in the end we saw
his secretary. The governor had left town; he never intended to see us!"

To reach this end—when nothing
can be done—"Her eyes grew wide
with horror."

He drew her closer, and touched
her cold lips with his.

"There is one thing you can do
that will be a comfort to me, Elizabeth; let your father take you home!"

"No, no, I must stay till morning, until the day breaks—don't send me away, John!" she en-
treated.

"It will be easier—" he said. Yet his arms still held her close to him, and he gazed down into the upturned face that rested against his breast. It was his keen sense of
her suffering that weighed on him
now. What a wreck he had made of her life—what infinite compassion
and pity he felt! He held her closer.

"What is it, dear?" she asked.
But he could not translate his
feelings into words.

"Oh, if there were only something
we could do!" she moaned.

"Through all these weeks you
have given me hope and strength!
You say that I am brave! Your love
and devotion have lifted me out of
myself; I would be ashamed to be a coward when I think of all you have endured!"

He felt her shiver in his arms,
then in the momentary silence the
court-house bell struck the half-
hour.

"I thought it was later," she said,
as the stroke of the bell died out
in the stillness.

"It is best that you should leave
this place, dearest—" he said.

"Don't send me from you, John—
I can not bear that yet—" she implored.

Pitifully and tenderly his eyes
looked deep into hers. What had
she not endured for his sake! And
the long days of effort had terminated in this last agony of disappointment; but now, and almost
mercifully, he felt the fruitless
struggle was ended. All that re

DEFEAT

By LOUISE OLNEY

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Tired, dirty in his mechanic's clothes, Jim Foster swung out of the shop just in time to meet the chatting stream of down town closing time. He would not have minded that—but he almost ran into Ellie, who was listening so intently to a paper young fellow bending over her that she did not see Jim at all. It was bitter not to be seen by this pretty thing with her big, tired eyes and delicate air.

Jim turned to look after them. He knew contemptuously that he made a day nearly as much as such fellows did in a week. Why didn't they get a man-size job? And what could girl see in, say, the specimen Elton now walked with? It was a cheap, new, a cheaper dance, a lunch and then as a treat—but what yet? And, at the end, what did girl get? She only cheapened herself, wasted her time. This fellow, Perry Benson, could never make a home—probably it hadn't ended his head that she needed one, that any able-bodied man should port at least one other than himself.

This latter idea was part of Jim's life. Now, as he swung toward the little house in the suburbs, a house that would be his with a few more installments, he took off his cap and let the May blow through his heavy black hair. The wind felt good on his face and he liked the children running in the streets as he got further from the center of the city, and playing baseball and old ladies leaning back from belated calls at the edge of town. That was he had bought there—it was a disorderly and run down place on vacant lots trim little houses were going up. His own life was a made-over one.

He unlocked and entered his little back door and washed precariously to lighting the little gas stove and getting his own supper. He hadn't minded getting breakfast and supper when he had a good noon-day meal down town. The home cooking had been a temporary sort of thing—a make do. He had planned to have a wife to have things cheery and ready for him some day.

He heated a can of beans and made some coffee and cut the baker's bread and tried not to see Ellie's face in the purely imaginary chair opposite him. He had never intended choosing her anyhow. Her face just sort of put itself there from time a few months ago when he had gone into Bascom's linen department to buy some towels. She had sold them to him, and her fragility and sweetness and a certain reserve and gravity made him remember that he had found himself buying things from her a few days must have been in a doz. always for some trifle put away and called himself for getting.

His supper was without flavor. He recalled that a month ago he had met her on the street one and had asked leave to walk with her. She shrank and he had had some ado to prove that he meant no harm. Of he should have found some to introduce him—he had known his speaking to her was not very friendly. Finally, she let him come very frank and pleasant, but disinclined to let him come. He liked her for that. Work was not always so careful they made acquaintances.

But this is not what took the flavor from his picked-up meal. After meeting with her he had found that who did know her—it was a chance, too, of a sort which he had

ed. He never went to the Dream-On Dances, but Bom Merrill fairly bullied him into entering one night. And almost the first girl face he saw pass him was that of Ellie. He had gone hot and cold and angry. Then he remembered that her goings and comings were not his to regulate.

Bob had a dance with her and Jim watched them, wondering that she had come here. Didn't she know better? She would meet men that should not even know of her existence. He waited for the wait to end and presented himself for an introduction. After that he had danced with her a few rounds and then asked to take her off the floor.

He proceeded to talk to her like a brother. It was a frank talk. He went too far, he knew—he lectured her. And, since she had avoided him. He had been twice to see her and she refused to appear—at least he thought she did. The woman said she was not in, but he was sure that he caught a glimpse of her on one of the times. Now he ate and mentally went over what he told her.

His warning had been to the effect that she was too good for this sort of thing; that she was in danger of being misjudged, making bad acquaintances; that she was too delicate and should be outdoors in the air. Finally her silence irritated him and he insisted in taking her home forthwith. She had come with a group of others and got off on the plea of a headache. But she had not promised not to go again. And—here she was with that worthless Perry Benson—and what business did he, Jim, have with her, after all? He asked himself that, and answered that he must be crazy. He would put her out of his mind.

After he had tidied up and mended a place in the fence, he thoughtfully put on his good clothes and went down the street for a walk. All roads led to Ellie, and he found himself going in the direction of her boarding house. He rang the bell, asked the hard-faced woman who answered for Miss Cadwell, and waited. Would she see him? Why did she avoid him? He only wanted a walk with her—she had walked with him a few times. He seemed to see her childlike face beside him, her fair head not up to his shoulder, and to hear her gentle, precise little speeches. Once he had called forth a rippling laugh out of her seriousness.

"She's out," was the woman's answer. Jim simply turned and went down the steps and into the twilight. He hated the gas lamp at the corner, and the children and the boys playing hide and seek. He was sick of everything. And now he knew what ailed him—he was in love, like any goose of a youth; he, twenty-six years old and in his senses on other subjects! And, probably, she was off to a dance with that fellow Benson! Probably she was like all the rest—probably she was not the girl for him; but he couldn't think so. His thoughts clung to her, all that was protective and affectionate in him went out to shelter her.

He turned a corner sharp and without warning ran squarely into some one—a woman—no a girl, by the soft, alarmed "Oh!" of fright and pain. He caught at and saved her from falling, trying to excuse his unpardonable blindness. Then he saw who it was.

"Oh, Ellie!" he said, using her first name. "Oh, Ellie!" He was ready now to be quiet and good. He had mentally accepted his defeat. She had plainly showed she didn't care for him, so he would be simply friendly. Looking down at her now, wondering that she did not speak, he perceived to his amazement and dismay that she was crying. Tears ran down her cheeks. He put a hand under her arm and protected her down the street lest passers should note her distress.

"Oh—did I hurt you, Ellie. I'm a great stupid brute, as well as a fool! I chafe after you when I ought to see that you just can't love me! I couldn't help loving you—I wanted to take care of you. I lectured and interfered because I—wanted to take care of you. I—"

She drew her arm from his and stopped short to look up at him. Her face fairly shined through the tears. Her voice was a revelation. "Oh!" she breathed. "Oh! you—really—care? And—oh, couldn't you understand—that I cared too from—the very—first?"

He had no words for a moment. She—cared! The thought made him silent and dizzy and dumb and inebriated happy. He drew her very close as they walked along the way. Then he whispered what made her hold her breath for joy. She was to be a wife. She was to have—a real home.

FISHING SEASON IS OPEN TODAY

Mississippi River Field for Sportsmen of Rod and Reel; Many Parties Out

Fishermen of the city who have had the idea that the season for catching game fish did not open until June 1, will miss the best part of the time allotted them for the sport, if they do not turn to the game and fish laws of the state, and find that at 12 o'clock last night, the lid was decidedly off for the catching of the fighting variety of the finny tribe.

The law reads that all game fish may be caught in the Mississippi river and adjoining sloughs, between May 1 to March 1. In the vicinity of La Crosse are several lakes, that are but juts from the Mississippi river, and these have been in doubt, as legal fishing grounds. Rice Lake, French Lake, Goose Lake, Round Lake and Broken Gun stream, are fishing places, according to game wardens.

Expert fishermen state that everything points to an excellent season for the catching of game fish this year in the Mississippi, as the water conditions have been just right for the fish to stay in these waters. Several fish fans from the north side, seizing opportunity by the forelock, left their homes at midnight, to await the rising of the sun. Several parties who returned at a late hour report good catches.

NEAR RIOT AT PROBE

LAST NIGHT'S SESSION OF ILLINOIS SENATE VICE COMMISSION DISTURBED BY UNRULY CROWD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 1.—The Illinois senate vice commissioners are not through with their investigation of wages in Springfield factories, Lieut. Gov. O'Hara announced today, in spite of hostile demonstrations at last night's session.

"The opposition that developed here was unexpected, but it has aroused our fighting blood," said the young lieutenant governor, "we have uncovered some interesting facts and we intend to stop in Springfield every once in a while and give them a probe."

Some of the "interesting facts," O'Hara referred to were obtained from the testimony of Mrs. Ella Morris, a little woman with pallid face and drawn features, who testified after policemen had quieted an unruly crowd and instructed C. F. Mortimer and Arthur Fitzgerald, two young attorneys, who interrupted the proceedings, to sit down or leave the room. Mrs. Morris, a widow, told a story of hardship and a struggle to support herself and a little baby on wages earned at the factory of the International Shoe company; of sickness that resulted, she said, from conditions under which she worked, and of alleged harsh treatment by a foreman.

WILSON MAY BE AT PEACE MEET

S. LOUIS, May 1.—There is a strong possibility that President Wilson will attend the fourth annual peace congress for Saturday night at the Ideon instead of Secretary of State Bryan, who is detained in California, according to a statement today by James E. OUST DOWIE MAYOR

ZION CITY, Ill., May 1.—Criminal prosecution was threatened by followers of John Alexander Dowie today to regain possession of the reins of government in Zion City. W. H. Clendenin, Dowieite mayor, who has held office for a week, was ousted yesterday by an independent board of elections that threw out all the ballots of two Zion City wards, declaring they were mutilated. As a result Johnson, anti-Dowieite candidate, was declared elected by 46 votes.

BOX MAKERS TO HOLD A MEETING

Charter Membership List of Union to Be Closed; Employers Favor the Plan

Local Organizer of the Trades and Labor Council John Rae will preside at a meeting of the box makers of La Crosse tonight with the endeavor to have all box makers join the union, before the charter is closed, which takes place tonight.

Officials of the box companies of the city look favorably on the plan of a union organization of the workmen, as they say that in their opinion, it will tend toward making a uniform and higher price for their output, which will allow them to charge more, and pay their employees more.

The men employed in the box companies here favor the plan of organization, and it is expected that a large number of them will join the union tonight.

The present contracts with workmen, held by the companies here will not expire for nearly a year, and nothing in the way of a change in wage scales will be made until the contracts expire.

I Would Be Absolute.

And the first thing I would do in my government, I would have nobody to control me. I would be absolute; and who but I. Now, he that is absolute can do what he likes; he that can do what he likes, can take his pleasure; he that can take his pleasure, can be content; and he that can be content, has no more to desire; so the matter's over.—Cervantes, "Don Quixote."

TOMORROW IS THE DAY TO PLANT

Arbor Day and Fire Prevention Exercises Are Planned in the Schools

Tomorrow being Arbor day, the public schools of La Crosse will observe it with special exercises. The Arbor Day Manual has been sent to all the public schools from Madison and this will be read to the children. Some of the schools are planning to plant shrubbery and small trees in the school yards.

In his Arbor day proclamation Gov. F. E. McGovern requested that along with the exercises there be held fire drills in the schools. In some cities in the state the public schools will observe Fire Prevention day, under the direction of State Fire Marshal T. M. Purcell and W. E. McCullough, president of the state Fire Prevention association. The fire marshal has requested the mayors of the state to assist in a campaign for fewer fires.

The schools of La Crosse have fire drills frequently at intervals throughout the year, and will not have any special exercises at this time.

OADAMS LECTURES AT CHURCH TONIGHT

Personally photographed views of Ian MacLaren's famous Scottish glen will illustrate Rev. T. S. Oadams' lecture on "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" at the First Methodist church at 8 o'clock this evening. Concerning this lecture Rev. Oadams treasures the following testimonials:

Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus, D. D., of Chicago, wrote: "Armour Institute greatly appreciated the excellent lecture of Rev. T. S. Oadams. Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush, and the students and faculty wish it the success it deserves."

Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D. D., the great Brooklyn preacher says, "I have known Rev. T. S. Oadams all my life. He is capable of great things. His lecture, Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush is entitled to the best patronage."

A New Cure.

A doctor whose practice lies mostly in the country districts was recently called to attend a plowman's boy, whom he found to be suffering from whooping cough. Among his instructions he told the mother to "put some ice in a bag and tie it around the boy's head." Next day he called again and was met at the door by the guidwife, who, in answer to his query, replied, "Aye, Jockie's a heap better the day, but the mice are a' deid."—Dundee Weekly News.

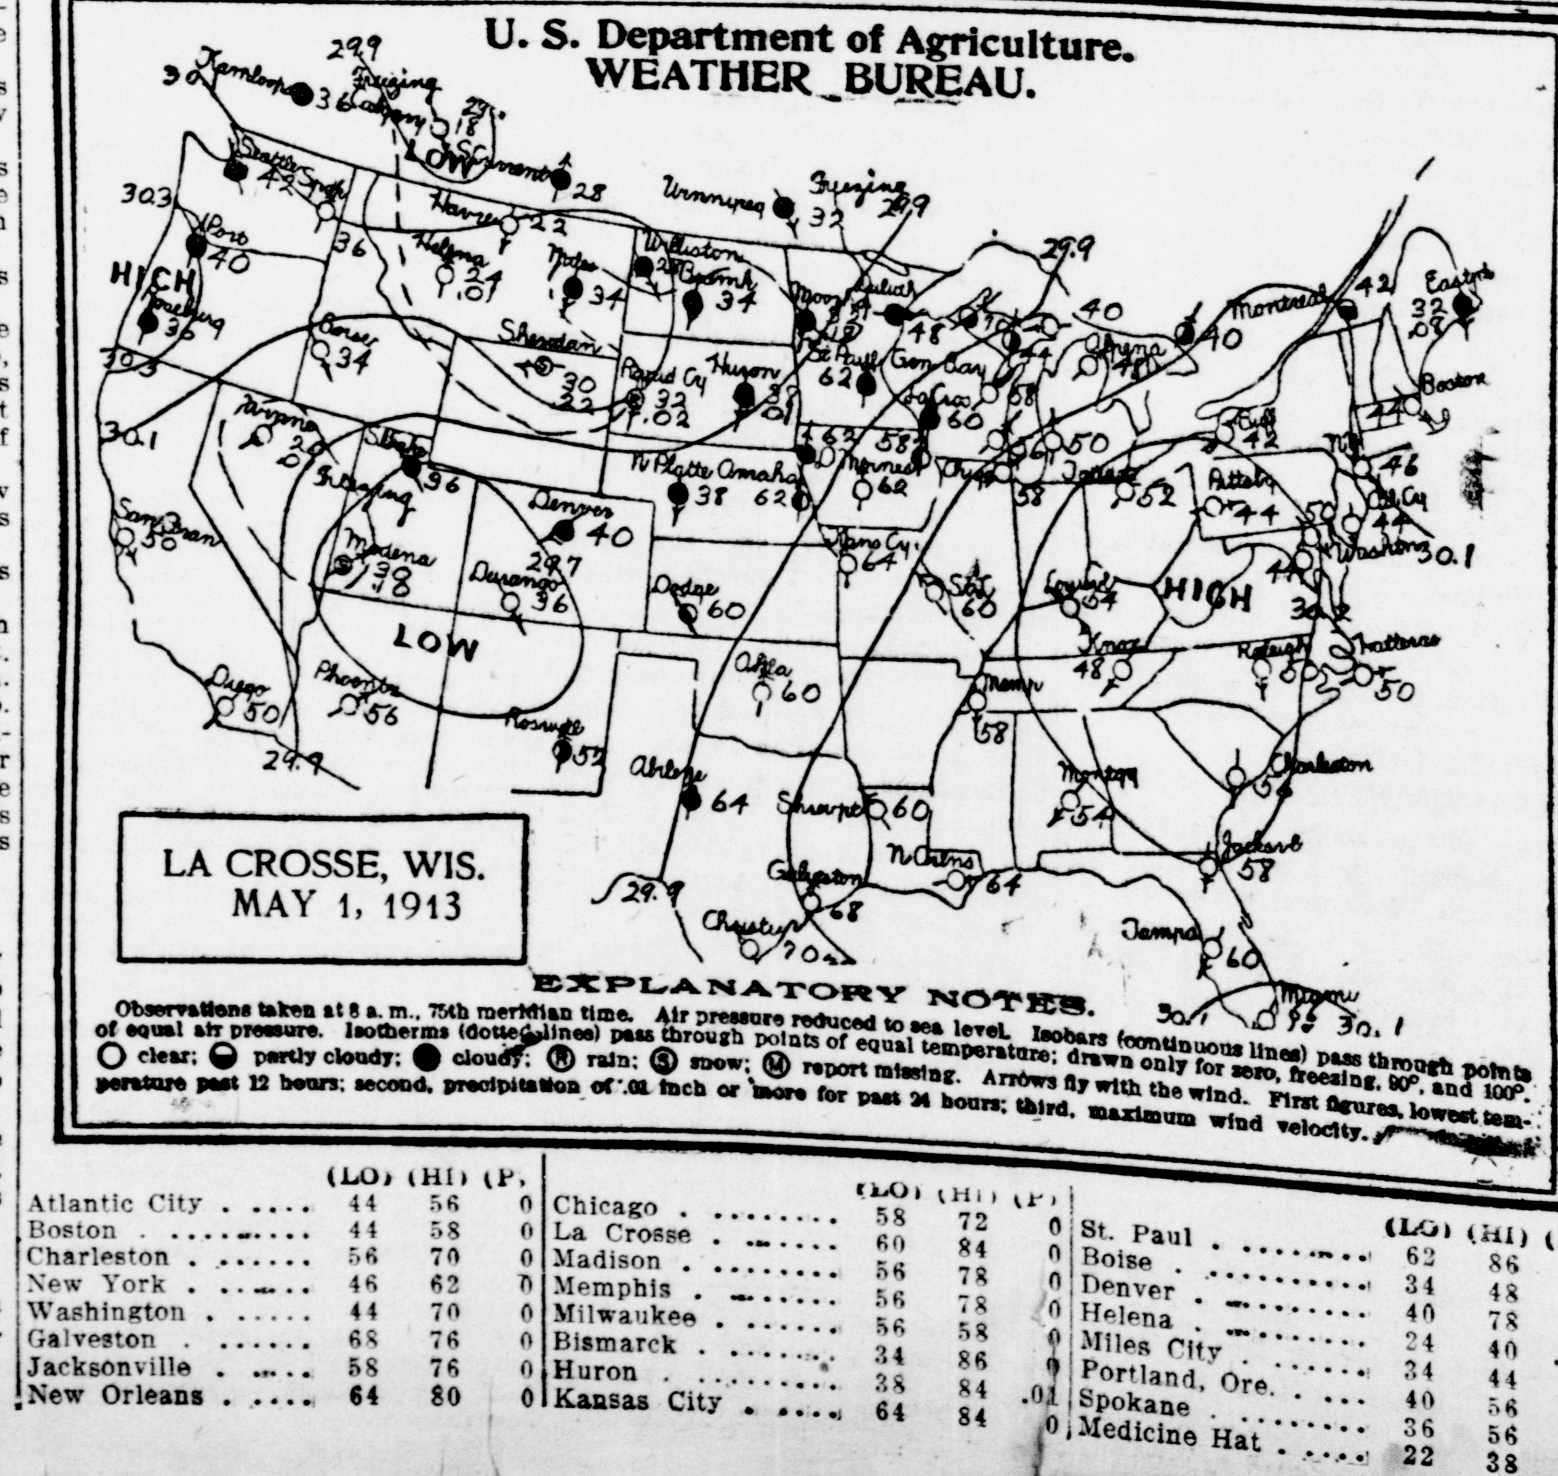

Parsees.

The Parsees refuse to burn or bury the bodies of their dead because they consider a dead body impure, and they will not suffer themselves to defile any of the elements. Hence, their "Towers of Silence," 50 or 60 feet in height, on which the bodies of the dead are left to be devoured by the vultures; the bones afterward being thrown into a receptacle and covered with charcoal.

MAY CLOSE DEAL IN A WEEK

Far Reaching Advertisement for La Crosse and
Good Investment Is
the ArgumentA vigorous campaign will be waged
on the south side by the members of
the factory site committee of the board of trade to raise the necessary
$10,000 for the purchase of the sixty-four acre tract on the north side,
half of which will be sold in lots and
half of which will be reserved for
free factory sites for incoming industries. This was the decision of the directorate of the board of trade at a
noon day luncheon at the LaCrosse
Club yesterday. The meeting was attended by President William Doer-
finger, Vice President E. S. Heberd, Secretary J. L. Utermoehl and Directors Frank Sisson, John C.
Burns, C. P. Thompson, L. H. Martin, W. F. Goodrich, A. P. Funk,
George Linker and William Hickish.Substantial Support
The movement received substantial support at the meeting in a subscription of $1,000 in $100 and $200
blocks from the directors present.
More than half of the $20,000, the
purchase price of the tract, has now
been subscribed, the greater part by residents of the north side. The movement was conceived by John Salz.A committee was appointed to take
the matter up with the business men
and capitalists of the city and this
committee will report at another
meeting of the directorate of the board next Tuesday. The committee
is as follows: John C. Burns, W.
F. Goodrich, George Linker and J.
L. Utermoehl. Several of the other directors volunteered to assist the committee in the sale of stock.A strong argument in favor of the purchase of the tract of land was made by several of those present. It
was argued that the tract made an
ideal site for factories being located
on the Black river and touched by two trunk line railroads. It is also
within easy reach of the street car
service and is amply protected against
fire. Water and electric power service will be installed as the necessity arises. It was pointed out that free sites to incoming factories will
be a far reaching and valuable advertisement for the city.Good Investment
The contention was made that subscriptions for the stock are in no
wise donations but are the best kind
of investment. It is the plan of the board to sell half of the tract in building lots and it is expected that
nearly the entire purchase price of
the tract will be returned to the investors in this way. Ninety percent of the payroll of workmen on
the north side, more than a million
dollars a year, is spent on the south
side, so that any movement tending
to increase the laboring population
of this part of the city is directly
beneficial to all La Crosse.Hans Company First
The Hans Motor Equipment company, which will be the first to occupy the new site in a $20,000 factory built by the Industrial association this summer, is swamped with
orders and will be compelled to add
a large number of men to their payroll. The company is making such strenuous endeavors to fill their orders that they have one machine now
operating under a canvas tent. A large factory space is imperative immediately.It is the hope of the committee
that the balance of the stock in the factory site proposition will be subscribed within the next week.
The directors endorsed the Chau-
taqua which will be given in La Crosse July 12 to 20 under the auspices and for the benefit of the Associated Charities and volunteered to dispose of 100 tickets for $2 each.

You no longer need to "doctor"
that sallow, freckled, blackheaded,
rough, blotchy, pimply or over-red
skin. You can remove it, instead—easily, painlessly, inexpensively. By a new scientific process, which any-
one can use without assistance, the
dead and near-dead surface skin,
with all its imperfections, is gently,
gradually absorbed—and a radiant
youthful and beautiful complexion
comes forth! Go to your druggist,
get an ounce of pure mercolized wax;
at night apply enough of this to completely cover the face; don't rub it in. Next morning remove the wax with warm water. The result after a few days is astonishing. You wonder why this secret wasn't discovered long ago.Let the wrinkled folks also take hope. Put an ounce of powdered sax-
olite into a half pint witch hazel,
bathe the face in the solution and—

this lotion, as well as mercolized
wax, works equally well on neck and

Original Charter of Company Allows a Fifty-five
Foot Head of WaterFearing that the extra head of
water, which will be raised at Hat-
field dam by the ten foot flash
boards now being installed by the Wisconsin Railroad, Light and Power company, will menace the safety of Black River Falls, the citizens of that
city may seek recourse in the present
legislature to prevent the company
from completing the work of height-ening the dam. Because of the fact that the original charter of the company building the dam allows a fifty-
five foot head of water and the present dam is only fifty-two feet high
from the base of its foundation, the
complaint of the Black River Falls
citizens cannot be taken to the courts. If any action is taken it must be by new or special legislation.The fact that Merlin Hull, speaker of the house, is a resident of Black River Falls adds to the strength of
the complaint and may result in the attention of the legislature being called to the Hatfield dam situation
before adjournment.
Remembering the disastrous flood
of two years ago in which the entire
business portion of the city was swept
from existence the citizens of Black River Falls declare that the light
structure which is being built on top of the dam may be the cause of a repetition of the former ruin.The water power company, on the other hand, takes the attitude that
any sudden rise in the waters will
be amply taken care of by the opening of the large flood gates that have
been installed in the rebuilt structure. They point to the fact that the retaining wall on one wing of the
dam was swept out in the former
flood, allowing the back water in the entire lake out at once. The retaining walls have been rebuilt so that it is hardly possible for the accident
to be repeated and have been further safeguarded with flood gates.The ten foot flashboards will give an additional 5,500 acre feet of water in the reservoir and materially
increase the power at the dam. If the
water rises to the top of the flash
boards it will be fifty-five feet deep
at the dam.Invigorating to the Pale and Sickly

W. T. IRVINE, JewelerGIRLS! GIRLS! SURELY TRY THIS DOUBLES BEAUTY OF YOUR HAIRAll you need is a 25 cent bottle of "Danderine"—Hair gets lustrous, fluffy and abundant at once.Immediate! — Yes! Certain! — that's the joy of it. Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant
and appears as soft, lustrous and
beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try
this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it
through your hair, taking one small
strand at a time. This will cleanse
the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil
and in just a few moments you have
doubled the beauty of your hair.
A delightful surprise awaits, particularly those who have been careless, whose hair has been neglected or is scraggy, faded, dry, brittle or thin. Besides beautifying the hair, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff, cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use of Danderine, when you will actually see new hair—
fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair, and lots of it; surely get a 25
cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine

Hamilton takes his true place, not as a lesser, inconsiderable light, but as one of the powers to be consid-

McAdoo Says Uncle Sam
Has Lost 30 Millions
in Sixteen
Years

NEW YORK BANKERS REFUSE

Say Government Has No Right to Expect Interest on Active
Accounts

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Uncle Sam has lost $20,610,381 during the last sixteen years. This assertion was made today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, in amplifying today the reasons which led to his issuance of an order requiring the national banks to pay interest on government deposits. He said: "If the national bank depositors had the government had been required to pay interest on their average balances at the rate of 2 per cent per annum, the net revenue of the government would have increased during this period by the sum of $20,610,381. "It appears that no interest was paid by the banks on any government funds whatsoever until the passage of the Aldrich-Vreeland act in 1908, which provided for the collection of interest only in certain special and inactive accounts, and the total interest thus collected up to January 1, last, amounted to only $713,406. "If the national banks had paid interest on their government deposits during Cleveland's administration for the years 1893-1896, a good rate of interest which the government would have collected during these four years would have been only $2,919,218, as the government deposits during that period were not large."

NEW YORK, May 1.—The national banks of New York handling government deposits of government money will refuse to pay interest on active accounts as ordered by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, according to officials today. None of the officers of the big financial institutions, however, was willing to be quoted positively as antagonistic to the treasury department's program.

The consensus of opinion advanced by half a dozen leading bankers that the government had no right to expect interest on active accounts, against which checks were being drawn.

NO FEAR OF JAPS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 1.—When Andrew Carnegie demanded all who were not afraid of Japan to get on their feet, 1,500 delegates to the Fourth American Peace congress responded in an instant. "Some one in the audience had uttered a challenge demanding that Carnegie did not believe that the United States was afraid of Japan." The chairman followed the ironmaster's statement that the government had a navy to withstand any international war.

Be Married; Shoe
Thieves Sentenced

George Van Courtland, 365 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary at Waupun by Judge John Brindley in county court today pleading guilty to a charge of attempted burglary in the night. Van Courtland was captured by Patrolman Frank Groeschner early yesterday morning in the act of entering Knut Knutson's grocery store through a transom. A gunny sack and a slingshot was found in his possession when searched. Van Courtland pleaded with District Attorney D. S. Law today to show him leniency claiming that he was to be married within a few weeks if he was not sent to jail. John Donahue, John Callan and John Hall were found guilty of stealing several pairs of shoes from the Dahl shoe store today and sentenced to the county jail. Donahue drew forty days, Callan forty-five days and Hall fifty days. They will be just five days apart when released. They are said to have sold the stolen shoes to several persons in the city.

REFUSE DEMANDS FOR HIGHER PAY

Eastern Roads Turn Down
Request of Conductors
for Better
Wages

NEW YORK, May 1.—The managers of the fifty-two eastern railroads today flatly refused to grant demands for increased wages and modifications in working conditions made by the conductors and train men employed on the lines. In a letter to representatives of the train men, the managers declare: "The wages and working conditions, which you request would increase the pay of the 100,000 conductors and trainmen for service now rendered by approximately 17,000,000, or 20 per cent."

It is expected that further negotiations between the representatives of the employers and managers will be arranged.

Money Matters.
In all money matters a fair start is essential, and there should be a clear understanding about it from the first. Begging for money is undignified, to say the least. A girl's parents should arrange this matter for her before she is married, and also that of her own personal expenses, that she may not have to go to her husband every time she wants money.—Phoebe Wardell.

Strange Custom of the Harem.
Every woman in the harem has her face decorated in the most curious manner. The practice is to elongate the eyebrows to the ears and to embellish the chin with little points of black paint. In contrast with the men, their complexions are very fair, as they are shut within walls and are never exposed to the sun.

Just a Billville Opinion.
"We are so fond of worry," says a Billville philosopher, "that if we ever reach paradise we'll worry about having to fly too high and sing too often. We once knew a man who spent his lifetime trying to find out what he had to worry about!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Plaything of Fate.
"Fate is a funny thing," says the Philosopher of Folly. "I know a man who was driven to writing poetry by having a girl jilt him. His next sweetheart jilted him when she read the poetry."

One Kind of Declaration.
"I love you, Estelle," he continued, "for of my soul. I loved you through opera-glasses at the opera. . . and I shall love no one else."—"Women I Have Loved," by Henry Drane.

Beef of 1889 Still Fresh.
R. Whymper, writing in Knowledge, mentioned that a piece of beefsteak which his uncle, the late Edward Whymper, the Alpinist, sealed up in a vacuum in 1889, is still in a remarkably good state of preservation.

Hard Work Called For.
One of the popular song demonstrators was making more racket than usual the other day in one of the big stores, his voice reaching far beyond its usual limits. A sales woman in another department, seeing one of her customers wince at the terrible vocal noise, explained: "You see he got to a little late this morning and has to sing loud to catch up."

KICK TO WILSON ON TARIFF DUTIES

Protesters Against Free
Wool and Free Sugar in Conference with the President

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The first concerted assault on the free wool and prospective free sugar schedules of the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill came today. With President Wilson sitting as judge and jury, the democratic senators from the intermountain and north Pacific coast states presented their arguments against these clauses. Dire predictions of disaster to the industries were made to the executive.

The conference was arranged by Senator Newlands of Nevada. He came to the president last week and told him that he had been deceived in the statistics presented to him; that a small revenue duty on wool and the elimination of the free-sugar-at-the-end-of-three-years clause from the sugar schedule of the bill would save millions of small investors and at the same time would have no appreciable effect on the president's plans to reduce the high cost of living to the common people.

He arranged to have three hours set aside today when the senators associated with him could tell their stories to the president.

GUNDLACH GOES INTO REAL ESTATE LINE

Edward Gundlach, manager of the Western Hammock company, has resigned his position in the factory to go into the real estate business with William Haffner at Conrad, Mont. Mr. Gundlach left for his new field of business Tuesday evening. Both Mr. Haffner and Mr. Gundlach are well known in the younger business circles of the city, and have gained the reputation of hustlers. They have secured options on a large amount of land in the vicinity of Great Falls and Conrad and expect to open a real estate exchange in the latter city. Mr. Haffner also has a large ranch near Conrad which he is operating. Mr. Gundlach will return in the fall to attend the November meeting of the county board of supervisors of which he is a member, representing the twenty-first ward.

FRAUDULENT ADS SUBJECT OF LECTURE

A large number of business men attended the La Crosse Ad club illustrated lecture which was given in the Longfellow school building last night. The subject of the lecture was "Fraudulent Advertising." Land swindles and patent medicine advertisements were given a severe arraignment by R. D. Fentress who delivered the lecture. Considerable time was devoted to the best course to be pursued in the raising of advertising standards in La Crosse.

Socialism and Religion.
My whole religion is not socialism, but Christ. The difficulty which the church feels in contact with most of the socialists of the day, with many, indeed, of the workmen even when they are not socialists, is that they are ruled by certain social ideals, concerned especially, though not exclusively, with the exaltation of their own class.—British Congregationalist.

Woman Less Valuable Than Man.
Personal admiration never turns a woman's head as it does a man's. She is not naturally vain like a man, and compliments after a time become too much a matter of course to disturb her equilibrium. If she is pretty she is already aware of the fact, without being told it; if she is not, she has sufficient imagination to believe that she is.

Remedies for Minor Accidents.
When children go barefooted accidents are almost sure to occur. If a rusty nail is run into the foot use a piece of fat salt meat, binding it to the wound. This heals the wound in a few hours. If the foot is badly injured with flesh torn, while severe, there is nothing that effects a cure more speedily than an application of arnica or turpentine, the latter for small scratches.

The Ways of a Watch

The ways of a watch are past finding out. Don't try. If your watch is lazy and won't run, let your repairer spur it up—he'll make it on time to a dot. Ten to one you've neglected it—let it get dirty, or rusty from lack of oil. Whatever the reason, don't delay—delay costs money and spoils the watch. We give thorough examination and regulating free—anything more costs as little as satisfactory work can be done for.

Carnegie Ridicules Country's Defenses in Speech

LAUGHS AT THE INVASION BODY
Ironmaster Declares Invading Army Would Stay
Here as Settlers in Any Event

Pointed punches for peace from Andrew Carnegie's speech: "If three or four leading nations combined, constituting as they would an overwhelming force, unbroken peace would almost certainly be assured. This is the easiest and speediest method of attaining international peace. The greatest heroes are those developed by peace. President Wilson will prove to be a man of sound judgment and his career will be to guard our country from present obvious dangers, consigning imaginary dangers to that future in which so many of our imaginary troubles vanish. No armed nation or combination of nations is so foolish as to dream of invading this country. No power could or would attempt to land and march inland. If any did the number left to answer the roll call would be small indeed. Thousands might decide to stay in the great west and work and save until they could buy a farm. We would turn invaders into citizens. If a man wished to select the safest life possible, the one free from all danger of violent death, let him enter our army or navy. There will never be occasion for war if this country simply treats all nations with justice and friendliness. Our military and naval expenditures exceed $300,000,000 every year—about $1,000,000 every working day—a ruinous insurance price for supposed security from invasion from which we have been free for 100 years and which today is impracticable. Men who refuse today to walk abroad without lighting rods down their backs with ground connections because men have been struck by lightning, would be counterparts of those who fear invasion."

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—In an address punctuated with satirical comment upon the life of tranquility enjoyed by the United States army and navy and ridicule for those sponsors of militarism who see the danger of war in every international controversy, Andrew Carnegie today opened the fourth American peace congress in this city.

Army and Navy Safe
The grizzled "ironmaster" in his favorite role of America's foremost exponent of world peace, paid his respects to the army and navy by declaring them the avocations involving the least risk any man can enter. He ridiculed the idea that any of the powers has the slightest desire to go to war with the United States, and declared that there never would be occasion for war if this country will simply treat all nations with justice and friendliness.

"Little do our people realize," said the speaker, "the cost of what is called national defense against imaginary foes of unduly frightened army and navy officials, doomed to live peaceful days, and spend their lives dreaming of active life which they are destined never to experience. 'Not one admiral or captain, not one officer in our army or navy was ever engaged in war, never fired a hostile shot, if we except the petty skirmishes involved in our taking Texas from Mexico and expelling Spain from our continent. No nation has attacked us successfully. 'If a man wished to select the safest life possible, the one free from all danger of violent death, let him enter our army or navy. There is not a workman attending machinery or erecting buildings, or a railway train employee or a policeman—the soldier of civilization whose duty is never to attack, but always to protect—not one, but runs far greater risk of sudden death or injury than the soldier or marine of our country does today."

"There is little danger of any of these ever seeing war, thank God. They will only have to parade. The chivalry, the heroism of war is gone. To shoot from a warship at unseen foes ten miles distant or shooting from under cover at a foe a mile distant, is not conducive to the growth of the heroic. "With war clouds lowering over all Europe and Secretary of State Bryan on the Pacific coast unable to attend on account of the California Japanese situation, men and women of national and international reputation as leaders in the cause of betterment for humanity today assembled at the Odéon, in the peace congress. Representatives of the nineteen nations planned a concerted effort to prove to the world the uselessness and waste of war, and not only the waste of war, but the enormous burden of war preparations. Complete disarmament was the aim of all speakers.

WATER COMMITTEE TO ORGANIZE TODAY

The special water committee of the common council will hold a meeting in the office of Mayor Ori Sorenson this afternoon for the purpose of organizing for the term. Although no definite announcements have been made it is the talk in the city hall that Alderman Bert Smith and Adam Kroner are candidates for the office of chairman of the committee. There has not yet appeared any opposition to Alderman Paul Mahoney for the position of secretary. Mr. Mahoney has been secretary for the last two years, ever since the water plant was started.

ALLEGED THIEF ARRESTED

August Stone, who said he came from Chicago, was arrested by Patrolman Emil Last, last night, on a charge of stealing a pair of shoes from the Paulson shoe store yesterday. The shoe company complained to the police that the shoes were stolen and word from a downtown saloon that a stranger had changed an old pair of shoes for new there shortly after furnished Patrolman Last with the clew for the arrest.

Clever New York Advertiser.

There is a shopkeeper in New York who is a firm believer in the saying "Sweet Are the Uses of Adversity," as well as in the proverb of it in which the last word is changed to "advertisement." A glass show case outside the store was broken into and depolled the other day and now it has a sign on it which reads: "All men want our goods; when they haven't the price, they steal them."

Proof.

"Do you think," said the intellectual young woman, "that there is any truth in the theory that big creatures are better natured than small ones?" "Yes," answered the young man, "I do. Look at the difference between the Jersey mosquito and the Jersey cow."—Life.

Bad Manners Are Expensive.

No policy pays like politeness. Bad manners are the most expensive luxuries in the world. Good manners go further than letters of recommendation—like the gold standard, they are current the world around.

What Joy.

VOICE SUFFRAGETTE INDIGNATION
OVER DESTRUCTION OF QUARTERS

LONDON, May 1.—If Mr. Reginald McKenna, home secretary of Great Britain, thought that the militant suffragettes would tamely submit to the demolition of their headquarters, he is fated to revise that opinion. So said the bash-bazoukesses today, when they began a country-wide campaign of retaliation.

They burned to the ground a coach-house and stable at Mendon and the boathouse and a score of craft were burned at Hampton court. At Plymouth numerous shop windows were smashed, and suffragettes placarded the city with this sign: "You have razed our headquarters, but you cannot stop militancy without giving votes for women."

From a dozen other cities and towns came reports of broken windows and damaged property.

The road will deduct each month from the salaries of the members whatever percentage is desired, and will invest the money in Soo line securities.

THE LAND OF Opportunity for La Crosse County people is not away off under the rainbow, but closer at home, in Northern Wisconsin. The profit in farming is largely in the increase of value of the farm. You buy when cheap and you hold till it becomes valuable. Lands are cheap in Oneida County, but are steadily increasing in price. At the same time these lands are as fertile as the best La Crosse County lands. There is no trouble to prove it. This argument is not used to crow over you but to induce you to buy some of our lands. The fare to Rhinelander is about $4.25 each way. Why not slip up here and see what we have to offer. Write or wire to Crosby Land Co., Rhinelander, Wis. 4 28 5 10

GAS COMPANY IS REBUILDING PLANT

Will Spend Nearly $150,000 in Improvement Work Here This Spring and Summer

WILL DOUBLE ITS CAPACITY

Manager Owens Declares La Crosse Will Have the Best Service in the Northwest

Nearly $150,000 will be spent by the La Crosse Gas and Electric company in the improvement and enlargement of their plant this year. The work of remodeling the gas manufacturing plant, which will cost about $125,000, is already well under way and will be completed in a month. About $20,000 will be spent on the extension and replacing of gas mains throughout the city and it is the hope of the company that before fall La Crosse will have one of the best gas services in the northwest.

To Double Capacity. The capacity of the manufacturing plant will be doubled when the new "water set" is installed. The present retort room, the 250,000 cubic foot storage tank and the relief tank are the only parts of the present plant that will be retained. The rest will be entirely new. The main building will be a brick and concrete and steel structure 135 feet long and 23 feet wide. It will lie adjacent to a new elevated railroad trestle which will be built for the handling of coal. The 150,000 cubic foot tank will be thoroughly overhauled and repaired. The present coal sheds and office and meter rooms will be torn down and replaced by new buildings.

To Improve By-Products. According to an announcement by Thurston Owens, general manager of the company, the gas company will devote more attention to the by-products than has been done heretofore. The tar, which is used for dyes, naphthalene, paving and roofing materials and many other purposes will be of the highest grade because of the modern machinery which will be installed in the plant. The quality of the coke will also be greatly improved. The by-products of a gas plant are one of its greatest sources of revenue and the La Crosse company intends to develop this branch of the trade.

The price of coke will reach its lowest ebb during the month of May this year instead of June, said Mr. Owens today. "It will sell for $5.50 a ton in May. It is $7 a ton now."

The plans for the remodeled plant were prepared by the special engineers employed by the Kelsey-Brewer company, of Grand Rapids, Mich., owners of the gas company stock.

DIAZ DENIES HE PLANS UPRISING

MEXICO CITY, May 1.—Denying reports that he was planning an uprising against the Huerta provisional government, General Felix Diaz declared today he would never take arms against the present government or violate any of the conditions of the pact made with President Huerta. The Diaz followers now hope that congress may pass a special election law and call a presidential election at an early date. At the regular election of presiding officers of the chamber of deputies, the Diaz faction named a full slate. Action favorable to Diaz is hoped for.

LOGGERS SUFFER IN FOREST FIRE

REMIDJI, Minn., May 1.—A destructive forest fire is raging today east and south of this city. Heavy damage has been done to logging companies in the vicinity of Remer and Lake George. A severe windstorm reaching the proportions of a tornado fanned the fire yesterday and early today it was reported to be sweeping toward Bemidji. Estimated damage already done run as high as $500,000.

FIGHT IS TAME

NEW YORK, May 1.—Luther McCarty, heavyweight title claimant, did not arouse a great deal of excitement today as a result of his ten round bout with Frank Moran of Pittsburgh, last night, but he started something when he walked into his hotel in fighting togs and his bathrobe following the bout.

Pitching duels now being in order, Gregg and Baumgardner staged a tight battle. Gregg popped in the eighth, but Baumgardner was steady and the Browns won 2 to 0.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Chicago, 4; Cincinnati, 3.
CHICAGO, May 1.—The Cubs won their fifth straight game when they defeated Cincinnati 4 to 3 yesterday. Two home runs by Mitchell and Bridwell were responsible for the victory. Score: R H E Cincinnati . . . 001000002—3 6 1 Chicago . . . 00002200X—4 5 1 Batteries: Suggs and Clarke; Pierce and Archer.

Brooklyn, 5; New York, 3
BROOKLYN, May 1.—After trailing behind the Giants for six innings yesterday Brooklyn landed on Ames, giving them a 5 to 3 lead. The game was tied in the seventh and the Yankees won 5 to 3. Score: R H E New York . . . 110001000—3 11 1 Brooklyn . . . 10000040X—5 9 1 Batteries: Ames, Randall and Meyers and Wilson; Ragon, Allen and Miller.

St. Louis, 6; Pittsburgh, 1
PITTSBURGH, May 1.—The Pirates could not hit Pitcher Steele and were beaten yesterday by the St. Louis Cardinals 6 to 1. Steele was given splendid support, the outfielders making sensational catches. Robinson was severely punished during the three innings he lasted. O'Toole was stronger, but the game was lost when he went to the rescue. Score: R H E St. Louis . . . 013010001—6 10 1 Pittsburgh . . . 000000001—1 6 1 Batteries: Steele and McLean; Robinson, O'Toole, Perry and Kelly and Simon.

Boston, 2; Philadelphia, 1
BOSTON, May 1.—After tying up the game in the ninth inning yesterday the Braves came through with the winning run in the eleventh and defeated the Phillies 2 to 1. The visitors scored their only run in the third. Score: R H E Philadelphia 0010000000—1 7 2 Boston . . . 00000000101—2 9 3 Batteries: Johnson and Ainsmith; Plank and Lapp.

Boston, 8; New York, 1
BOSTON, May 1.—Tommy Hudson, a local bantam, at the Windsor Athletic club, Hudson lasted five rounds in a fight that was stipulated to go eight.

DETROIT, Mich., May 1.—The White Sox again defeated the Tigers

Watching The Scoreboard

Another shutout for Walter Johnson. He has now pitched four games and allowed but one run. He has blanked his opponents in thirty-five consecutive innings, the only run being scored in the first inning of the first game pitched.

Brooklyn still stands as the Giant jinx. McGraw broke his own rules and was chased from the game by Rigger as a part of the entertainment. Meantime the Cubs are still going. They took another from the Reds. The Pirates dropped into the second division when they lost to the Cardinals while Brooklyn was walloping the Giants.

Bedient might have had a shutout against the Yanks but for the disposition of the Red Sox to boot the ball about the field after two men had hit safely in the ninth. Detroit lost again.

8 to 3. The locals outthit the Sox 12 to 11, but Cicotte seemed to be just fooling while Dubuc was much in earnest. He pitched hard, but was hopelessly ineffective and his support was very ragged. The third, fifth and ninth innings were the only ones in which there wasn't a Sox hit. Score: R H E Chicago . . . 102101210—8 11 2 Detroit . . . 010000110—3 12 3 Batteries: Cicotte and Schalk; Dubuc and McKee.

St. Louis, 2; Cleveland, 0
ST. LOUIS, May 1.—Gregg and Baumgardner battled eight innings yesterday before a run came across. In the local's half of the eighth singles by Johnson, Williams and Stovall, mixed with Pratt's single, won for the Browns 2 to 0. Score: R H E Cleveland . . . 000000000—0 6 2 St. Louis . . . 000000002—2 5 0 Batteries: Gregg and Carrisch; Baumgardner and Agnew.

Washington, 2; Philadelphia, 0
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 1.—Washington beat the Athletics yesterday by the score of 2 to 0. Shutting out Philadelphia gave Johnson a record of thirty-five innings without a run being scored against his delivery. Johnson fanned ten men while Plank struck out twelve. Score: R H E Washington . . . 000000002—2 6 2 Philadelphia . . . 000000000—0 4 3 Batteries: Johnson and Ainsmith; Plank and Lapp.

Boston, 8; New York, 1
BOSTON, May 1.—Tommy Hudson, a local bantam, at the Windsor Athletic club, Hudson lasted five rounds in a fight that was stipulated to go eight.

REFUSE TO LIMIT TIME OF SESSIONS

Senate Refuses to Concur in Axel Johnson Assembly Resolution

MADISON, Wis., May 1.—(Special.)—The senate went on record last night against limited legislative sessions by refusing to concur in assembly resolution, introduced by Axel Johnson for a constitutional amendment looking to 120 day sessions. The vote was 15 to 9. The various political factions were hopelessly split on the proposition. Senators Scott, Linkley, Randolph and Teasdale favored it because it called for a submission of the question to the people. Senators Burke, H. C. Martin, Skogmo, Rosehard and Hastings were for unlimited sessions, taking the stand that tight rules on length of sessions would lead to ill-considered legislation, and they desired to see Wisconsin remain in the front rank of states known for her thoroughness.

NORMALS HAND DEFEAT TO HIGHS

In the first of a series of games the normal school baseball nine defeated the high school boys last night at the normal field by a score of 7 to 5. Copious hitting by both sides was the feature. King and Allen being both landed on for long drives. The batteries were: Normal, Allen, Bartels, Christian and Griffin; high school, King and Roeder; umpires, Weigent and Moore.

DETROIT, Mich., May 1.—"Easy money" was Champion Johnny Coulton's only comment today on his fight last night with Tommy Hudson, a local bantam, at the Windsor Athletic club. Hudson lasted five rounds in a fight that was stipulated to go eight.

TO COMPROMISE SCUTARI AFFAIR

Powers Agree to Antivari Seizure Pending Negotiation with Nicholas

LONDON, May 1.—At today's consultation of the ambassadors, at the foreign office, it was said that a compromise would be reached in the Scutari problem, the balance of the powers agreeing to participate with Austria-Hungary in the seizure of Antivari, in return for the dual monarchy's agreement not to take further action than that for two weeks, pending negotiations with King Nicholas.

Diplomats regarded the situation as much more hopeful and the boursing of Berlin, Paris and Vienna were more nearly normal than at any time since the Montenegro affair loomed on the horizon.

With the powers firm in their demand that the little kingdom give up Scutari, with Austria-Hungary making warlike preparations and Italy and Germany urging Montenegro to yield, it was feared that King Nicholas would do only so long as the defying is gold, and then submit to the general demand and evacuate Scutari.

An interesting factor in a peaceful solution of the difficulty is the kaiser's desire to complete a quarter century of peace. In short time he will have ruled through twenty-five years during which Germany has not been at war, and is said that he is making heroic efforts to stay the hands of Austria in order to round out his cherished record.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 1.—The great powers today decried a joint note to the sublime Porte demanding the immediate cessation of hostilities in the Balkans, the point of Ottoman peace delegations and announcement of Turkey's choice of city for negotiations.

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

A-MAYING

By MARY ALLEN DECKER
Copyright, 1933, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"Oh, that we two were Maying!" The words came softly through open windows of the tiny cottage set far back from the road.

"Oh, that we two were Maying!" followed the same words in masculine tones and to the same music.

Russell Barr stopped suddenly at the gate and listened. Yes, it was a duet; another voice sang it with Caroline's. He felt a wave of disappointment over his whole being. So Caroline had so far forgotten as to be able to sing with some one else the song they had loved so well—the song they had sung together so happily.

He continued to listen, and the old melody took him back five years and made his heart ache. Caroline had told him she would wait for him even if he did not return for years. With her promise in mind he had sought the small village he had left for the diamond mines of Africa. Caroline still lived in the cottage on Crescent road with her mother; that much he learned at the postoffice. Now he wished he had not come. He could not bring himself to enter the garden and rattle the old brass knocker when he realized that Caroline could sing "Oh, That We Two Were Maying," with another man.

Retracing his steps he found the little hotel and buried himself in a magazine. When he retired he could not sleep; he felt too bitterly the disappointment of the evening. He would leave in the morning and Caroline would never know that he had returned.

From his chamber windows he watched a glorious spring sunrise, for the village hotel was not surrounded by high buildings. He thought of the date—it was the first of May. How often he and Caroline had gone a-Maying! How often they had filled baskets with the early spring flowers to hang on the doors of their young friends' homes. He remembered even the tiniest details of their Maying parties—the dew drops on Caroline's pink cheeks when she had buried her head in the sparkling blossoms.

The spring was far advanced, and it occurred to Russell that he might—before he shook the dust of this old home village from his heels forever—go out to the woods and seek some Mayday flowers. He could not sleep, so why not revive a custom now becoming only a memory to him? It seemed the irony of fate that he should go alone, but it was better than this lonely thinking in a hotel bedroom.

The fresh, sharp air of the first morning of May sent thrills of new life into him as he wound his way along the village pathways to the outskirts of the town. His step was light, his head was held high and a brilliant color began to radiate through the bronze of his cheeks.

If it had not seemed too much like a boy, Russell Barr would have yelled for joy when he spied the first tiny anemone among the leaves. He bent to pick it, and his eye caught sight of many more. He found, too, little clusters of Sweet William and here and there a purple or a yellow violet. He gathered them all and held them in a tight bouquet. He was not artistic and he never could arrange flowers, but it occurred to him that they used to gather violet leaves to surround their basket bouquets with. This he did, and when he had a handful of flowers and leaves he stood quietly in the lonely woods and looked about. The birds twittered in the boughs above his head and the sun made sparkling jewels of the dew on the leaves.

His flowers gathered, he felt lost. What could he do now? He had no basket, and if he had possessed one he would hardly have dared to hang it on the door of the girl he loved—now!

Slowly he found his way out of the woods and, almost without knowing it, he was returning to town by the road that led past her cottage. As he drew near the thought more seriously of hanging the flowers on her doorknob. It would be a silent farewell and she might even guess who did it. When the gate was in sight he determined to leave the flowers for Caroline. Impulsively, he took off his hat and let the flowers tumble into the crown. Then, treading as lightly as he could, he ran along the path to the steps and, laying the hat with its message of spring on the doorstep, he shook the knocker and ran, bareheaded, away.

Not for years had he felt so buoyantly foolish. Here he was—a man nearly forty—running bareheaded through the village street before 7 o'clock in the morning. Fortunately, uncovered heads were the fashion in the village and he need not be conspicuous because of his loss of hat.

Caroline, in her little last snooze before rising, heard the knocker of the front door. Being curious, she slipped on a kimono and went down stairs as quietly as possible to peer through the sitting room windows.

"Oh!" she exclaimed aloud when she saw the blossoms peeking over the hat. "It's Mayday and I haven't had a basket for years!"

She slipped out to the porch and picked up the odd offering. Curiosity, wonderment, then a fleeting shadow of memory passed through her thoughts. Why did Mayday always make her think of Russell Barr? She was fast leaving the springtime of her own life—and all such sentiments as she had entertained for him—and yet his memory became so poignant when spring came creeping over all the world that she sometimes wondered if he might not one fair day in May return to her.

Caroline looked at the hat. She took out the flowers and looked within. "R. B." were the initials in the leather band. It was—it must be he!

She almost ran upstairs to dress. If he had been so close he would surely come again. Humming softly, she found a dainty morning dress and arranged her hair with unusual care. She must look her best if he chanced to come her way.

After breakfast she could not remain away from the windows, and every step outside made her start. Noon came and she did not see nor hear of him. At last, after lunch, she decided to go to the postoffice. She must do something to keep from screaming with impatience. Why did he not come?

The village was small and it was only natural that she should meet Russell Barr on the main street. They came face to face and he put out his hand eagerly. "Caroline!" he said.

Caroline gave him her hand, and her heart pounded wildly as he grasped it warmly in his. "Your new hat is—becoming," she said, laughingly.

He turned and caught her step. "You—got it?" he asked.

"I did—my first basket for years," she said.

"Yet you still sing the old duet. 'Oh, That We Two Were Maying,'" he said, pointedly.

Caroline's cheeks suddenly turned scarlet. How did he know what she had been foolish enough to do?

"I passed your window last night and heard you singing it with—some one else," he said, his voice breaking. "I could not go in and interrupt you so—well, I was sending you those Mayday flowers as a farewell, Caroline."

Caroline found laughter the most appropriate thing for the situation.

"Oh—if you won't tell anybody, I'll tell you about that duet. You know how I always loved it—"

"How we loved it," Russell corrected.

"Very well—how we always loved it? After you went away I grew hungry for a sound of it, and the first time I went to the city I hunted up a music store and did not rest until they had promised to have a record of the duet made, so that I could put it on the machine, and at least hear it. It came; and often I would sing with the record, but—I did not know last night that you were anywhere near this part of the world. Neither did I know that my voice would sound above the soprano's voice—I—"

"You are going right back home, now, and play that thing on the piano for me. Throw the record away—smash it—do what you like with it, but, oh, Caroline, I feel as if I could sing with all the joy in the world, now that you can sing with me. Will you? I'll tell you all about these five years—later."

And as Caroline sat down on the old plush piano stool to run her fingers over the keys of the piano, Russell took her hands in his own, as he stood behind her, and, bending over her, asked:

"Oh, shall we two go a-Maying, dearest?"

GEORGIA LADY'S INVESTMENT

Of Five Dollars, Worth Fifty Dollars to Her Now.
Read Following Letter.

Headwig, Ga.—"I suffered untold agonies for five or six years with womanly troubles," writes Mrs. Della Long of this place. "Could not sit up but a few minutes at the time, and if I stood on my feet long, would faint."

I took $5.00 worth of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and it did me $50.00 worth of good. I can do my work, now, all the time, and suffer but very little.

I am recommending Cardui to my friends, and shall continue to do so. You may use this letter in any way you wish."

Its 50 years of wonderful success proves that as a tonic for weak women, you could find nothing of greater benefit to you than Cardui. It is a woman's tonic—a strengthening medicine for women made especially for women, from ingredients which act specifically on the womanly organs and thus help to build up the womanly constitution.

You are urged to try Cardui if you are weak, tired, nervous, worn-out, or suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak women, such as headache, backache, dragging pains, pains in side and other symptoms of womanly trouble.

Judging from the experience of thousands of others, Cardui is sure to help you.

TO HANG TWO

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., May 2.—John Medley, a negro, who has fought his case from the circuit court to the United States Supreme court during the five years since he was first sentenced to death, will be hanged this afternoon for the murder of Nellie Shannon, a white woman, on July 4, 1928. Medley was baptized in his cell immediately after the United States Supreme court affirmed the decisions of the circuit court. John Hix a white man, who killed Mrs. Mollie Thompson, a widow, when she refused to marry him, also will be executed today.

FREE GRAND OPERA PLANNED FOR PARK

New York to Supply the Masses with Best of High Brow
Music

NEW YORK, May 2.—Real grand opera in the parks, with first class singers, chorus and orchestra, and free admission to everyone able to get within vocal and aural range of the performers is the latest scheme of the New York park commissioners for the entertainment of the masses this summer. They say it is a logical evolution of the park band concerts which are held during the summer in every city of size in the country. According to William J. Lee, supervisor of recreation parks and playgrounds, the father of the movement, the plan has matured to the point where all that remains is the engaging and rehearsing of the company.

"It is the greatest innovation in recreational enterprises that the city has ever known," declared Lee. "It is something absolutely new and it is just what the people have wanted and needed for many years. At last every working man and woman will be able to see and hear the greatest operatic works performed by a first class company, with all the accessories of necessary scenery and costume."

And right here is where the great est feature of the enterprise comes in. The performances are to be given on a new sort of movable stage with special acoustic properties, the invention of one A. Floryn. This stage, which looks something like the band stand shells, can be moved easily from one park to another if necessary, and it is so constructed as to carry the voices of the singers and the orchestral music far out over the heads of a great open air crowd. The stage is fully fitted with scenic apparatus and is hooked up, of course, with the city's electric lighting system.

BABY TOLL HIGH

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The annual death toll of babies—an average of 113 to every thousand, before they are one year old, or eight times the total death rate of all others combined—was told in census bureau statistics for 1911, made public today. The figures are based on returns in the registration area, comprising twenty-two states. Statistics for all the states are not obtainable, but those given are taken as an average for the nation as a whole. Industrial states and cities lead in the dn of infants, with Fall River, Mass., leading the country with a rate of 239.5 for every 1,000. Seattle, Wash., with a death rate of 78.5, has the lowest rate.

Bunny Told the Tortoise to Go Home.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— It's a Poor Tortoise— That G't Be Broken sometimes.

EVYLYN had been told that it was bedtime, but she coaxed to be allowed to stay up until she had finished the picture she was painting.

"When Evelyn starts anything she doesn't like to stop till it is done," Jack said.

"H'm," remarked daddy; "that reminds me of a story of the tortoise."

"The tortoise bragged that when he began anything he never stopped until he had it finished. That might be a good plan sometimes, but it's not wise to make a rule that you never break."

"One day the tortoise as he was crawling along through the woods came to an old half rotten tree trunk."

"The tree trunk was covered with mushrooms, and when he saw them the tortoise smacked his lips, for he was very fond of mushrooms."

"So he climbed up on the tree trunk, and he began to eat and eat."

"I won't stop," said he, "until I get them all eaten." And he gobbled so fast that it looked as though it might not take him long.

"Just then Mr. Rabbit came hurrying along. 'You'd better stop right home and hide,' Mr. Rabbit cried; 'the dogs are out hunting.'"

"Mr. Tortoise didn't stop eating. 'Do you see all these fine mushrooms?' he asked."

"Very foolish of you," Mr. Tortoise answered. "You'd better stop and have a bite with me. You can't tell when you'll come across nice mushrooms like these."

"I don't care," Mr. Rabbit said. "I'm afraid if I stop the dogs will get a bite at me. Come along, Mr. Tortoise. It isn't safe for you to stay there. You may get killed."

"No," replied Mr. Tortoise obstinately; "I've said I wouldn't leave here until I'd finished the mushrooms, and when I say a thing I keep my word."

"All right," answered Mr. Rabbit. "There come the dogs. I'm going."

"The dogs rushed up, looking for Mr. Rabbit. They looked inside the old hollow tree on which the mushrooms grew, and they couldn't find him."

"Then they looked on top of the tree, and they found Mr. Tortoise."

"Hoory!" they barked. Then they grabbed the tortoise and pulled him off the log and shook him and bit him until he was sorry he had ever seen those mushrooms."

"Poor Mr. Tortoise, the hunters got him, and I'm sure if he hadn't been dead he would have agreed that it was very foolish of him not to have broken his rule that time."

SELLING SERVICE IS OUR BUSINESS

To be successful, we must, like all other manufacturers, maintain a standard of quality and deliver goods at reasonable prices.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFULLY DARKENS THE HAIR WHEN FADED AND GRAY

Hair Soft, Lustrous and Cures Dandruff

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product—called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—

you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's" which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant. O. T. Erhardt, agent.

Mr. Carl Henry and Miss Jennie Walker were quietly married at Winona last week. Both are well known in this vicinity. Mr. Henry is well known in baseball circles and generally follows that profession as pitcher, during the summer. They will reside in St. Paul.

The work on the new bridge over the Lemonweir river is progressing favorably. The work on the coffer dams being completed. Mr. Gannock of Eau Claire, who has the contract, has had difficulty in securing laborers. Mr. David Williams and family of Auburn, Wash., are expected to arrive in Tomah this week and will visit his parent's home on Kilbourn Ave. Mr. Williams is enroute for Baltimore, North Carolina, where he will represent the Western Telegraphers at a convention to be held there. Miss Hazel Shaw visited her brother, William, at Milwaukee on Saturday and Sunday. Mesdames R. W. Williams and J. Newland enjoyed the Welsh Singers concert at Bangor on Tuesday evening.

Housewives: Make this simple test!

Get a can of Rona Dutch Cocoa from your grocer's. Compare it with domestic cocoa this way: Use only one-half a teaspoonful of Rona Cocoa to the cup while you use a teaspoonful of the other. Use only half as much sugar to the cup of Rona. Then add boiling water. Now compare the rich, chocolate flavor of Rona Dutch Cocoa with the color and taste of the domestic cocoa. That's the test that proves the superiority of

VAN HOUTEN'S RONA DUTCH COCOA

You'll find that Rona Dutch Cocoa dissolves instantly—that it has no sediment. That's because of the Dutch process. You'll also find it smoother, richer, finer. And the cost is much less because you use only one-half a teaspoonful to the cup. A 25c can makes 4 cups.

Get Rona today at your grocer's. Make this test, madam, just to convince yourself that Rona Dutch Cocoa has a richer, finer chocolate flavor. Two sizes—10c and 25c.

Quick, Easy and Positive Cure for All Foot Torture

The following is said to be the surest and quickest cure known to science for all foot ailments: "Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of Calocide compound in a basin of warm water. Soak the feet in this for fully fifteen minutes, gently rubbing the sore parts." The effect is really wonderful. All soreness goes instantly; the feet feel delightful. Corns and callouses can be peeled right off. It gives immediate relief for sore bunions, sweaty, smelly and aching feet. A twenty-five cent box of Calocide is said to be sufficient to cure the worst feet. It works through the pores and removes the cause of the trouble. Don't waste time on uncertain remedies. Any druggist has Calocide compound in stock or he can get it in a few hours from his wholesale house.

TRAIN HOSPITALS URGED BY BILL

Measure in the Assembly
Would Force All Trains
to Carry Medical Supplies

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—(Special)—All railroad trains in Wisconsin will be required to carry medical supplies for use in case of accident if the bill presented by Assemblyman Peter J. Murphy of Manitowoc county, is enacted into law in accordance with the transportation committee's recommendation made yesterday. The bill provides that in each car there shall be a box containing two rolls of bandages, septic gauze and medicated cotton for the dressing of wounds. Dr. C. A. Harper, secretary of the state board of health, appeared for the bill and said that in many cases where railroad men are injured wounds are bandaged with pieces of dirty linen. Such dressing often leads to blood poisoning. The bill was recommended for passage.

The committee also recommended the Holmes bill giving the railroad commission power to investigate dangerous railroad crossings and order protection on its own motion. Likewise it recommended the Holmes stock and bond bill, which places railroad companies under the present stock and bond law. It also provides for companies making a detailed report of sales of stock and how the money is expended.

Two bills by Senator Teasdale for the enforcement of orders of the railroad commission were recommended for concurrence. One applies to public utilities and the other to transportation companies. Both are similar in that they provide that all orders of the commission shall be the law until finally upset by the courts. The railroad companies must make an appeal from the commission's decision within 90 days. In case of a restraining order, the utility must furnish sufficient guaranty to make complete reparation to all public utility users for any damages that may have been sustained. This provision was incorporated as a result of a recent decision of Judge E. Ray Stevens in compelling the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company to issue a coupon ticket which shall be good for an additional ride if the final order of the commission reducing fares is sustained by the supreme court, where the case is now pending.

The committee recommended the Kneen bill prohibiting the duplication of telephone lines in rural districts except under orders of the railroad commission.

NO ONE TO ARGUE HEALTH BOARD BILL

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—Because neither side was ready to argue upon the Peavy bill creating a "state department of health," the hearing was postponed until Tuesday. The bill was introduced only this week and nobody seemed anxious to enter upon its analysis without more adequate preparation. President W. F. Whyte; Secretary C. A. Harper, and Dr. L. E. Spencer of the state board of health, were present to oppose it should it be called for hearing. F. O. Phelps of Milwaukee, Christian scientist, was also there in opposition.

Assemblyman Peavy stated that many physicians throughout the state would be on hand to urge the proposed reorganization of the board next Tuesday.

The bill greatly enlarges the personnel of the board, which by the terms of the bill is to be known as the state department of health.

COURT TO HEAR CHURCH SQUABBLE

WAUKESHA, Wis., May 2.—The case of Zachariah Williams against the Rev. R. J. Williams, and ten others, will come up before Court Commissioner A. J. Dep in this city next Saturday. The ght is over a church proposition, whether or not the plaintiffs shall be compelled to desert the old Jerusalem church, a short distance from Wales, to worship in the new church erected at Wales. About two weeks ago Court Commissioner D. J. CRITICIZES WILSON FOR APPOINTMENT

La Follette Finds Fault with Intended Removal of E. D. Durand as Census Director

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—President Wilson's determination to supplant E. Dana Durand as director of the census, by appointing William J. Harris, chairman of the democratic state committee of Georgia, is greatly deplored by Senator La Follette, in a signed editorial in his magazine today. This action, he says, "incurs the danger of casting the shadow of political prejudice across a great statistical work."

After discussing Dr. Durand's special qualifications as a statistician and scholar for the census head, Senator La Follette says:

"Political considerations were wholly disregarded in the appointment of Dr. Durand as director of the census. But he is one of the most advanced and progressive of the scientific men of the country, and for ten or fifteen years has been engaged in economic work as applied to government. Few men in the country have had better preparation and training combined with practical experience in these fields. As chairman of the senate committee on census, I personally know from my official relations with him that he resisted to the limit of his power every effort to introduce politics into the administration of the census bureau. With this supremely important work unfinished, it is a great disappointment to the friends of progressive government that President Wilson, through his secretary of commerce, has in effect demanded the resignation of Dr. Durand."

William J. Harris is president of an insurance company in Georgia, and has served as clerk to the committee on revolutionary war claims and afterwards as clerk to the committee on woman suffrage of the senate. Senator La Follette declares that Harris has had no scientific or economic training, and that "it is perfectly futile to say that mere business experience can be substituted for scientific training in the administration of this bureau."

POLO PONIES HERE

LONDON, May 2.—The English ponies to be used by the British polo team which will play the American team for the international polo championship in America next month, arrived here today. The best polo ponies of the empire have been gathered for the event. They will be sent on shipboard tonight and leave tomorrow morning for America, where trainers will condition them. A wealthy New Yorker is said to have given use of his stables for the ponies. Several in the number are worth from $5,000 to $12,000. Two were brought all the way from India and some were purchased in America, especially for the coming championship. The English team will sail four days after their mounts leave.

FAIR ASKS STATE AID

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—Because more than one fair association in the same county is not entitled to state aid without a special act of the legislature, the Oconto Falls Inter-Township Fair association is asking the legislature for this grant. Assemblyman Robert G. Sharp of Oconto, urged its favorable consideration before the finance committee. A special enactment would enable the Oconto Falls fair to draw the same proportion of state aid as the present incorporated fair association at Oconto. Because of the law limiting state aid to one fair in a county, Secretary of State Donald was compelled to reject the Oconto Falls application for state aid.

WANDERING WAISTLINE OF MODERN WOMAN

NEW YORK, April 26.—It has been recently alleged by one of the most noted French artists and designers of women's dress that the American woman is the best-gowned woman in the world, and most of us will agree with the French designer. Women of this continent show much originality and artistic ability. They refuse to adopt models which fail to add to their charm, beauty and comfort. This was made plain when a French house, a year or two ago, tried to place the divided skirt on the market. It was the American woman who voted it down, and that so decidedly, and with such strong protest against a fashion so bizarre, that the house in question has not attempted a similar thing.

extremely popular. Simplicity is the characteristic of these waists. Many of them are made without any trimming whatever, others have a bit of embroidery, a front ruffle of lace, rows of hemstitching, or a few inserted medallions.

Some of the simpler models of sheer fabrics are closed in the back and have a firmly cascaded nounce down the front; others, on kimono lines, have much fullness in front and back of bodice and about the under-arm. A youthful model is that with deeply-dropped shoulder extending almost to the elbow, from which place a bishop puff continues to the wrist. Another effective novelty in blouses is that known as the "epaulet." When combined with Bulgarian embroidery it is particularly smart. This multi-colored embroidery may be used for the epaulets, high rolling collar, cuffs, and, if desired, a lower yoke or applied section extending upward from the waist. The "pocket" blouse, developed in silk or linen, has perhaps already won more general acclaim than any other model. Its distinctive features are the pockets, one on either side, and front filled in by simulated vest trimmed with tiny buttons and developed in net, tulle or lace. Blouses of chiffon and lace are particularly notable for their simplicity. Some of these in chiffon are loosely pleated in half-inch side-pleats; under this pleating is placed chiffon of a different color, which in turn has a foundation of shadow lace. The sleeves in this style of blouse contain considerably more material than the sleeves of waists in general as, otherwise, a fabric of such diaphanous texture would scarcely survive one wearing. But none of the blouses of chiffon, no matter what the construction or the number of layers of material used, gives as good service as those made of stouter web. Those of net, lace, voile and crepe are much more practical. Since some waists have been accordion-pleated, manufacturers have applied their skill to the requirements and turned out materials in which the pleating is done in the weave. This is so firmly wrought that neither cleaning nor pressing removes it. Parquet, a soft woolen fabric with raised design, is the name of one fabric subjected to this treatment, while crepe, both cotton, silk and wool, has been similarly woven.

FIGURE ONE

It was the American woman, too, who set the fashion of the raised waistline. She would have none of the Empire style forced upon her, as this threw her out of proportion and accentuated the length of limb which, when properly treated, is one of her most artistic assets. Thus, because of her, it was decreed that what is known as the three-quarter line be adopted. For the last two years this line has been in favor not only throughout America, but throughout Europe.

But it is not in beauty of line alone that she excels. Her dress must combine comfort with beauty and charm, and in this, too, she is sartorially supreme. Her simple tailored suits, trim walking skirts, shirt-waist frocks and pleasing tub dresses outdo those of the women of any other country.

What could be more attractive than the frock pictured in the first figure. It was developed in figured agaric, having brown floral motif on a tan ground. The sash, of brown messaline, tied loosely at side-front, is a smart feature. The negligee appearance is not only attractive, but secures a degree of comfort unattainable by the close-fitting waist.

It is a mistake to suppose that shirt waists have gone out of fashion. They not only remain popular, but many are the new notes both of material and construction which are shown in summer blouses. Nowadays women realize that the summer sewing must not be delayed till the hot weather is upon us. This time must be left free to be spent out-of-doors.

Among the essentials for every woman, whether rich or poor, who would be comfortable during this period, for the same atmospheric conditions are felt in cottage and mansion alike, is an unlimited number of cool, suitable waists. These may be as dainty as can be afforded, but not too fragile to withstand frequent tubbing. To this purpose, dotted Swiss, striped and plain voile, wash silk, both in stripes, checks and plain grounds, Ramie and Irish linen, crepe, net, creamy-white satin and China silk, may all be used with most satisfactory results. From now until midsummer a few other materials may be added to the list. Chiffon, mousseline and lace, although very perishable, will continue to be

Very charming is the frock in the second illustration. It was developed in Futurist summer silk, having white ground overlaid with blue motifs. Collar, front insert and cuffs are of white satin. A bit of drapery and slender lines bring the skirt smartly up-to-date. Assurance that present fashions are in no immediate danger of change will be welcome to many women. The women of society, whose lead the majority follow in fashion as in many other things, advocate the slender silhouette. The plain one-piece gown, either unrelieved by color or brightened by the merest touch of Bulgarian embroidery or silk, has come to stay.

ASSEMBLY O. K.'S LINLEY'S BILL

Act Providing Cities Can Purchase Street Railways
at Any Time Engrossed

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—(Special.)—After a two hours' debate marked by many moves for delay, the rejection of several amendments and a call of the house, the assembly last night sent to engrossment Senator Linley's bill amending the railroad commission act to empower municipalities to purchase street railway lines at any time. At present the law requires that cities must wait until three years before the franchise expiration date. The vote on engrossment was viva voce, but the sentiment of the house was reflected by its refusal to refer the bill to the transportation committee, 41 to 32.

The demand for the change in the law arose in Superior, where the Duluth Street railway, which owns the Superior traction lines, has refused to build certain extensions and otherwise failed to comply with the demands of citizens. The arguments for the bill, however, were directed more to a broad, statewide policy to cover similar or other contingencies in all Wisconsin cities.

The fight for the bill was led by Assemblymen Anderson, Rosa, Holmes and Vint, and the opposition by Assemblymen Hood, Conway and Dolan.

"The Bell Hop" Has Good
Comedians and Real Quality Quar-
tette

Babe and Ola Hudson, in a Polish dance, featured the spicy musical comedy, "The Bell Hop," that opened at the Majestic for a three day run yesterday afternoon. The "Quality Quartet," comprising Morgan, Arnold, Slim and Harry, four of the headliners of the show, are deserving of mention, for the round of applause their comical songs and melody called forth. J. Williams Everette, as "Slim Enough," kept the audience in a continual uproar of laughter and applause with his stunts between the acts, and with his mirthful jokes, throughout the entire performance.

George Allen, playing the part of James P. Morgan, buys a summer hotel, and after drawing up a contract with "Mrs. Wall Street," the owner, he finds that his firm has dissolved, and in order to straighten out affairs, he borrows a wallet containing a large amount of money. In some way the money is lost, and "Harry Arnolds," who has been promised the hand of Morgan's daughter, is accused, "Slim Enough" finally produces the money, and the tangle is straightened out to the satisfaction of all.

What red Coral is.

The red coral that is used for necklaces is a horny axis which supports a number of soft bodied, coral-like animals, or polyps, the entire structure bearing a strong resemblance to a small shrub. The fishermen, after they have brought this shrublike colony to the surface, clean the soft animal matter away, preserving the red core, or axis, which is sold as jewelry. Although red coral contains some lime, it is largely composed of a substance akin to horn, and, like horn, it takes a fine polish. Horn, wool and other animal substances of this nature almost invariably change their color when brought into intense heat.

PLOT TO BURN ALL CITY WOODYARDS

Police Uncover Alleged Scheme to Set Fire to Every Lumber Depot in London

ARREST MAGAZINE'S PRINTER

Obscure Typo Held for Publishing Copy of Militants' Suppressed Paper

LONDON, May 2.—A suffrage plot to burn all the lumber yards of London was alleged by Scotland Yard when the police early today arrested Edward G. Clayton of Richmond and charged him with conspiracy.

The evidence against Clayton is a letter alleged to have been written by him to Miss Annie Kenney, the militant leader and right bower of Mrs. Pankhurst. This letter, which listed all of the London lumber yards and described the most effective method for setting them on fire with chemicals, was found among the documents confiscated when Superintendent Quinlan and Scotland Yard detectives raided the King's Way headquarters of the Woman's Social and Political union two days ago.

Clayton refused to make any statement. Sydney G. Drew was arrested today and taken to Bow street police court, charged with printing yesterday's issue of The Suffragette. Drew has an obscure printing office, and as he left his label off the militant publication, Scotland Yard had great difficulty in running him down. Drew faces two charges, having violated a British law forbidding printers to issue anything without their labels and also being in conflict with the home office's edict that anyone publishing suffragette literature would be prosecuted.

The trial of the seven militant women and two men charged with suffragette conspiracy this afternoon was continued until Monday in Bow street police court. Miss Lennox, one of the women's social and political union editors of The Suffragette, and Sidney G. Drew, who printed the publication yesterday, were released on bail. The others were held without bail and remanded to Holloway jail.

RIFLE MEN WILL CONTEST FOR TEAM

Special Camp to Be Held June 23 to Prepare for National Match

Ten of the fifteen men who will constitute the Wisconsin rifle team to compete in the great international matches that will be held at Camp Perry, Ohio, in August of this year, will be selected out of thirty men who will be tried out at a special rifle camp that will be held at Camp Douglas, beginning June 23, and continuing for three days.

Colonel R. B. McCoy, S. A. P., will command the camp, and the three regimental inspectors and Captain F. H. Fowler, Third Infantry, have been detailed as range officers.

Under the terms of the order providing for this camp, Captain Fowler and Color Sergeant John Klinge, Third Infantry, will shoot for places on the team.

The other five men will be selected at the regular rifle camp that will be held right after the close of the regimental camps.

The Third Infantry has been ordered into camp at Camp Douglas July 12.

As the target season opened May 1 the government range near the poor farm will be in constant use from now until the regimental camp.

U. S. OFFICIALLY RECOGNIZES NEW CHINA REPUBLIC

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The republic of China has been officially recognized by the United States. A cablegram to this effect was received today by acting Secretary of State Moore from Charge d'Affaires E. T. Williams of the American legation at Peking.

President Yuan Shai Kai also called the state department that the message of recognition of his republic was read in the assembly and accepted.

He expressed his appreciation and that of his people for the attitude taken by the United States in announcing to the world its belief in the new government.

GAS COMPANY TO SHOW HOW TO COOK

The La Crosse Gas and Electric Company Employees' association will hold its third meeting Tuesday evening in the offices on Main street.

A fine program has been prepared in which refreshments and dancing furnish the principal features. A demonstration in cooking on gas ranges will be given for the benefit of the wives of the employees and such of the employees as are not yet wives.

"Charity begins at home," said Manager Thurston Owens today, "and while I am not prepared to say that the cooking demonstration is needed by those who will attend, yet it will be charitably intended," and Mr. Owens winked an innocent eye at a married and plump member of the office force.

THIEF GETS THIRTY DAYS

Albert Stone, Chicago, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail by Judge John Brindley late yesterday for the theft of a pair of shoes from the Paulson Shoe store. Peter Nelson was sentenced to thirty days for vagrancy.

Jamie and Mary, aged six, were "playing ship." They paced their respective porches grandly, arrayed in borrowed yachting clothes.

"I know a nice play," Jamie suggested. "Let's be admirals and command all the ships in the navy."

True to habit, his next door neighbor shrewdly exacted conditions. "All right, only I must be the highest admiral and give commands to you," she announced firmly, and Jamie gave grudging assent.

Victory thus assured, Mary softened and modified the letter of her edict. "I'll tell you, Jamie," she cooed, "let's play I'm the admiral's wife. That'll do just as well," Jamie's Companion.

LOCAL BREWERS IMPORT BARRELS

ARE NOT MIXED UP IN FIGHT

Say They Would Prefer to See Money Spent for Cooperage in Home City

In an interview with one of the local brewers today, a Tribune reporter was informed that the stock of the La Crosse-made cooperage was about exhausted but that the brewers of La Crosse would not be inconvenienced thereby for the reason that their requirements can be readily filled in other cooperage manufacturing centers.

The brewers are not mixed up in this fight and will not be particularly affected one way or the other, because there is no question of their ability to get a supply of cooperage. "Of course," this brewer said, "we would much prefer to see this money spent for cooperage circulate in our home city rather than in Chicago. St. Louis or Cincinnati, but so long as this strike continues there is no other course open to us."

WOMEN TO HOLD A BIG PAGEANT

NEW YORK, May 2.—With every seat in the huge Metropolitan opera house sold and all the standing-room tickets permitted by law disposed of, the New York suffragettes' symbolic pageant tonight promises to be the biggest event of its kind in the history of the "Votes for women" movement in this country. The four principal drawing cards in the pageant are: Madame Nordica, Pauline Frederick, the actress; the barefoot chorus of "Grecian maidens," and Colonel Roosevelt in an address entitled "Woman Suffrage Demanded in the Name of Good Citizenship."

E. R. THOMPSON NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE

E. R. Thompson, father of Register of Deeds Andrew Thompson, was taken to the Lutheran hospital last night in a serious condition from uraemic poisoning. Dr. A. Gunderson today held out little hope for Mr. Thompson's recovery. The attack of uraemia came very suddenly yesterday evening. Mr. Thompson apparently having been in the best of health recently.

Interstate Fair Association Directors to Lay Plans for Big Exhibition Saturday

In order that the Interstate fair, an annual event in La Crosse, shall be bigger and better than ever this year, an early start is planned by the directors of the association in making preparations for the celebration. The directors will hold a meeting in the office of Secretary C. S. Van Auker next Saturday night. At this meeting plans for an aeroplane exhibition will be discussed and it is likely that negotiations with some aeroplane amusement company will be opened at once in order that La Crosse may get the pick of the world's most famous flyers.

Because of the fact that Lincoln Beachey, known as the most daring aero-actor in the fraternity, was sent an old machine by mistake, the expected trick flying did not take place. But Beachey nevertheless risked his life in giving altitude and speed demonstrations that more than satisfied the crowd. The directors will see to it this year that their bid is in early enough to avoid any possible hitch in the flying program.

Another feature of the fair that requires considerable time in preparation is the dog show and the La Crosse Kennel club will begin work in the near future to make this year's competition a record breaker. The stock and agricultural displays always one of the biggest drawing cards, will be strengthened and the race program will be arranged to attract the fastest horses in the north-west.

Sign of the Portuguese Barber. In almost all foreign countries the gentlemen whose business it is to cut hair have some peculiar sign whereby they seek more or less successfully to remind the passerby that he needs a haircut. Nowhere, perhaps, is this sign of the trade more distinctive than in Portugal. It is twofold—sometimes a huge pair of scissors, sometimes a horse's tail, which gracefully dangles over the threshold of the hair cutting emporiums. The latter sign is by far the most popular and is especially noticeable in Oporto. It naturally suggests that one's hair is growing inordinately long, and nobody cares for an excess of hair, except the rising poet—Strand Magazine.

REALTY MARKET SHOWS BIG GAIN

$40,000 More in April 1913 Than in Same Month Last Year; 52 City Deeds

A gain of more than $40,000 in real estate deals for the month of April over the business for the same month last year is noted in the monthly statement issued by Register of Deeds Andrew Thompson today. The total transactions for April 1913 involved $463,448, while those in 1912 totaled $422,218. Fifty-two deeds on city property were recorded last month and thirty-nine for farm property. Sixty-five mortgages were satisfied and six were assigned. The report in full is given as follows:

For April, 1913—52 city deeds, $109,595, of which 21 were for $1; 22 city mortgages, $25,345; 39 county deeds, $138,795, of which 12 were for $1; 32 county mortgages, $97,893; 65 mortgages were satisfied, $79,967; 6 mortgages were assigned, $11,853; total, $463,448.

Compared with the same month last year—61 city deeds, $133,504, of which 8 were for $1; 61 county deeds, $107,868, of which 16 were for $1; 43 city mortgages, $73,530; 39 county mortgages, $107,316; total, $422,218.

MRS. OPTIZ DEAD

Mrs. Christine Optiz died at her home, 1501 Farnum street, at five o'clock this morning, after a long illness. Death was caused by the infirmity of old age. She was 75 years of age. Two sons and four daughters and her husband survive. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

WALKS WITH NECK PARTIALLY SEVERED

MILWAUKEE, May 2.—Residents of Cudahy, a suburb, were horrified today when John Smolis appeared on the main street, blood spurting from a gaping wound in his neck and his head so nearly severed from the trunk that the would-be suicide had to hold it in place with his hands. He walked several blocks to his home where he collapsed. The windpipe was severed but physicians said Smolis missed the jugular vein and that the man would recover.

FIRE THREATENS SHOPS

DETROIT, Mich., May 2.—Nearly all the fire fighting apparatus in the city was called to the plant of the Michigan Central Steel Car shops on the West Side today, in an effort to save the shops from destruction by fire. Shortly before noon the fire was placed under control with a $100,000 loss.

BALL GAME LOSES JOBS

FART WAYNE, Ind., May 2.—Fifty employees of the Fort Wayne Corrugated Paper company quit work yesterday afternoon and attended the opening game of the Central baseball league, although the factory's management had refused to permit the layoff. This morning the whole fifty were discharged.

The most remarkable instance of rapid growth was recorded by the French academy in 1729. It was a boy six years of age five feet six inches in height. At the age of five his voice changed; at six his beard had grown and he appeared a man of thirty. He possessed great physical strength and could easily lift to his shoulders and carry bags of grain weighing 200 pounds. His decline was as rapid as his growth. At eight his hair and beard were gray; at ten he tottered in his walk, his teeth fell out and his hands became palsied; at twelve he died with every outward sign of extreme old age.

A Terrible Punishment.

A man suspected of treason in Morocco was punished by having the flesh of his hand sliced, the wound filled with salt and the whole hand sewed up in leather. It is a common belief that this punishment causes mortification to set in and that the hand decomposes, but such is not the case, for by the time the leather wears off the hand is healed, the result being that the hand is rendered useless and remains closed forever. It is a punishment not often in use, but is sometimes inflicted in cases of murder or constant theft. It is a punishment that cannot be applied except by the sultan's orders.—Blackwood's Magazine.

SEND LOCAL GIRL TO REPRESENT "Y"

Madison Y. W. C. A. Names Maud Neprud of La Crosse as Delegate to World Conference

The Madison Y. W. C. A. will send Miss Maud Neprud, of La Crosse, chairman of Mission Study committee, as the Wisconsin delegate to the world Y. W. C. A. conference to be held in Chicago under the name of "The World in Chicago" on May 3 to June 7 inclusive.

The exhibit will occupy the entire Coliseum and the Auditorium Theater and will consist of a dramatic presentation of what Christianity has done for the world, and what still remains to be done.

Similar expositions have been given in London, Boston, Cincinnati, and Baltimore and have drawn thousands of visitors. But "The World in Chicago" will surpass in scope and interest anything heretofore attempted along this line.

WHITE SLAVERS ARE ARRESTED

MILWAUKEE, May 2.—A clean-up of white slavers in Milwaukee was predicted today following the arrest of two women by a secret official in the employ of the department of justice, late last night. The investigator refused to make any statement today, but it was believed that he had discovered in Milwaukee one of the centers of the international white slave traffic. The two women arrested were said to have been brought from Paterson, N. J., for immoral purposes.

HORSE IS DRIVEN NEARLY TO DEATH

Indignant Woman Telephones Message that Results in Arrests; Two Are Accused

John Kerrigan, a car repairer, and Joseph Mashek, bartender, were arrested today on a charge of abusing a horse belonging to the Swartz livery. According to the police the men drove the horse so hard that it was thought for a time it would die from the over exertion. The police were sent on the trail by a telephone message from an unknown woman who said that the men were coming into La Crosse on La Crosse street. She said that they appeared to be drunk and that they were driving their horse to death. She also said that one of the men fell from the buggy at La Crosse and Seventeenth streets but that he climbed back in and they resumed their furious ride. The proprietor of the barn also telephoned the police that he had been notified of the men's actions.

Chief John Webber and a patrolman jumped in the police auto and finally captured the men in a saloon on Fourth street. Chief Webber said that the horse was covered with dried lather and was standing with its head between its front legs panting like a dog. He declared that the men were drunk, and that they had been out to some of the road houses. They will be arraigned in county court on a charge of cruelty to animals.

RUSSIA JOINS IN POWERS' WARNING

Czar's Government in Curt Note Advises Nicholas to Give Up City of Scutari

LONDON, May 2.—With the ambassadors not in session until Monday, diplomats today professed to believe that the European situation is gradually clearing and that armed steps against Montenegro will be unnecessary.

A dispatch from Cetinje that the Russian minister had delivered to the Montenegrin foreign office a strong note curtly advising the little kingdom to give up Scutari and not defy all Europe, was regarded as especially cheering.

In certain quarters it was feared that King Nicholas was banking on secret assurances from Russia that the powers would not be allowed to coerce him and that a movement on the part of Austria-Hungary or any individual nation would involve the great bear, but the official action of the Russian foreign office dispelled this apprehension.

GAS CO. BOOSTS BOARD PROJECT

Donates Power for One Year for Factory on the Proposed Free Site

A substantial boost to the board of trade's free factory project was given by the La Crosse Gas and Electric company through Manager Thurston Owens today in the form of an offer of free power to one of the factories on the new site for the first year. The money received for the power service will be turned over to the board of trade by the gas and electric company to be used in organization work. The letter, which was directed to Secretary J. L. Utermoehl, containing the offer is given as follows:

"Mr. John Utermoehl, Secretary Board of Trade. "Dear Sir: With reference to the property on the north side, which the board intends to purchase, beg to state that instead of making an investment in the name of the company, we believe we can offer a proposition which would prove of greater benefit to the board.

"We will be glad to contribute for the work of the organization a sum of money which would be equivalent to a large percent of the amount received by us for electric power load for the first year, for a new factory erected on a free factory site. It would have to be thoroughly understood, however, that this money would not in any sense be considered as a rebate, but would be used by the board in the exercise of its organization work.

"I wish that you would kindly take this matter up and should this suggestion meet with your approval, we will be glad to go into the matter further.

"Kindest regards, "Yours very truly, "THURSTON OWENS."

FIRE THREATENS AUTO

Fire department No. 1 was called last night to extinguish a gasoline fire that threatened to destroy an automobile belonging to Reuben M. Trane in front of the Trane office on South Sixth street. The fire was extinguished with slight damage. It was caused by the ignition of gasoline that had dripped from the machine.

ARREST ALLEGED ASSAILANTS

LEGAL ROW CAUSE OF PICTURE DELAY

Owners of State Rights to Feature Films in Squabble Cause Local Man Trouble

Mr. McWilliams who runs the moving picture show at the La Crosse Theater is not the only manager who is tearing his hair because the much advertised feature pictures "From the Manger to the Cross" failed to appear as per contract. Manager Leisnfeldt of the Dome Theater on the north side had his patrons looking forward to seeing the pictures on Sunday, and the Home Theater of Portage had their city placarded with advertising matter and their patrons looked forward impatiently for next Monday and Tuesday when they would have had the pleasure of seeing the pictures. Mr. McWilliams was hit harder than any of the others as he did not have any advance warning that the pictures would fail to materialize whereas the other managers will have an opportunity to square themselves with their patrons.

It seems the exclusive rights to show these films in Wisconsin was purchased by the firm of Hall and Lynch of Chicago. These men opened the state in Kenosha and while they were there Mr. Hall, one of the partners, died very suddenly. The showing of the pictures was discontinued for a time and then the surviving partner, Mr. Lynch started out and showed the pictures in Fond du Lac, in Milwaukee and in Madison and from Madison they were to come here on Wednesday. On Tuesday evening Mrs. Hall, the dead partner's widow, and her attorney appeared in Madison and just as soon as the operator was through with the films for the day, the widow and her attorney took possession of the films. Late Tuesday night Mr. McWilliams received a long distance phone call warning him of the seizure of the films and he succeeded in locating Mr. Lynch in Portage that same night. Mr. Lynch at once phoned the widow and her attorney in Madison and demanded that they meet him in La Crosse Wednesday with the films, this they refused to do but said they would meet Mr. Lynch in Madison Wednesday morning. Mr. Lynch advised Mr. McWilliams of this and Mack caught the first train for Madison. He found Mr. Lynch at the Capitol hotel but the Widow Hall and her attorney had disappeared taking the films with them. Mr. Lynch was furious and he left for Chicago to try and locate the films stating that he would take forcible possession of them when found and that as soon as they were recovered he would rush them to La Crosse so that Mack could redeem himself with his patrons. While Mr. Lynch was in Madison Mack had him served with a legal document that will induce him to leave no stone unturned to get the films to La Crosse at the earliest possible moment or the firm of Hall and Lynch will find themselves at the wrong end of a damage suit. Meanwhile the films are not being shown anywhere in Wisconsin and the outcome will be awaited with interest.

Rio de Janeiro's Mosquito Squad. The city of Rio de Janeiro has a mosquito department, which is as prompt and efficient as many fire departments. If a person discovers a mosquito he must notify the inspectors. A telephone call will bring them promptly to the scene. It is then their duty to find the pool or body of water where the mosquitoes are being developed and destroy it. Owing to this sort of vigilance and prompt action neither mosquito bars nor fly screens are necessary in the whole city of Rio de Janeiro.

SWIMMING IS A GOOD RECREATION

Hebden Corsan, Teacher of Crawl Stroke, Explains Methods of Instruction

BREAST STROKE IS WORTHLESS

Says Good Swimmer Does Not Use the Old Fashioned Style of Locomotion

(By Hebden H. Corsan, Toronto, Canada, International Y. M. C. A. Traveling Swimming Teacher.)
Swimming is one of the very few recreations that the blind, the lame, the one-legged, the no-legged, the abnormally fat, heavy, and the paralyzed person can engage in. Ornamental and fancy swimming is a department of the art in which women greatly excel men. Suppleness, grace, buoyancy and the ability to comprehend rhythm explains this fact. Man being differently constructed from any other animal, land or water, cannot get any valuable ideas in the art of swimming from them, as merely setting up a running motion will propel any animal along the surface of the water.

From the wild tribes of the Pacific, South Seas, we have learned some valuable pointers in the art of swimming, especially the narrow leg kick. The alternate over-arm, we learn by a visit to the British museum, is a very ancient method of working the arms and shoulders as we can see there an Assyrian bas-relief depicting men, women and children swimming across a river. The hooked elbow and scooped wrist position are not so evident as in the modern crawl stroke, but this may have been inaccuracy on the part of the artist. But the day has surely passed when we shall any longer be taught to push against the water in order to go forward, except by the very few instructors who more through stupidity than a desire to graft still insist upon teaching the breast stroke.

Breast Stroke Worthless

The breast stroke is good for nothing, only to say you know it. It is not used in racing long or short distances, it is not used in life-saving, it is lacking in grace and speed and does not possess the hygienic value of the crawl stroke, it is mystifying, complex and only permits of individual instruction.

We find from statistics applied to swimming that during the past nine months 7,000 persons in North America have lost their lives through drowning, not counting the flood victims. Again we find that only fifteen per cent of the inhabitants of North America are able to swim. There is less money spent in educating the school child of the facts pertaining to aquatics than in any other branch of the child's education. All that a child has learned by years of hard work would be lost if in later years he should be thrown from a boat into water many feet over his head and unable to swim. The individual learns swimming in grammar schools and not in universities. Age explains this fact. Having had experience with the sailors of the U. S. navy at Portsmouth, Virginia and Brooklyn, N. Y., and again having handled from 500 to 2,500 boys every week from the public schools in the Y. M. C. A. natatoriums in every part of the union and in every section of Canada, for the past four years, I am in a position to know whether we should start our aquatic career by first learning the crawl stroke or the broad-stroke-on-breast, sailor-fashion. I have found but two causes for the large percentage of drowning accidents and low percentage of swimmers. One cause is due to the fact that the water in this country is cold from eight to nine months each year, allowing us but three to four months each year practice period. Second, and most direct cause is due to swimming instructors insisting upon teaching to beginners what is known as the breast stroke, this method of propulsion being so difficult to acquire that the average person, unless versatile, give up in disgust.

Square Angles

The breast stroke swimmer has six square angles coming against the water after every stroke, as the front of each thigh presses down against the water, as they are being drawn up, affords two square angles; as the water hits the front of the thigh it sweeps around and strikes the back of each leg, making four square angles; again as the two arms are being forced forward under the water they go to make the six square angles, or in other words the breast stroke swimmer has his four limbs working against himself after each stroke; again the drawing up of the knees means the swimmer is propelling his body through a channel in the water three times the size of his body. The pupil having first acquired the breast stroke has utterly ruined his or her ability as a speed swimmer, as the breast stroke is antagonistic to the speed stroke. For in no speed stroke do the knees ever spread apart nor do the toes turn out. Again the working of the arms and legs of any stroke is only elementary, the breathing is always the advanced stage of the strokes, and without it we cannot swim very far. Therefore it is the basis of the art of swimming, and the breast stroke does not permit of the swimmer having to know rhythmic breathing, and the breast stroke swimmer develops the habit of holding the head high out of the water. This type of swimmers drown the first opportunity they get, and this opportunity is afforded when the waves are a foot high. It would take

CERTAINLY ENDS STOMACH MISERY

"Pape's Diapepsin" relieves your Indigestion in five minutes

Sour, gassy, upset stomach, indigestion, heartburn, dyspepsia; when the food you eat ferments into gases and stubborn lumps; your head aches and you feel sick and miserable, that's when you realize the magic in Pape's Diapepsin. It makes such misery vanish in five minutes.

If your stomach is in a continuous revolt—if you can't get it regulated, please, for your sake, try Diapepsin. It's so needless to have a bad stomach—make your next meal a favorite food meal, then take a little Diapepsin. There will not be any distress—eat without fear. It's because Pape's Diapepsin "really does" regulate weak, out-of-order stomachs that gives it its millions of sales annually.

Get a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. It is the quickest, surest stomach relief and cure known. It acts almost like magic—it is a scientific, harmless and pleasant preparation which truly belongs in every home.

A large volume for me to explain the faults pertaining to the broad stroke, or the breast, and why it should not be taught to beginners.

Crawl Quickly Learned
The system of teaching the crawl stroke that we have used during the last four years enables an instructor to handle a class of 40 boys in a pool 30 to 60 feet every twenty minutes, and at the end of two lessons have fifty per cent of his pupils swimming 50 feet unaided and in all 75 to 90 per cent learn to swim a distance of from 100 feet up.

The boys march from school to the "Association building" during school hours in squads numbering from 25 to 40, depending upon the size of the association pool. These boys are strictly non-swimmers. They go from the boys' department to the dressing rooms from where they pass into the shower bath room. The instructor then explains the elementary stages of the crawl stroke, which takes five minutes. One boy is sent into the pool with a pair of water wings which he wears around the waist line. The swimming pool runs from one to four feet in depth, and is heated to a temperature of 85 degrees. The boy first places his hands on the bottom and lays flat on the surface. He then raises his arms till at right angles to his shoulders. He first learns to keep his hands away from his body by stiffening the arms and rolling upon one and then the other, making each time a round circle. This is done by rolling the head from side to side as the body rolls and looking at each arm as it comes out of the water behind and opposite the hip. When one arm is entering the water the other must be coming out. While this first boy is trying, the instructor is criticizing his motions to the rest of the class. The class then takes a pair of water wings each and swim down one side and back on the other. In twenty minutes this class is over, and another class is washed and waiting.

Leg Motion Simple
The second lesson the boys learn the leg motion. The wings are placed under the arms, the arms are stretched out in front and the legs stretched out behind and well on the surface. The knees are held close together at first and the feet work up and down from the knees only; after this is learned the knees are allowed to pass one another up and down a few inches. The thighs never at any time come up against the water; neither should the back of the leg. The motion is the same as is used in running, only run taking short quick steps. The feet should never pass one another further than sixteen inches apart. Having learned to hold the arms out away from the body, turn the head, and work the feet up and down.

Next the boys learn rhythmic breathing, which means to breathe in through the mouth when the head is turned as the left arm is coming out of the water, and exhale out through the nose under water as the

WAS POOR GUESSER; COURT UNSEATS HIM

Harry Schilling.

Just because he was a poor guesser, Harry Schilling, Socialist, has been compelled to give up the mayoralty of Canton, Ohio, President McKinley's home town.

Schilling ran against Art R. Turnbull, Democrat. The latter, after a tie vote, won the mayoralty of making a successful guess as to whether there were an odd or even number of grains of corn in a jar. Later, the lower court seated Schilling. Now, the court of appeals has reversed the decision of the lower court and seated Turnbull, because he was the better guesser.

right arm comes out of the water. This is the only way air can be taken in while swimming, as the water being around the nose would be drawn into the head. Holding the head out of the water is the cause of thousands of drownings. When the head is held out of the water, every muscle in the body must be tensed in order to hold it there. Tensing the muscles shuts the blood from them and they tire out quickly. At the end of the boy's last lesson he is given a test to see how far he can swim unaided.

Body Long and Narrow
The crawl stroke has simplicity, speed, hygienic value, grace and utility to recommend it. Every motion is a natural motion whereby the swimmer crawls with his arms and swims with his legs. No part of the arm or legs come against the water at any time. The body is long and narrow, then the swimmer goes far and fast with every pull of the arms and every snap together of the legs, the head is on the same level with the feet, the body is at all times on the

BENEFICENCE.

Beneficence has this peculiarity—that the more we exercise it the more pleasure we find in its exercise. We attach ourselves to the unfortunate object that we relieve, and the assistance we give him becomes a want to those by whom it is administered. He who has once caused the tears of gratitude to flow and who can afterward seek a pleasure sweeter than that is said to be worthy of feeling all the charm of doing good.—Mme. Roland.

Romanoffs and Money.

During their 300 years' rule of Russia the Romanoffs have never been assigned a civil list. The czars have always been allowed to take what they like from the imperial treasury. It is said that during the year before his assassination Alexander II. drew $5,000,000 from this source to make provision for his morganatic wife, Princess Dolgoruki, and her children. At present the civil list for the whole of the imperial family stands at £1,600,000 a year, but this figure, having been fixed by the czar himself, could be increased if he so desired without any formalities. He has, moreover, vast private resources, his Siberian properties yielding yearly £1,480,000.—London Mail

This advertisement will cause several thousand men to buy their first "John Ruskin" cigar. Those who usually smoke 10c cigars will save a nickel on every cigar they smoke in future. Those who smoke the ordinary nickel cigar will no longer like their favorite smoke.

Suppose you put this to a test yourself—risk a nickel on your first "John Ruskin." You will find it the most unusual cigar you ever smoked. It is a better and bigger cigar than any other. In quality it is the equal of any sold at 10c, because the Havana tobacco used is the equal of the best grown on the island of Cuba. It is strictly hand made by expert cigar makers. This assures free and even burning—fragrant to the last puff.

GREAT MAY SALE READY-TO-WEAR

We had an opportunity to buy a lot of Women's Ready-to-Wear stuff at about 50c on the dollar, but passed it up because it did not measure up to our standard. It occurred to us that when a man who owns four or five stores, is willing to sell merchandise at 50c on the dollar rather than ship it to his own stores, it must be below the standard. So we follow an old established custom of putting on a big May Reduction Sale of Ladies' Suits, Coats, Dresses, etc., all 1913 merchandise, backed up by our guarantee. It must be right or we make it right. Sale starts SATURDAY MORNING AT 9 O'CLOCK and CONTINUES FOR ONE WEEK.

When you find that you are getting in the habit of worrying unnecessarily about your work; that you get cross and irritable over trifles; that you cannot get your mind off your work; that the daily grind is wearing out your nerves; it is time to bring yourself to a sudden stop. You have reached the limit of your endurance and are facing a complete nervous breakdown. Don't pride yourself that you can keep up the pace you have set yourself through will power alone. Nervousness cannot be willed away. You must get rid of the cause.

The nerves are nourished and kept in health by good, pure blood. That they are breaking down in your case may mean that your blood has become impure. You have not noticed it until now because your nerves have been working on their reserve strength. This has been used up and the nerves, having no help from the blood and no reserve strength left, are exhausted. There is only one thing to do and that is to build up your blood.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are a valuable tonic for the blood and nerves. They are a most direct help in all nervous troubles.

Send for the free booklet, "Diseases of the Nervous System." While taking the pills avail yourself of every means to build up your general health.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists at 50 cents per box or six boxes for $2.50 or they will be sent, postpaid, upon receipt of price by the

SECRET ROMANCE BARED BY ARREST

Mrs. Thomas E. Waterman.

The secret romance of a society girl of Kenwood, a suburb of Chicago, came to light a few days ago when requisition papers were issued by the governor of Illinois on the governor of New York for the extradition of Thomas E. Waterman.

The girl was formerly Miss Agnes Miller. She married Waterman last December, after his spectacular rise from messenger boy to promoter.

Waterman is charged with absconding with $16,500 in cash from the Drexel State Bank of Chicago.

Most Ungallant.

One of the most whimsical wills ever made is that of a bachelor of France who left all his property, amounting to a considerable inventory, to three ladies who had refused to marry him. He stated in the document: "These bequests I make to these ladies, for to them I owe all my earthly happiness."

One way to make a woman happy is to envy her.

HOME RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

This Homemade Mixture Darkens Gray Hair and Makes It Soft and Glossy

To a half pint of water add:
Bay Rum 1 oz.
Barbo Compound a small box
Glycerine 4 oz.

These are all simple ingredients that you can buy from any druggist at very little cost, and mix them yourself. Apply to the scalp once a day for two weeks, then once every other week until all the mixture is used. A half pint should be enough to rid the head of dandruff and kill the dandruff germs. It stops the hair from falling out, relieves itching and scalp diseases.

Although it is not a dye, it acts upon the hair roots and will darken streaked, faded, gray hairs in ten or fifteen days. It promotes the growth of the hair and makes harsh hair soft and glossy.

PAY ATTENTION TO NORTH OF STATE

Growing Importance of Northern Wisconsin Is Recognized by the Legislature

FORESTRY PROBLEM IS GREATEST

Solons Show Disposition to Investigate Grievances of Settlers in the Reserve

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—(Special.)—Northern Wisconsin is claiming a goodly portion of legislative attention this session. The growing importance of the northern part of the state, industrially and politically, is coming home to the legislature. This is evidenced in the attention given measures particularly affecting the northern part of the state by members from the southern counties.

Forestry Problem First. Foremost of these questions, perhaps, is the forestry problem. The state is committed to a forestry program, and there is no indication that the great conservation policy will be abandoned, but there is every evidence that members from all sections of the state give serious attention to the grievance voiced from counties in the reserve section and propose to preserve the rights of the people of that section as well as of the whole state. They propose to investigate the conflicting claims and do justice to all.

Water Power Question

Of more general importance to the development of the northern part of the state is the water power problem. Enactment of a development law at as early a date as possible, that the great natural resources of northern Wisconsin may do their share in opening up the wealth of this region, is assured. A conflict will undoubtedly ensue over the new bill, which has been introduced, but it is hoped that the water power representatives will evidence the interest in the development of the state that they profess by taking the same interest and giving the same assistance in the writing of a workable constructive law, that will preserve at once the vested rights of riparian owners and of the people, as is taken by those who are endeavoring to write a successful water power control law, instead of continuing to pursue the purely obstructive tactics that have marked their previous campaigns.

Another question of particular interest to the northern half of the state is the question of loans on wild lands either directly by the state or with the assistance of the state.

The Nye amendment to the constitution to enable the state to sell bonds to make loans to settle is receiving serious consideration.

For Immediate Aid. A bill to permit a few small holders of wild lands to incorporate to issue mortgage certificates, and making these certificates good security in state banks is proposed to give immediate aid.

Various other plans are being advanced to bring into the northern counties money, the lack of which is the greatest impediment to rapid development and growth in wealth, industry and population, and members from all parts of the state are giving attention.

Report Shows Success

The success in government aid in securing development and improvement capital for unimproved agricultural lands in New Zealand, Australia and some other countries is shown in a recent report on this subject by the state board of public affairs. These examples and its recent trial in the province of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, Canada, give the legislature various plans to consider and it is probable that some definite and material step will be taken by the legislature unless some grave difficulty arises which makes it advisable to give the subject further investigation and deeper study before entering upon what will be in this country an almost new and untried proposition.

INCORPORATE BOYS' CAMP

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—Prof. J. C. Elsom, Frederick Dunlap and L. R. Ingersoll of the University of Wisconsin are the incorporators of the Badger Camp association, formed to maintain a permanent camp, school and farm in Lincoln county for the purpose of "furnishing the boys of Wisconsin with opportunities for healthful, educational recreation and free instruction in the various phases of outdoor life, camp-craft, woodcraft and other activities taught and practiced by the Boy Scouts of America." The location is to be at Tomahawk.

Not on the Map.

The only place where one can live cheaply is Utopia; and the confounded atlas makers still refuse to put that happy region on the maps.—Providence Journal.

The female red deer is known as a hind and not a doe. The young red deer is also known not as a fawn but as a calf. These trifles are very shocking to sensitive ears.—London Spectator.

Painting the Lily.

FIREMEN REFUSE TO KILL OLD TEAM

CHARLOTTE, Mich., May 2.—Mink and Mack, without doubt the oldest fire department team in the state of Michigan, were chloroformed by a veterinarian as the kindest way of relieving them of trouble. Mink and Mack were once considered the fastest fire team in service in Michigan and were known to nearly every man, woman and child in Charlotte. They had reached the age of 22 and 30 years, respectively, and had been in the service fifteen years. The department did not want to see them sold to spend their last days on a rag picker's wagon and it was decided to have them chloroformed. The firemen were all so affected that not one of them could be pre-valled upon to accompany the veterinarian when he took the old team to an outlying spot to end their days.

URGES LIMIT TO BUILDING HEIGHT

McGovern Favors Bill Setting 65 Feet as Maximum for Buildings About Capitol

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—Governor McGovern appeared before the assembly judiciary committee Wednesday to urge the enactment of the Bove bill regulating the height of buildings surrounding the capital park in Madison. The members of the capital building commission and the architect, George B. Post of New York, also urged its importance for a proper development of the park plan. The bill proposes to limit the height of buildings to 65 feet. Attorney General Owen recently ruled that such a regulation to be constitutional must make provision for compensating aggrieved property owners. Governor McGovern offered an amendment covering this contingency. It will provide that the state shall adjust and pay claims for damages that may be suffered by business men whose building expansion might be curtailed by the proposed statute. Later in the afternoon the plan for extending the capitol park by condemning six or eight blocks of residential and business property between the present grounds and Lake Monona was given a hearing before the finance committee in the assembly chamber. Lantern slides showed the future capitol grounds in perspective, as the capitol commission has outlined for the development of its comprehensive park plan.

Amended. A Pennsylvania divine formed one of a house party in Philadelphia where the younger son, in accordance with what the clergyman observed to be his constant habit, as soon as he had seated himself at breakfast immediately possessed himself of a large slice of bread, the quality of which he proceeded to test by a liberal mouthful.

The minister, a stickler in such matters of propriety, gazed blandly at him for a moment or so; then he folded his hands and closed his eyes.

"For what we are about to receive," he intoned with painful emphasis, "and for what our young friend has already received, Lord, make us truly thankful."

Profligate Spendthrifts.

The wealth of many of the ancient Romans was reckoned far into the millions. Mark Antony during his somewhat checkered career squandered no less than $735,000,000, and Tiberius left at his death over $18,000,000, which Caligula spent in less than a year. Records show that this spendthrift paid $150,000 for one supper. Horace tells us that Pegasus, a singer, could in five days spend $40,000, and Claudius on a small wagon swallowed a pearl worth nearly $40,000. The estate of Crassus was valued at $8,400,000. Lucullus dined at the rate of $8,000 a meal for several weeks, and Apicius squandered nearly $5,000,000 in a few weeks.

He Traveled.

EFFECTS OF POSLAM SEEN OVERNIGHT

"Now you see it and now you don't," is literally true of the magic worked by Poslam, the unequalled remedy on any affected skin.

By taking a small part of the skin where appear pimples, rash, blotches, etc., or which is unduly inflamed, itching or chafing, and applying thereto only a small quantity of Poslam, an overnight demonstration may be had of its remarkable properties, and enough Poslam for the purpose will be mailed free of charge, upon request, by the Emergency Laboratories, 32 West Twenty-fifth Street, New York City. Eczema, acne, tetter and all itching skin diseases yield to Poslam as to nothing else.

POSAM SOAP is the soap of soaps for daily use, for toilet and bath, as a means of improving color and texture of the skin and assuring its continued health. The best shampoo for dandruff. All druggists sell Poslam (price, 50 cents) and Poslam Soap (price, 25 cents).

SAYS CONGRESS IS BAD FOR BUSINESS

ST. PAUL, May 2.—James J. Hill in his address at the Town Criers' sixth annual home products dinner last night at Masonic Temple, declared in discussing the effect of legislation on business, that the United States would be better off if congress would adjourn and stay adjourned for ten years. If this condition could be realized, Mr. Hill said the country would enjoy an unprecedented period of prosperity with business men satisfied to create large undertakings without fear of legislative setbacks.

He Could Sympathize.

The sentimental city girl was spending a season in the country. So full of sentiment and so imaginative was she that she could hear the trees whisper, the bushes sigh and the plants sing. One day in June she was sitting beneath a cherry tree with several children, one of whom was a ten-year-old boy. Overhead a gentle breeze softly purred through the quivering leaves.

"Listen!" suddenly exclaimed the young lady. "Can't you hear this poor tree groaning, Johnny?"

"No; I don't hear it groan," replied Johnny, assuming a listening attitude. "but I know how it feels to be full of green cherries."—New York American.

Bashful Backers.

A minor Missouri politician who was a pestiferous and continuous office seeker was a candidate for nomination as lieutenant governor. He made a canvass, and everybody seemed to be for him.

On the day of the convention he came to a friend in great distress.

"Bill," he said, "I am in a terrible pickle. Seventy per cent of the convention delegates are for me for lieutenant governor, but I can't get anybody to nominate me!"—Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

Hen Capacity.

They were city folks, and they had just become nicely established on the newly bought little farm. With the help of suggestions from interested neighbors they were fitting out the place, and it was the wife who approached one of the kindly farmers with the question:

"How many eggs a day ought a really good hen to lay?"—Everybody's.

PLACE BAN UPON WOODEN COACHES

Bill in Assembly Prohibits Coupling Them Between the New Steel Cars

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—(Special.)—A bill has been introduced in the senate placing a heavy penalty upon railroad companies for placing wooden cars between heavy steel coaches in intra-state trains. Congress recently passed a bill directing that all new cars for interstate business be made of steel after 1917. This was the La Follette bill, with amendments that extended the time so that it is of little immediate effect except as a club over the railroads to compel them to give the safety of the railway mail clerks and the traveling public more consideration. It is hoped that congress will amend the new law prohibiting the construction of wooden cars at an earlier date.

The bill introduced at Madison has the backing of the railway mail clerks and traveling men's associations, and will have general support from the progressives in the legislature. Wisconsin is the first state to take up this question, and will lead the states in regulating the great question, and will lead the states in regulating the great question of public safety. In almost every train wreck, including several recent wrecks in Wisconsin, lives have been lost by the telescoping of wooden cars by steel cars.

MATCH TRUST ROW AGAIN IS OPENED

Diamond Match Company
Would Amend Pending
Child Labor
Bill

WOULD LET CHILDREN PACK

Industrial Commission Declares This Exposes the Children to Deadly Disease

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—As a result of efforts by the Diamond Match company to amend the pending child labor bill in such manner as to permit the employment of children at packing matches in its big plant in Oshkosh, the controversy over the dangers to employees in this industry has been revived. The child labor bill now before the legislature especially prohibits the employment of boys and girls in "dipping, dyeing or packing matches." Last week Assemblyman Hurlburt, at the request of the match trust, offered an amendment which would permit children to be employed at the work of packing matches. This kind of employment, according to eminent authorities in Europe and America, is exceedingly dangerous even to the health of adults; children so employed face the dangers of a disease that has long baffled medical authorities. This disease has been recognized since the 60's, when the English parliament first made an investigation.

Goff Asks Information
Assemblyman S. C. Goff, chairman of the committee on public welfare, last week requested the Industrial commission to furnish his committee with information regarding the attitude of the Diamond Match company toward the child labor laws. In answer to this inquiry, the commission has given Mr. Goff a detailed history of the match trust's violations and its final payment of a $2,000 penalty, resulting from the state's prosecution last fall. The letter says in part:

"In July, 1912, complaints began to come in of violations of the hours of labor law by the Match company. We ordered an investigation. The company evidently was able to mislead our deputies into believing that there were no violations. A large number of children were interviewed but as was found later, they had evidently been educated to lie about their hours of labor. Complaints continued to come in, and in October we placed the matter in the hands of a trained woman investigator, Miss Lundberg. She found wholesale violations of long standing.

Admitted Violations
"When finally confronted with the proof of violations, Mr. Gates, the superintendent of the company, admitted the facts and said it was simply a question of 'putting the trade against the law.' We thereupon requested the governor to direct the attorney general to commence prosecution, which he did. A prosecution was begun against the company charging nearly 500 separate violations of law, covering a period of two weeks' time. The company, through its attorneys from Oshkosh and Milwaukee, sought to have this prosecution dismissed on its promise to reform. This was refused but the case was submitted to the circuit court with recommendation on the part of the attorney general that up on the company submitting to a penalty of $2,000, the balance of the counts might be dismissed. To this recommendation the governor and the industrial commission consented. The company thereupon admitted liability in the sum of $2,000 and paid that amount into the court.

"The dipping, dyeing and packing of phosphorus matches is known to be very dangerous to the health of the employees. It is particularly dangerous to boys and girls. At the present time it is our understanding that the Match company is still using phosphorus in the manufacture of its matches. It is claimed after July 1st they will no longer use phosphorus, but we have no knowledge as to whether or not such ingredients will be poisonous. In view of the attitude of this company in the past, we do not think that the bars should be let down until the company has shown, by indisputable proof, that the new processes are not dangerous to children, and that they can safely engage in the work of dipping, dyeing and packing matches."

Trust Wants Amendment
Present indications are that the match trust will make a determined effort to secure its amendment to the law. Mr. Hurlburt's amendment was defeated in the assembly last week but a motion for reconsideration is now pending.

Fine Remedy for A Backward Child

Continue it for Only a Brief Period and the Good Results Will Surprise You

A low state of the general health is now the accepted cause of backwardness in children. So in the case of a backward child it is best to look towards building up its health. It will usually be found that the main trouble is in the food, in lack of assimilation and digestion. Hence care should be taken in the kind of food given to the child. This, with plenty of air and exercise, should bring about a change for the better.

Watch the conditions of the bowels, to note whether the waste is being passed off or not, or whether it is being passed too freely. If either condition prevails give a small dose of that gentlest of all laxative-tonics, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Thousands of mothers will testify to the wonders it has wrought in the lives of their own children, and for that reason legions of families like those of Mrs. J. E. Bruntz, 1903 9th avenue, Nashville, Tenn., are never without it in the house. Mrs. Bruntz writes: "Harry had always been constipated until I gave him Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I am certainly going to keep this medicine in the house in future for I know it to be good." It is pleasant to the taste and so perfectly safe that it is given to infants, and yet is equally effective for grown people. All druggists sell it and the price is only fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, the latter for families who need it regularly.

HARRY BRUNTZ

Syrup Pepsin has no equal as a cure for constipation, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, sour stomach, gas on the stomach, liver trouble and kindred complaints. It has so many advantages that those who once use it forever after discard cathartics, salts, pills and other coarse remedies, for they are seldom advisable and should never be given to children.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Watching The Scoreboard

Two home run knocks was Bob Stengel's contribution toward the defeat of the Boston Braves. The two homers were responsible for three of Brooklyn's four runs.

Ray Keating pitched another corking game for the Yanks, but four errors behind him and all coming in a bunch was too much. He allowed only four hits, but the Athletics got as many runs.

The Pirates slipped down another notch when the Cardinals came out on top in a slugfest match.

With both the Giants and Cubs losing and Philadelphia and Brooklyn winning the first division is tightening up.

Shafer threw away the Giants' game with a peg to Merkle. Knabe's double then scored Alexander with the winning run.

And it took the lowly Reds to check the Cubs.

It was a bad day for Long Tom Hughes and three other pitchers sent in but Griffith could not stop the Red Sox.

No matter how much money Ty Cobb drew out of the Detroit club, he has probably decided it is worth $50.

New York . . . 000000000—0 8 1
Philadelphia . . . 00000100X—1 4 0
Batteries: Tesreau, Wiltse and Meyers; Alexander and Killifer.

St. Louis, 9; Pittsburgh, 7

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 2.—The Pirates made a strong finish in yesterday's game by scoring five runs in the last two innings, but were unable to overcome the Cardinals' lead and lost. Score: R H E
St. Louis . . . 400012002—9 10 2
Pittsburgh . . . 010001032—7 13 2
Batteries: Perritt, Salee and Wingo; Camnitz, Connelman, Simon and Kelly.

Brooklyn, 4; Boston, 2

BROOKLYN, May 2.—Brooklyn took the first game of the series with the Boston Braves yesterday 4 to 2. Stengel, the first man up for the Dodgers, rapped the ball to the fence for a home run and in the second inning duplicated his feat with Miller on the bag before him. Score: R H E
Boston . . . 000010100—2 7 0
Brooklyn . . . 12001000X—4 9 1
Batteries: Hess, Gervais, Whaling and Rariden; Stack and Miller.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

DETROIT, 5; Chicago, 8
DETROIT, May 2.—The White Sox made it three straight from Detroit yesterday, winning a poorly played game, 8 to 5. The Sox pounded Mullin and Klawitter at will, everybody on the team getting hits with the exception of Schaller and Weaver. Score: R H E
Chicago . . . 200000000—8 12 1
Detroit . . . 100020020—5 10 3
Batteries: Russell and Schalk; Mullen, Klawitter and Stange.

ST. LOUIS, May 2.—The sixth inning muffed up yesterday's game and ultimately gave Cleveland the decision over St. Louis, 3 to 1. Score: R H E
Cleveland . . . 000102000—3 9 2
St. Louis . . . 010000000—1 7 1
Batteries: Falkenberg and Carisch; Wellman and Agnew.

Boston, 8; Washington, 2

BOSTON, May 2.—The first game of the series between Griffith's pennant hopefuls and the world's champions resulted in a baffest victory for the Red Sox winning 8 to 2. Ten two baggers and two three baggers were counted during the game. Score: R H E
Washington . . . 001001000—2 10 4
Boston . . . 21101300X—8 1 1
Batteries: Hughes, Engel, Boehling, Drohan and Ainsmith; O'Brien and Cady.

Philadelphia, 4; New York, 2

NEW YORK, May 2.—With two out in the sixth, the Yankees blew up yesterday, allowing the Athletics to score three runs—enough to carry off the honors. To make things certain, however, the visitors scored another in the seventh when Barry walked and tallied on Thomas' three bagger. Score: R H E
Philadelphia . . . 000003100—4 5 3
New York . . . 001010000—2 7 3
Batteries: Brown, Bender and Thomas; Keating, Hoff and Sweetney.

ENGLISH LAD NEXT

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 2.—Edie Morgan, English featherweight champion, may be Johnny Kilbane's next opponent. Promoter McCarey said today he did not believe the public sufficiently interested in another go between Kilbane and Dundee and that he hoped to match the Cleveland and the British lad.

NOTED STUD TO RUSSIA

CLEVELAND, May 2.—Horsemen today expressed regret when they learned that Willy, 2:05, rated as one of the greatest trotting stallions in this country, has been sold to a Russian syndicate for the reported price of $35,000, and is now on his way to New York to be shipped to Europe.

BETTING EVEN

DENVER, Col., May 2.—Local betting on the McGorty-Clabby mill here tonight was about even today with optimistic predictions coming from both training quarters. The bout is to go ten rounds.

STARTLES CRITICS WITH HIS ANTICS

Donie Bush.

Donie Bush, the diminutive shortstop of the Detroit Tigers, has been one of the sensations of the young American League baseball season. He has shown all of the ability which a couple of years back marked him as easily the best shortstop in the league. He has hit the ball hard and timely. His work in fielding has bordered on the piratical, so many base hits has he stolen from the opposition. He has shown speed on the bases and an inspiring lot of pepper for the benefit of his teammates.

COBB MUST PAY FIFTY BONE FINE

CHICAGO, May 2.—Tyrus Cobb, the Detroit outfielder, who refused to report to his club after the season had opened until a salary difference had been settled, was reinstated by the national commission on Thursday afternoon. The recalcitrant Tiger will have to pay a fine of $50.

DISCUSS PLAYER WRITERS

CHICAGO, May 2.—The baseball star, with the authorship bug, frowned on by President Johnson of the American league, is apt to get serious consideration at the next meeting of the national baseball commission. Only the fact that Chairman Garry Herrmann was anxious to see his Reds in another fling at the Cubs prevented lengthy discussion of writer's "itch" among diamond artists at yesterday's session.

The man who is placed on a pedestal must take a certain amount of pride from his very loneliness.

North Side

TRAIN SAVED BY OPERATOR'S WIT

Freight and Crew in Danger from Runaway Cars; Ditched Just in Time

A report was received in the north side Milwaukee offices this morning of the narrow escape of a freight train, and crew on the Milwaukee at Cambridge, Iowa, Wednesday night, when a number of freight cars broke loose from a train that was standing at the top of a hill, about a mile from the city.

About 11 o'clock the operator at Huxley notified the operator at Cambridge that a number of cars had run away, and were on the down grade toward Cambridge. At this time a time freight was nearing Cambridge, and but for the quick wit of R. A. Fee, the night operator, would have been demolished. Mr. Fee ran down the track in time to flag the train, and threw the derail switch.

As the freight cars, which were running down the incline at a terrific rate, hit the derail switch, they shot off the embankment several feet in the air, landing in the ditch. The line was obstructed for several hours.

ENGH RESIDENCE DAMAGED BY FIRE

The residence of Adolph Engh, of 716 Kane street, was damaged this morning at 11:30 by a fire that started under the roof from an unknown cause. Fire department No. 2 was out thirty minutes.

Mrs. Engh was in the house alone when she noticed smoke through the rooms, and not discovering where it came from, she turned in an alarm to the fire department.

A section of the roof was burned, and considerable damage was done the furniture and interior woodwork in the house by water.

Dislikes Mourning.

A certain fashionable dressmaker, according to Good Housekeeping, refuses to make black dresses because of their depressing effect on her employees. She would not even make a mourning gown for one of her best customers whose little girl had died, arguing that a black costume in itself saddens not only those who make it, but the wearer and all her associates.

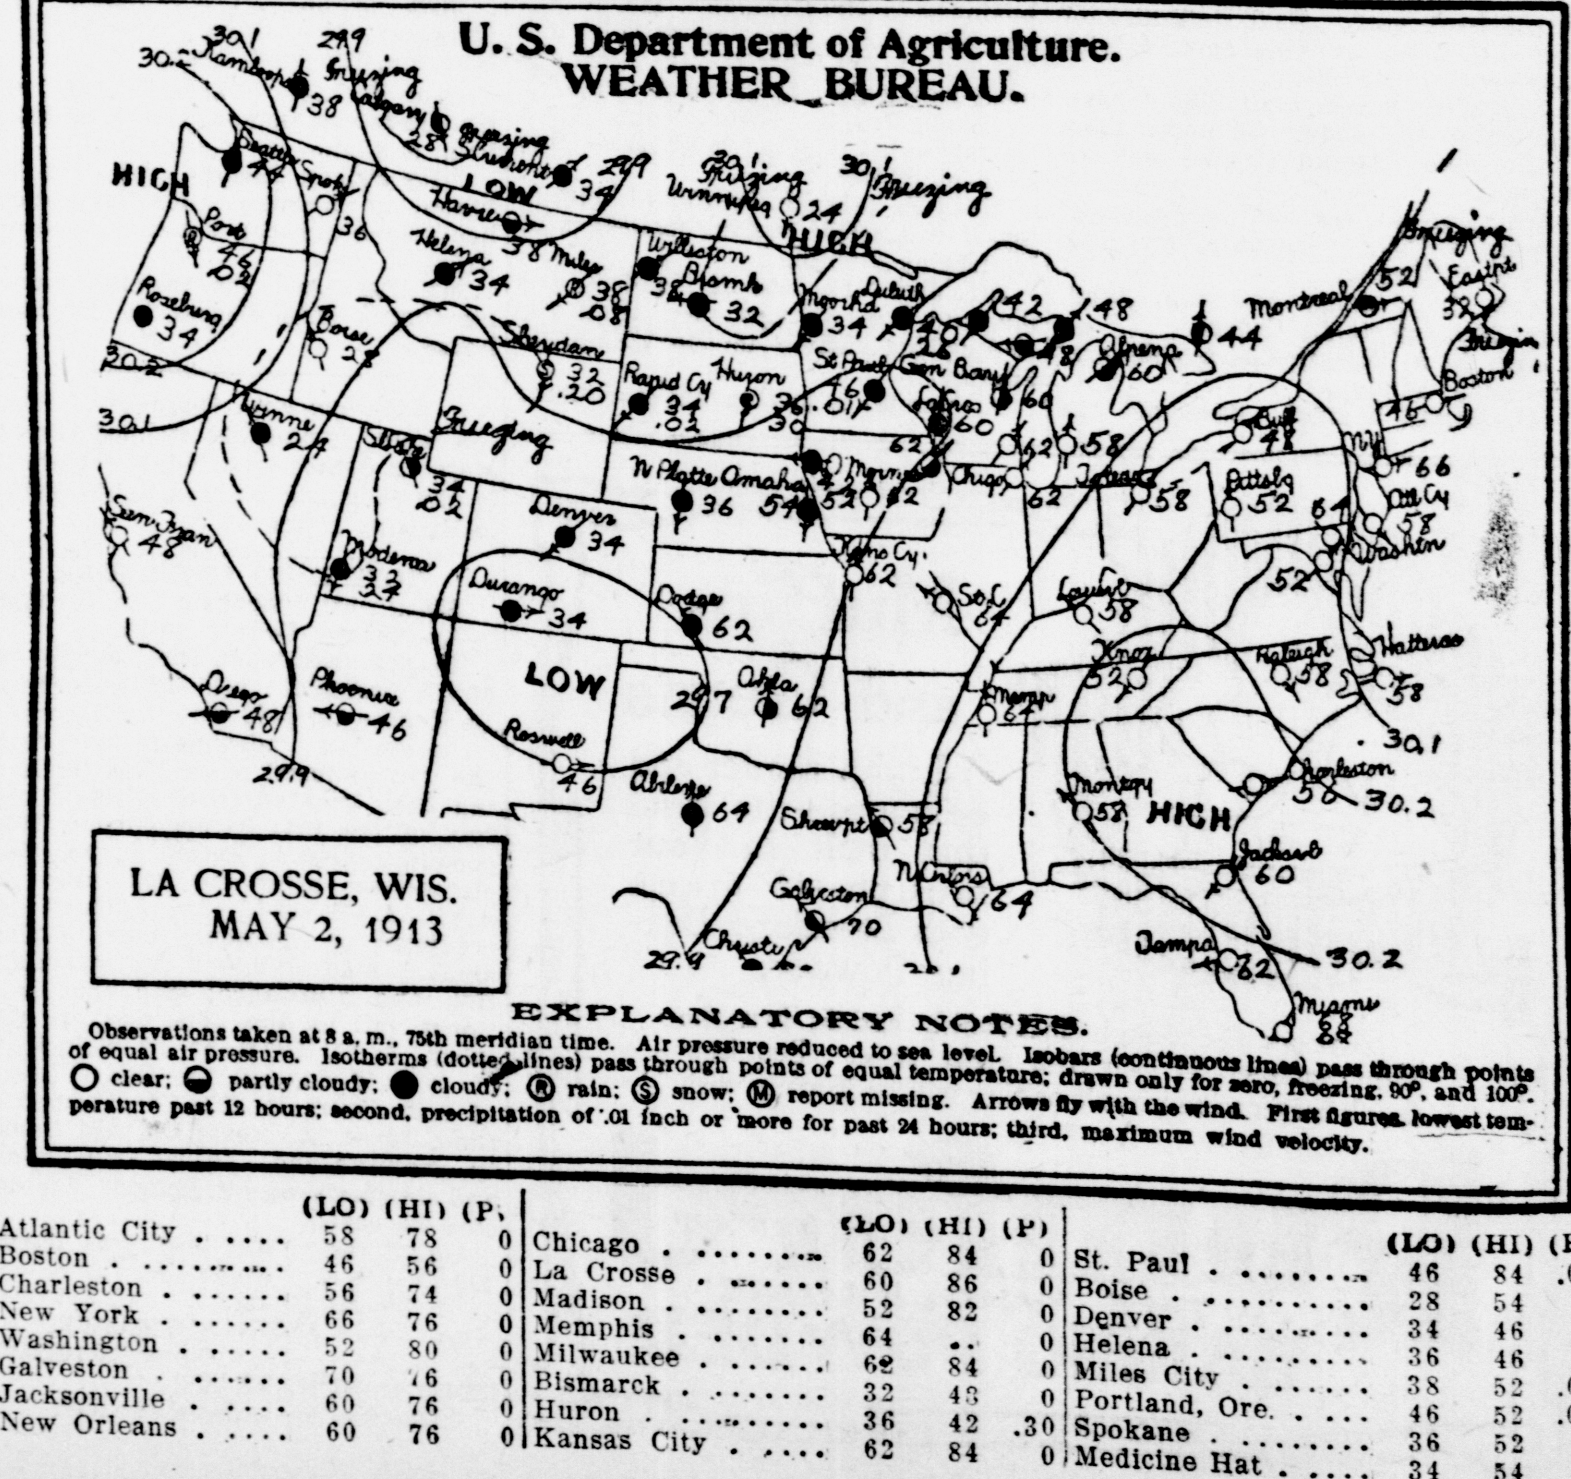

A Strong Man.

Daughter—Wasn't Julius Caesar one of the strongest men that ever lived? Father—What makes you ask that question, my little girl? Daughter—I was just reading that he threw a bridge over the Rhine.

Crocodiles and the Cure.

One does not usually connect crocodiles with a health resort—rather the reverse—but the creatures are quite a feature of the Indian bathing place of Manghapur, about nine miles from Karachi. This town is a place of pilgrimage for pious Hindus, but it is chiefly famous for the value of its waters in the cure of the dread scourge of leprosy. The waters are hot, and more than 60 per cent of the sufferers who bathe there annually, it is said, are cured. The crocodiles are rather noteworthy in that they live in the hot water, apparently suffering no inconvenience from its temperature or medicinal qualities.—Wide World Magazine.

Business And Crop Report

(By Batavian National Bank)

The event in the business world has been the new tariff bill. Drawn with the purpose to revise schedules downward in the interest of the consumer, the departure in our economic policy naturally appears drastic to many industrial interests. Speaking broadly, the bill has been quite favorably received. Criticism has not been lacking of certain schedules and there are glaring inconsistencies that cannot be justified by any scientific principles but these are expected to be corrected before the bill becomes a law.

The paramount question is its effect on business. Those industries most intimately connected with high protective duties—especially the textiles—are showing the most positive evidence of a slow-down. There has been a falling off in orders, which is to be expected, but the reduction of stocks from manufacturer to retailer is making for a sound trade situation with the final re-adjustment to new conditions.

While there has been some slow down in general business, it is believed to be as much reflective of the "between season" period as of tariff changes. One of the most noticeable and encouraging results of the impending changes is the tendency of manufacturers to accept the "compromise tariff," as Mr. Underwood calls the bill, as demanded by the people and to direct their efforts to meet the new conditions by concentration on greater efficiency. There are business men of the country who believe, in the end, this will be beneficial and stimulating and will result in our manufacturers increasing their foreign trade tremendously. The most optimistic are disposed to see a wonderful expansion in our export commerce of finished products following the re-adjustment.

At this writing the crop outlook in the United States could hardly be better for winter wheat and for the favorable start of the spring grains. A short-lived crop scare due to dry soil conditions in the western half of Kansas and parts of Nebraska was dissipated by timely rains. It is con-

CONSTANTINE DUMBA CONGRATULATES SELF

—(C) Harris & Ewing.
Constantine Dumba.

When Constantine Dumba, the new ambassador from Austria, arrived in Washington the other day and presented his credentials to the president, he delivered the usual felicitations from his ruler and then added that he congratulated himself on being sent to Washington on the eve of the discussion of momentous issues raised by the president's inaugural address. He said that the necessity of more humanity and a higher valuation of the individual life of the poor and humble had been emphasized in the address and would henceforth remain within the scope of practical American politics.

Dr. Dumba is a very wealthy man and has long been in the diplomatic service of his country.

ceded that some impairment resulted but there is every indication that the loss was less than normal for April and that the May government report will show a high condition for winter wheat and the smallest acreage abandonment yet recorded, leaving an area for harvesting which will suggest not only a liberal production but one much better distributed than last year, when the soft winter wheat states of the Middle West practically lost their crop by winter killing. The reduction of the duty on sugar with its eventual elimination and free wool has occasioned more or less pessimism among producers especially in the South and West. The shadow is expected to be more apprehensive than the substance but time alone will show how changes in these particular commodities will affect the producer. Weather conditions the last week have been particularly favorable for agricultural development in the South and that section of the country is looking ahead to continued prosperity and expansion.

England's Leeks.
Although Wales is famous for its leeks, the best leeks do not grow in Wales, but in England, at Cramlington, near Newcastle-on-Tyne. There every garden has a leek bed, and there is the keenest competition in their cultivation. The best leeks are saved for seed, and by this means special strains of great excellence have been developed. It is impossible for outsiders to procure this seed because each cultivator has evolved the best sort to suit his own methods and keeps the secret tight.—London Mail.

The Innocent Joys of Youth.
"Gracious, Fanny!" exclaimed a mother to her little daughter. "Why are you shouting like that? Why can't you be quiet like your brother?"

MAY DAY AFFAIRS

May day entertainments are now a thing of the past. There was a breakfast served by the ladies of the Caledonia M. E. church yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. H. J. Bullock, which was a pleasant affair, with a good attendance. The ladies' circle of St. Paul's Universalist church served a noonday luncheon in their church parlors.

The Women's union of the Cingre-gational church gave a supper in the church parlors last evening.

DANCE AT MASONIC TEMPLE

About thirty couples enjoyed a May day dance at the Masonic temple last night. Music was furnished by a four piece orchestra. At 11 o'clock the party adjourned to the dining room where a fine luncheon was served. The party then resumed dancing until 12 o'clock. In spite of the summer-like warmth the guests enjoyed the affair to the utmost.

SOCIAL BRIEFS

Mrs. Alex Hyslop has returned from a trip to Chicago, where she went to meet friends.

Mrs. B. C. Smith has returned from Chicago, where she was called on account of the accident which happened to her brother-in-law, Mr. Dunlap.

Mrs. E. L. Spicer will leave for Osage, Iowa, and will be gone several weeks.

Mrs. J. R. Norris is in Dresbach putting her cottage and grounds in order for the summer's outing.

HULL NORMAL BILL SLATED FOR DEATH

MADISON, Wis., May 2.—Unless he can make a winning fight on the floor for his bill to establish a four-years' college course in each of the normal schools of the state, Speaker Hull will lose in his effort to increase the college facilities of Wisconsin. The committee on education has recommended for indefinite postponement the Hull normal school college bill. Speaker Hull is noted for his fighting qualities and he may determine to give his pet measure a "tryout" on the floor.

RIDGEWAY WIPED OUT BY A FIRE

DODGEVILLE, Wis., May 2.—Fire from an unknown cause, breaking out in the rear of a saloon, destroyed the larger part of the village of Ridgeway, Wis., ten miles northeast of Dodgeville and the county seat of Iowa county, yesterday afternoon, causing a loss estimated at $100,000, of which hardly one-fourth is covered by insurance. The number of buildings destroyed is estimated at forty.

NEILL CONFIRMED

The fight against him by southern senators because of his report emphasizing the evils of child labor in southern cotton mills collapsed.

Fewer and Fewer Graves.

There is not the slightest doubt but that the less number of flies alive in summer time or any time of the year the less sickness there is about and the fewer new graves there will be in the cemetery. To think that the fly is a valuable scavenger, as some would lead us to believe, is a great mistake. It is not a scavenger in the sense of purifying things, but, on the other hand, always the distributor of filth and germs and, with the germs, disease.—A. B. Olsen in Good Health.

GALESVILLE TEAM CANCELS GAME

La Crosse High School Nine
Has Open Date Tomorrow; League to Start

EIGHT TEAMS IN THE CONTEST

Class and Society Players to Play Series; Plan
an Oratorical Contest

The high school baseball team is left without a game for tomorrow on account of the Galesville high school management having also scheduled a game with West Salem, therefore making it necessary for them to cancel the game with La Crosse. The local management has tried to get another game but have been unsuccessful.

The high school class and society league is about to start on a series of games which will be of utmost interest to the school. Each class has a team and each society in school has one also; the faculty team will make it an eight team affair. It is hoped by this arrangement to interest every boy in school in some sort of athletics. President Beisel has placed several prizes for the best batter, best fielder, etc., in the league and competition is keen.

On Monday night of next week the annual high school oratorical contest will be held to determine what two men will represent the local high school in the league contest. The league is made up of Tomah, Viroqua, Sparta and La Crosse. The two men who win in this contest will represent the league in the district contest which takes in western part of the state. The winner of the district contest will represent the western part of the state in the state contest.

The local contest will be the best held in the high school for some time, there being more and better men trying for places than ever before. There are several veterans in school who will not be in the contest this year on account of added work for graduation but the two literary societies are contributing a number of men who have had a great amount of experience and who ought to win. It will please some of the high school graduates who have held up this work formerly to know that there is an added interest in oratory this year. Last year it was not necessary to even hold a school contest.

He Used the Judge's Card.

A certain judge was inveigled into a game of poker on a P. D. Q. train. He won $40. His opponent then said: "I can't pay you now. But just give me your card. I'll mail you a check." So the judge gave the man his card, and two or three weeks went by, and then he received a letter from a lawyer saying:

"Sir—The P. D. Q. railroad instructs me to inform you that if you do not send by return the money for your fare as promised immediate proceedings will be taken."—New York Tribune.

STORIES OF POLICE GRAFT IN 'FRISCO PUT NEW YORK DISCLOSURES TO SHAME

From the stories recently told by three bunco men of San Francisco to District Attorney Fickert of that city, it appears that the police detectives of the coast metropolis have carried on a system of graft that would put the recent New York disclosures to shame, and that every crook operating in San Francisco has first to make terms with the detectives.

A grand jury investigation has been started to probe the charges. The principals in the investigation, besides the bunco men, are Capt. Eugene R. Wall, Arthur F. MacPhee, Charles Taylor and Frank Esola, all city detectives. They deny the charges and say they never received any of the large sums of money which the bunco men declare were paid for protection.

TOMAH CHILDREN BURNED IN BRUSH

Daughter of Farmer Dies
and Son Is Badly Burned in Rescue Effort

TOMAH, Wis., May 2.—Elnore, 4 year old daughter of William Timmerman, was burned to death Wednesday in a brush fire raging near the home of her father, six miles west of Tomah. Arthur Timmerman, 14 year old brother of the child, was badly burned trying to rescue his sister, but will recover. Brush fires have been burning at many points in this vicinity the past several days, the season being one of the driest in years, but up to this time have confined their ravages mostly to waste land on the bluffs and no serious property damage has been wrought, though the flames are in a number of cases drawing near the homes of settlers.

He Knew His Business.
"Why do you wish me to pay in advance?" asked the pallid person who had just registered at the rest cure.

PEACE DELEGATES DISCUSS HAGUE

Problems of International Tribunal Taken Up by Congress at St. Louis
Today

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 2.—Problems of The Hague conference were today considered by the third general session of the Peace congress, with James Brown Scott, secretary of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, presiding.

"The Hague tribunal, its present meaning and future promise," was discussed by Prof. William I. Hull, of Swarthmore college; "active promotion of international peace as a primary policy of the United States," by Prof. Paul S. Reinsch, University of Wisconsin, and "the Pan-Teutonic pledge of peace," by Edwin D. Mead, director of the World Peace foundation.

On the Japanese question, former Vice President Fairbanks, last night declared, from personal experience in the east, he knew that Japan did not want war with this nation—that no one wanted to fight the United States.

FOR THE MID-SUMMER OUTING

Edited by
MAY MANTON

MID-SUMMER always means the holiday season. Outings of every kind are planned and simple costumes are the ones most needed. Frills and furbelows, dainty materials and the things that go therewith to indoor life. What we wear at this season are the clothes in which we can play golf and tennis, walk and row and be happy under the bright blue sky with just the protection that the leafy trees afford.

Linen is a favorite material and linen this year is exceptionally varied and exceptionally beautiful, but we also have cotton fabrics of unprecedented value and variety. Corduroy piques are beautiful and sturdy in one and the mercerized poplins make up most attractively, while many women find them better than linen for the reason that they do not rumple quite so readily. Corduroy, in its most familiar form with the velvet finish, is fashionable for summer wear also and it makes a most satisfactory material for separate skirts and for outing jackets. White is an unquestioned favorite. While at first thought it seems perishable, it can be so easily laundered and comes forth from the process in such perfect condition that it is not extravagant after all, and white always is pleasant to wear on a warm summer day. White serge is liked too for the coat suit and for wear with the white waists, for this is a white season; but the day when Fashion demanded one particular material and style is scarcely remembered today and we are quite free to choose what is most becoming and best adapted to our special needs.

Blue and tan colored serge are standbys and are essentially practical, while they are much worn, and the new Turkish toweling material that is known by many names makes most satisfactory skirts and costumes. Blue linen, buff linen and tan colored linen are all essentially smart both for skirts and for entire gowns. Altogether the outing costume presents many opportunities.

The out-door holiday is apt to mean pretty gowns for the afternoon occasions as well as the more sturdy ones, and there is a great tendency toward the use of linens and materials of similar weight with trimming of heavy lace, while again the over-skirt idea allows effective use of contrasting material and often we see dresses of white trimmed with color.

In a general way, skirts are straight and narrow but the best dressed women are not wearing those that are exaggerated or that outline the figure in a disagreeable way. Such conditions are inherently vulgar and, while they may be exploited by the unthinking, they are not in good style. Pretty, slender effects are desirable but there is no need to push them beyond that stage. Out of town, where there is always a greater freedom allowed, slightly open necks and round collars are charmingly attractive and are much worn, but when the costume is to be donned for the trip to town or for any occasion that means greater publicity, the little chemisette that can be worn beneath the blouse is essential to correct dress and to good taste. As these chemisettes are made of net that is thin and filmy, they do not mean any additional warmth while they add immeasurably to the effect of the toilette.

Middy styles and Norfolk styles are conspicuous and the very latest developments combine the two. In one of these illustrations is shown a new and smart middy costume that is the very latest development of the sailor idea and is in every way desirable for the summer outings and sports. This particular costume is made of white linen with bands of blue but girls like the model treated in a number of ways and it can be copied in blue linen with bands of white or in tan colored linen or in the khaki that is always durable and well adapted to real service. Many of the newest skirts are showing a few plaits which are pressed flat to give the long straight lines but they still provide freedom. For rowing, for golf or for any exercise that requires real freedom of muscles, the middy costume is one of the most practical as well as smartest of the season. Whole frocks are much worn but there will be occasions when the blouse of white linen to be slipped over a darker skirt will be needed and such a middy blouse as this one is perfectly well adapted to such use.

Sleeves always make a question of interest. The preferred length for the warm weather is to or below the elbow but we are growing toward long sleeves. There will be a great many worn during the warm season and not a few of the mid-summer blouses show sleeves that extend to the wrists. Undoubtedly the shorter length means greater freedom for exercise, and most girls and out-door women will continue to wear the shorter sleeves, but those whose skins suffer from the exposure will be glad of the incoming fashion nevertheless.

If one were called upon to summarize as to the most satisfactory feature of mid-summer, the front closing found both in the simple blouses and in the skirts would call for immediate mention. We have suffered long and patiently from the closings difficult to accomplish without aid. While undoubtedly the fancy blouse that is closed at the back has advantages, the simple one that closes with buttons and buttonholes at the front or side has met with a hearty welcome and not a few of the skirts are shown with closings at the same points. We are seeing a great deal of the over-lapped effects and these simple skirts with over-lapped edges can be closed at the front quite as well as at the back. The plain skirt cut in just a few gores and buttoned right down the front is a pronounced favorite and is essentially smart. The fact that it can be opened out flat to be ironed means simplified laundry work and that feature in itself is worth considering. The varying events of the day are likely to bring the demand for rapid changes of costumes and the ones that can be slipped on readily are sure to be welcomed.

Never have belts been prettier. Narrow ones are being worn at the high waist line and some of the effects so obtained are charming. Patent leather makes a favorite material for the belt to be worn for outing occasions and both the plain leather and leather of two colors, one laid over the other to form a design, are liked. Black and white belts of the latter kind are very smart but one of the interesting features of the present summer is found in the touch of bright color in combination with the white costumes or those of quiet tones. Bright red and blue patent leather are extremely attractive and are especially well adapted to the younger folk, while pretty belts are often seen in these colors touched with black.

With white gowns and dresses, white shoes and white stockings are always pretty and they are much worn but brown or tan color is equally correct and often serves a better purpose. White really is attractive only worn upon occasions which allow of keeping it unsoiled. For a tramp over dusty roads or for the links that mean possibilities of dust or mud, brown leather and brown stockings make the better choice.

FADS AND FANCIES OF FASHION

THE NEW GARNITURES OF PEPLUM BLOUSES.

What are variously known as garnitures, sleeveless over-blouses and peplum blouses make an important feature of mid-summer styles and can be made available in so many ways that they are especially noteworthy. July is apt to be a season of holiday making and enjoyment, and in contemplation as accessories that can be utilized in various ways. These garnitures are practical as well as pretty. One such is shown in an illustration of the month. It is made of white lace over white taffeta and the possibilities of the little garment are very nearly without number. Lace banding frequently is joined together and finished with lace edging, making a very pretty effect. Eyelet embroidered linen and batiste are used with embroidered edging as finish and the same design is liked for the little taffeta over-garnitures that are having such extensive vogue. Pretty bright-colored taffetas frequently are finished with edges scalloped and bound with the material and are worn over white gowns to give a very novel touch. Again taffeta is embroidered, sometimes in raised work, sometimes in eyelet or open work effect, with the edges finished with little frills or narrow puffings of the same. Whatever the material chosen or however, the little blouse is finished, it gives a very quaint and pretty touch to the toilette, while it serves to freshen one that has seen much service as few additions can be trusted to do.

Simple as the garniture is, it is made from many materials and is put to many uses and it is just as often seen making an integral part of the gown as a separate garment. Among the novelties in needle work is punched work, done on white material with colored thread, and these little over-blouses often are made of material to match the gown and embroidered in this way, while the girle or sash matches the needle work in color. It is often surprising how completely such little touches will transform the effect of an otherwise simple costume.

All sorts of laces are in vogue just now, the heaviest as well as the finest, and lace garnitures can be made in numberless different ways. The all-over laces that can be cut all in one piece are simple, but very charming effects are to be obtained by combining strips of lace and embroidery lace. The model is so simple that almost any one can make it. It is only necessary to cut out from stiff paper and arrange fancy material over it until the desired effect is obtained; then to sew together and finish, while the amount of time and labor will be slight.

NEW COLLARS AND JABOTS.

We are nothing if not given over to period styles this season, for we are wearing the panier, delightfully reminiscent of Louis XV. Certain of our gowns retain much of the Empire suggestion and the latest collars that have appeared are known as Robespierre and Directoire. While it is true that a student of history would be somewhat alarmed at the reproductions produced under the various names and while we do not in the least hesitate to combine one period with another, we certainly produce such charming results that the prevailing fashions of this summer of 1912 are altogether attractive.

The new collars and jabots are dainty in the extreme and as they can be applied over any blouse or gown, they are essentially practical for the mid-summer season when we are likely to need some fresh touch to smarten the wardrobe. The Robespierre collars are made variously of linen, silk and pongee, but they uniformly have little jabots that fall at the sides and partly cover the blouse and make a very pretty effect. The black satin ones with creases. There is a very notable tendency toward the use of heavy material on thin, and collars of this kind made of white linen make the latest feature of lingerie blouses. Of necessity, they mean to the necessary point and the rest is simple. All the leading dealers are showing ready-made collars in various materials but no great amount of skill is required to make one. They are of the rolled over sort that fit snugly about the neck and at the back and the points at the front ends are arranged over the blouse to leave the throat exposed while the collar terminates several inches above the opening. The jabot, or fall of lace, makes the finish. Jabots are apt to take the form of the cascade fall and to be attached one to each end of the collar, but often a fall of lace is used which is simply a straight piece gathered and attached to a tiny invisible band. It is mired at the center front to form a point and the end disappears under the collar.

Directoire collars will be welcomed by the women who like the "choker" effect, for, true to their prototype, they are close fitting at the back and sides but open at the front and the blouse is apt to be open to form a V, but just how they shall be cut, depends upon whether they are to be worn upon the street or in doors. Too many exposed throats are seen upon the highways. The fashion is a comfortable one for very warm weather and when the throat is round and beautiful, it is a pretty one, but the best dressed women do not wear the collarless neck with coat suits, for the two do not go hand in hand.

Open necks are unquestionably the rule this summer but very often a little chemisette is needed either for comfort or becomingness. A pretty one is made of transparent net, finished just at the collar line with a frill of soft shadow lace that is arranged over it and only just full enough to take pretty lines.

SOME MID-SUMMER FANCIES.

Never did mid-summer present a more picturesque appearance than it does this season for while we are wearing all sorts of pretty little coatees and coquettish wraps during the afternoon hours, we are given over to common sense during the early part of the day with the result that the completed wardrobe presents a fascinating combination. In a general way, it is true that a great deal of color on white is worn and there are some exceedingly beautiful costumes of white silk embroidered with colored thread that are very delightful, but all white never loses its vogue and white linen suits, white serge suits, white silk suits and white suits of every kind outnumber every other sort. Happily white is a friend of all ages so that the season of white is apt to be a becoming one. Just now, however, we have to do with the latest whims and fancies of the season and they include wonderful embroidery upon white taffeta and other silks that are unique in their beauty, while many of the gowns are reminiscent in style and cut. The paniers, which we discussed last month, have grown in favor and some exceedingly beautiful summer costumes are made of white taffeta in the soft chiffon weave with the paniers, collar, sleeves and sometimes the blouse embroidered in a way that is really exquisite. The little bluests that are so dainty and so summerlike in effect make a dainty motive and are carried out in their own colors, but a more noticeable feature is to be found in rich, deep color that is appearing even while the thermometer is at its highest, and some very rich, handsome costumes are embroidered in ruby color, using the jewel beads in combination with silk to make a really superb effect. Eyelet embroidered taffeta also is being much worn and many white coat suits are made with collar and cuffs treated in this way and finished with scalloped edges.

Lace never was more generally used. It makes frills for sleeves, finishes for coats and is converted into all sorts of garnitures for blouses and gowns, but the wide frills of lace that fall below the sleeve edges of both coats and gowns are both noticeable and charming. Lace frills and lace flounces are much used, and among the very newest materials, to be used for dinner and dancing gowns, is white and cream net hand run with silk

THE FASHIONABLE BLACK AND WHITE.

Black and white combinations,—what are known as "magpie" effects,—are exceedingly smart this summer and new developments of the idea are being constantly called to notice. Very attractive little mid-summer gowns are made of black and white striped cotton voile, the models being very simple and the skirts trimmed with double plaits of the material, arranged one up, one down, and showing crosswise stripes between. Such dresses are usually finished with blouses that include a good deal of lace and the filmy sorts are the preferred ones. Sometimes they are relieved with little touches of color and American Beauty red and emerald green are favorites, but black and white make the foundation and the combination is unquestionably smart.

Black and white striped materials are used in combination with colors, however, to make some really striking costumes, and often the black and white striped silk of the thinner, lighter sort that is so delightful at this season, is used for the foundation over which to drape voile marquisette, and net in colors. Green is beautiful in this way and green always gives a delightful suggestion of summer rest and coolness.

Black and white striped parasols are among the smartest shown also and the black and white costume is altogether a noticeable one, although, as a matter of course, with mid-summer under discussion, it will be understood that white predominates.

In the more mature contingent, long coats of black silk, black net and black marquisette are liked and they are almost invariably relieved by collar and trimming of white lace. Many of the closely woven serges shed dust so readily that white serge is not regarded as extremely perishable. Some exceedingly beautiful motor and traveling coats are made of this material with big collar and wide cuffs of black satin. No matter how warm the day may be, some sort of wrap is sure to be needed with the coming of evening and very attractive wraps are made of black satin lined with white.

Inevitably the satin is chosen in light weight and many of these wraps are very simple of construction, made in one long piece of material that is plaited and draped in a way to form big, wide sleeves and to become a most graceful wrap.

A great many of the summer silks are of black and white checks with little flowers scattered over them and the combination is used in numberless ways that are smart and interesting. Everyone knows that black and white is a combination of which one does not tire easily and when it can be varied with touches of bright color, it is sure to be welcomed. Black velvet ribbon sashes are worn on lingerie gowns and are very attractive. Some of the smartest, most interesting garden-party hats are of Panama straw with wide, undulating brims and are trimmed with black velvet ribbon which is also used as streamers to hang over the white gowns most effectively.

When the black is judiciously handled and the main part of the costume is white, really delightful mid-summer effects are obtained. Some of the most practical, as well as interesting, long coats that are available for many purposes, are made of pure white raitine with a narrow collar of black velvet and the effect is a most excellent one. When the velvet portions are made removable, the coat is very easy to launder and basting the velvet into place requires almost no labor.

The sweater makes a really necessary part of the summer wardrobe. New ones for little children are made with peaked hoods that can be allowed to hang over the shoulders or be drawn up over the head as occasion demands.

Buttons are being used in almost every possible way but, on the whole, the tendency is toward the smaller sizes. Novelty is found in gowns of white cotton voile with borders of white cord couched over stamped designs, with little pearl buttons used in place of the big dots that have been popular.

Smart outing hats that are practical are made of striped blazer flannel, and coats and hats together are much worn for tennis.

SOCIALISTS WILL PROBE ICE COST

Intend to Discover if The
Is a Combination of Dealers in La Crosse

MAY GO BEFORE RAIL COMMISSION

If Evidence of Trust Found Appeal to Board or City Ice House
Is Planned

A rigid investigation into the cost of production and distribution of ice in La Crosse and other cities of the state with view to determining whether there is a dealers' combine in this city was decided upon at a meeting of the social democrats at socialist headquarters on Pearl street. A committee was appointed to probe the cost of ice and the alleged apportionment of the city into districts by the three ice companies here.

Uniform Raise in Price
It was charged at the meeting last night that a uniform raise in rates has been established by the three ice companies here that amounts to $2.50 a month to saloon keepers and other large consumers of ice and fifty cents a month to the small consumers. It was said that a year ago the companies delivered ice to families for $1.50 a month, "dropped on the side walk," and $2 a month delivered to the ice box and this year the price has been raised to two and three dollars respectively. It was also said that fifty cents extra is charged to families living on unpaved streets making ice $3 a month to these families, for the most part working people. "Three dollars a month is beyond the means of a laboring man," said one socialist, "and as a result babies actually suffer while the grown people are put to a real hardship."

To Rail Commission
If the committee finds that the cost of ice is proportionately high in La Crosse, the matter will be taken to the state railroad commission with the request for an investigation on the grounds that ice companies are in reality public service corporations. If this fails to furnish adequate relief the party will start a movement looking toward the establishment of municipal ice houses.

A committee was also appointed to investigate the local milk situation. The meeting last night assumed the attitude that the citizens of La Crosse should give the health commission unanimous support in the fight for clean milk and the committee will investigate the dairies in and about the city with a view to assisting the health department enforce the law.

Deny Combine
At the time the ice workers signed their new contract with their employers, the ice company officials issued a statement denying that there is any combine among the companies here or that the price of ice is exorbitant. They declared that there is less profit in the ice business than any business of its size and investment in the city. They said that each ice company delivered ice in the territory closest at hand without regard to the territory of the other companies.

PREFERRED DRINKS TO WIFE'S KISSES

CHICAGO, May 1.—Sluff drinks were more caressing to her husband's lips than soft kisses, testified Mrs. Marie Estelle Davis, suing for divorce from George A. Davis, nephew of George Ade, the hoosier humorist.

"He always was a heavy drinker," said Mrs. Davis, "and when we went to visit Uncle George at Brook Farm, Ind., he was nearly always helping himself from Mr. Ade's cabinet. He frequently got up at night to get a 'good' drink."

Mrs. Davis complained that her husband never kissed her, and never even wanted to hold her hand.

Judge Kavanaugh, at the conclusion of the hearing today, refused to grant Mrs. Davis a decree of divorce, but granted her plea for separate maintenance and ordered Davis, a theatrical man, to pay her $70 a month.

WILSON TO MAKE APPEAL TO PEOPLE

Ring on Plans to form

PLANS VITRIOLIC ADDRESSES

declares He Will Handle
the Question Without Gloves in His Speeches

WASHINGTON, May 1.—President Wilson's first "appeal to the people" which he promises shall not be the la begins tonight. In his home state of New Jersey he plans to defy thron-partisan machine which he alleges has combined to thwart the people's will by preventing the enactment by the New Jersey legislature of a law which will reform the jury system.

A combination which has dominated the legislature during the recessession, and which the president believes will be in control when the extra session opens next week, holds that any jury reform bill shall be submitted to a referendum vote.

To Defeat Laws
President Wilson declares that this for the purpose of defeating the purpose of the laws. He insists that the referendum plan would prevent jury reforming from applying to the great counties of Essex, in which Newark is located; Hudson, which Jersey City and Hoboken are in; and Union County where the big machine could combine to vote down the plan.

And that is what he will tell the voters of Newark and Elizabeth tonight. It was admitted at the White House today that the president plans the most vitriolic addresses of his career tonight and tomorrow night. He has told his confidential advisers that he will "handle his subject without gloves."

Has Fighting Mood
The president admits that he is seriously concerned over the New Jersey situation. He has told his friends that it was very likely his wishes would be disregarded, but he also has snapped his jaws significantly together and made it very plain that he believes the people will see that "no man who opposes a jury system is permitted to remain in public life."

The president said to one of his friends who suggested that the trip was hardly worth the effort that he believed otherwise, that he "intended during his entire term to carry every subject that belonged to the people before them no matter what tax it put upon his energies."

ARREST MISS KENNEY

MRS. PINKHURST'S CHIEF OF STAFF ARRESTED ON BOAT RETURNING FROM FRANCE

LONDON, May 1.—Miss Annie Kenney, chief of staff to Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, was arrested early today at Dover, as soon as a boat bearing her from France reached the harbor. She was charged with conspiracy and when arraigned in Bow street police court, she was held for trial and remanded to Holloway jail without bail.

The Scotland Yard detectives who yesterday rode the Women's Social and Political headquarters, at first thought they had Miss Kenney among the suffrage leaders whom they arrested in the place. Inquiry developed that she was the suffrage leader, already out on bail on charges of inciting to violence, was in Paris conferring with Miss Christabel Pankhurst.

Detectives in the French capital were notified and shadowed Miss Kenney as she returned to England. In the train to Calais they rode in the same compartment with her and on the boat they kept track of her.

W. T. LA FOLLETTE DEAD IN MADISON

Only Brother of Wisconsin Senator Stricken by Heart Disease
Yesterday

WAS PROMINENT IN PUBLIC LIFE

Office-holder in South Dakota and Prominent as Newspaper Publisher

MADISON, Wis., May 1.—William T. La Follette died at the home of Mrs. R. G. Siebeck, his sister, yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. He had been confined for about three months. Death was due to heart disease. Mr. La Follette was a prominent man in public life, having been in the public service of South Dakota before coming to Wisconsin. He was the only brother of Senator La Follette. Funeral arrangements have not been announced, but interment will be at Forest Hill.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, it was believed today, will abandon his duties at Washington and come here to attend the funeral of his brother.

Born in 1847

Mr. La Follette was born Dec. 10, 1847, Montgomery county, Ind. His father was Josiah La Follette, born in Kentucky in 1817. His mother was Mary Ferguson, born in 1818 in the state of Indiana. The family settled in Dane county, Wisconsin, in 1850, where the brothers grew to manhood on the farm. In the closing year of the Civil war he enlisted in Co. G, 46th Wisconsin infantry. On Jan. 1, 1867 he married Olivia C. Sovers, who died at Madison in February, 1911. Six children survive at Fayette, Wis. In 1871 they settled on a homestead in Clay county, Neb., where they resided for five years. In 1876 Mr. La Follette went to the Black Hills, Dakota territory, and moved his family there in 1883. In 1890 he was appointed receiver of public moneys at the Chamberlain, S. D., land office. He held the office for four years. During that period he and his sons began the publication of the Missouri Valley Journal, a leading weekly of that state.

Left Republican Party
During the Bryan movement in 1896, Mr. La Follette left the republican party. He was nominated for railroad commissioner for the state of South Dakota in 1898 on the democratic-populist-fusion ticket and was elected, receiving the largest number of votes of any candidate. He was renominated in 1900 but went down with the republican landslide.

Again in 1903 Mr. La Follette returned to the publishing business, when he and his sons purchased the Mitchell, South Dakota, Gazette, continuing its publication until 1909. In July, 1908 he was nominated for lieutenant governor of South Dakota on the democratic ticket, but again the republicans swept the state. The following December Mr. La Follette removed to Madison and took charge of his brother's weekly magazine, continuing the work until May, 1910, when he resigned. He remained in Madison, active in his private business and participated actively in the recent Wisconsin campaign.

Six Children Survive
He leaves surviving his six children: Guy E., editor of a paper at Helena, Mont.; Ralph, engaged in the government employ surveying in California; Fred, engaged in the newspaper business at LaPine, Ore.; William H., connected with La Follette's Weekly of this city and two daughters, Florence and Mrs. Maud Waterbury, resident at Los Angeles. The La Follette family was originally silk manufacturers in France. They were French Huguenots and because of their religion had to leave France. In 1745 John J. LaFollette and his wife landed at New Jersey. They had four sons, each of whom fought in the revolutionary war. At the end of the revolution they drifted westward.

Related to Virginia Lees
The first member of the family to reach Wisconsin was Joshua, father of William, and three brothers, drove horses into the state. Joshua settled near Primrose, twenty miles southwest of Madison.

A member of the La Follette family later married into the family of General Robert E. Lee of the southern confederacy.

BRADISH WILL BE NOMINATED ENGINEER

George Bradish, who has been city engineer ever since the incumbency of Walter Woods, will be nominated to the common council to succeed himself for another term by Mayor Ori Sorensen according to an announcement by the mayor today. It is likely that the council will approve Mayor Sorensen's selection for the office by a substantial majority.

PLEAD FOR RANDOLPH

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 1.—Democrats today began preparation of a petition that will be sent to Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo asking the appointment of State Senator Randolph of Manitowish as collector of internal revenue for the eastern district of Wisconsin.

SET TO PASS THE ALIEN LAND BILL

Passage of California Anti-Jap Measure Postponed
Until Tomorrow

BRYAN'S MISSION NOT A FAILURE

Has at Least Proven that U. S. Looks After Interests of Friendly Nations

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 1.—The California senate will not take final action on the Webb anti-alien land owning bill until tomorrow. This was decided on at noon after the upper house had been considering the measure for over half an hour. It was then determined to put over the final vote on the bill until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 1.—Unless some unforeseen complications arise to delay action, the upper house of the state legislature today will pass on final reading the Webb bill restricting the ownership of land by aliens. Legislators add that it will also go through the house in short order and be signed promptly by Governor Johnson.

Only One Opposes
According to senate leaders, Senator Wright is the only member of the upper body who is on record as opposing the measure. The democrats, despite the urgings of Secretary of State Bryan, declare they will support some anti-alien measure and none has yet been found to criticize the Webb bill.

Said Senator Campbell, democratic leader: "The democrats are all for anti-alien land owning legislation and the Webb bill seems acceptable. I do not, however, consider Secretary Bryan's mission a failure. I consider it, on the contrary, a great success. He has shown Japan and other nations that the United States will look after the interests of all friendly nations and he has also made it certain that the words 'ineligible to citizenship' to which the president objected, will not appear in the Webb bill."

Bans Farm Owning
Japan and other ineligible aliens under the bill, may own residential property, but are positively forbidden to own or lease land for farming or agricultural purposes. In this regard the Webb measure is regarded as more drastic even than the Bird-sall bill for which it was substituted.

The Bird-sall measure permitted Japanese to lease agricultural lands for three years, whereas, under the Webb bill, they may not lease such lands at all. It is asserted that the effect of the Webb measure would be to end absolutely all Japanese farming colonies in California.

There was widespread interest among legislators as to what attitude President Wilson would take on the measure. He does not approve it and it seems certain he told Gov. Johnson that it was unsatisfactory.

When Bryan arrived from San Francisco it was reported that Governor Johnson had arranged to whirl the secretary of state in an automobile to see the Japanese colonies in Marin and Walnut Grove (a few miles from Sacramento), where practically every white man has been driven away by the influx of the brown men.

To Go to Courts

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The California-Japanese muddle will go to the courts for final decision. The Webb bill, which now seems certain to become a law, is still discriminatory in the opinion of President Wilson and his advisers. It is also believed by them, although admittedly framed, to be a violation of the existing treaty with Japan. It is understood that immediately after the bill is enacted, the Japanese government, through its ambassador, Viscount Chinda, will file a formal protest with the state department. Up to the present time the protests have been purely informal.

The president, it is expected, will suggest in reply that the quickest way to secure results will be to bring an action in the federal courts testing the constitutionality of the act. It has been unofficially intimated that Japan will be very glad to take this action. There has been no dissatisfaction with the federal government's course.

FIRST RESCUE MADE

CHICAGO, May 1.—Four hours after he went on duty as a member of the North Beach patrol, Charles Anthony, a life saver, swam 100 yards into the lake off Wilson avenue, and rescued Warren Mach, whose sailing craft overturned. It was the first rescue of the season at the beach.

UNDERGROUND WAY FOR ROSE STREET

Sorensen, Higbee and Bradish to Broach New Plan to Railroad Commission

MANY ANNUAL VIADUCT ORDER

Plan Said to Be of Great Advantage to the City and Railroad Companies

Acting in the belief that an underground passage instead of an overhead viaduct will solve the Rose street crossing problem to the best satisfaction to all concerned, Mayor Ori Sorensen, City Engineer George Bradish, Attorney J. E. Higbee and a Milwaukee railroad representative will go to Madison tonight to hold a conference with the members and engineers of the state railroad commission. The representatives of the city will ask the commission to annul the Rose street viaduct order and investigate the feasibility of tunneling under the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad tracks. This course was decided upon at a joint meeting of the special street improvements, railroads and finance committees of the common council in the mayor's office late yesterday.

Less Expensive
It was argued at the meeting that an underground crossing would be less expensive to both the city and the railroad company and by means of a more gradual grade on the street would attract traffic from the dangerous Mill street crossing. Engineer Bradish was asked to make preliminary estimates and drawings to take to the commission in Madison.

The idea is said to have originated with Engineer Walter Woods and was advocated by President of the Council William Torrance as the most economical method of adjusting the expense. In the opinion of the advocates of the plan, if an underground passage is built, a two percent grade will be possible on the approaches, while by the viaduct plan a four percent or six percent grade is necessary, thus making it difficult for the street car company to take loaded cars across. It was argued that if the railroad company will raise their tracks over the crossing, a four percent grade will be possible on the approaches, while by the viaduct plan a four percent or six percent grade is necessary, thus making it difficult for the street car company to take loaded cars across. It was argued that if the railroad company will raise their tracks over the crossing, a four percent grade will be possible on the approaches, while by the viaduct plan a four percent or six percent grade is necessary, thus making it difficult for the street car company to take loaded cars across.

North Side Favors Plan
It was pointed out by Alderman Robert Schulze that the elimination of the steep graded approaches would greatly lessen the damage claims of property owners against the city, which amount to a large sum if the viaduct is built. Alderman Schulze declared that the north side is strongly in favor of an underground passage and opposed to the proposed viaduct.

Engineer Bradish, in making a rough estimate, said that he believed that the cost of construction of an underground passage and that of a viaduct will be about the same.

The committee will also discuss with the commission the order received yesterday in which the city was asked to close the Rose street bridge to traffic until the entire matter is settled.

The committee will return Saturday and it is probable that a special meeting of the council will be held to consider their report.

AEROPLANES BURN

HEMSTEAD, L. I., May 1.—Five of the large hangars of the Hempstead Plains aviation field and eight valuable aeroplanes were destroyed by a fire today. Scores of uncompleted machines were burned and a number of aviators had narrow escapes in rescuing their aircraft from the flaming buildings.

PICKS SUCCESSOR TO JUDGE HANFORD

WASHINGTON, May 1.—A successor to Cornelius Hanford of Seattle for judge of the federal district court of western Washington, is to be named by President Wilson within a few days. The visit of Senator Poindexter to the White house, when Washington appointments were discussed, is understood to mean that the president has chosen the new judge and has extended to the progressive senator the usual formal courtesy of discussing the selection.

Stephen D. Chadwick of Seattle is said to be assured of the place.

FIRE THREATENS TOLEDO

OLEDO, O., May 1.—A fire which broke out at Adams and Erie streets today and for a time threatened the heart of the business district was gotten under control at 3 p. m.

VACATION MARKET BRISK, MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 1.—Time is being bartered in Milwaukee and on one of the most unique exchanges anywhere. Cream City coppers are given vacations but they are forced to take them whenever it is convenient for the precinct captain. Hence the barter.

The coppers meet in the squad rooms and trade a week in July for a week in September. July was strong today, with excellent demand. In the early afternoon prices soared and at the close one week in July was bringing a week in either June or August with seven dollars to boot.

There was little trading in the cash market because vacations in May are few and far between. June and August held steady but September was weak with indications pointing to still further decline.

LA CROSSE COOPER STRIKE UNSETTLED

Local Disagreement Said to Have Assumed Nation-Wide Importance

REFUSE TO ACCEPT CONDITION

Want 41 Cents an Hour; Barrel Supply Said to Be Getting
Low

The simple little clause—"when other competing machine union factories are not paying less"—which the La Crosse cooperage companies demand be inserted in their contract with their employees has turned the La Crosse coopers' strike, now a month old, into a strike of national importance, according to union officials here today.

The men in the La Crosse cooperages demanded a scale of 25 cents an hour and a barrel of cooperage. The strike has been going on for a month and a severe shortage in barrels and kegs is being felt in the local breweries according to the claim of union men who are closely watching the situation.

Henry Knoch of Milwaukee, organizer of the national coopers' union, spent all of last week in La Crosse urging the local men to stand firm in their demand that no strike be attached to their contract, on the ground that wages will fall in Milwaukee and St. Paul and other points if the coopers in La Crosse accept lower wages. The La Crosse coopers have been getting thirty-seven and a half cents an hour and they want forty-one cents, unconditionally. The La Crosse cooperages have been shut down for the entire month and union officials are hoping that the shortage in barrels will compel the cooperages to come to their terms.

It is said that two large cooperage concerns, one in Philadelphia and one in Brooklyn, are paying less than the regular scale to their men and refuse to pay more and union men fear that if they sign the conditional contract these cooperage scales will be adopted here, being classed as "competing factories."

STORE PEOPLE STRIKE

2,500 EMPLOYEES OF BUFFALO DEPARTMENT STORES GO ON STRIKE FOR $8 MINIMUM WAGE

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 1.—Demanding a minimum wage of $8 per week for women and girls, 2,500 employees of department stores in Buffalo went on strike today.

The men and women involved in the demonstration for better pay arrived at the stores as usual this morning but instead of going to work formed picket lines along Main street, in the neighborhood of all the big stores. They distributed pamphlets announcing the strike and their demands to all pedestrians.

Two of the largest stores closed their doors shortly after the opening hour. Others remained open, but most of the clerks were out. In addition to the demands made for the women and girls, the strikers ask for a minimum wage of $8 per week for boys and $15 for men. Chauffeurs and drivers demand $14 per week.

COLLISION HURTS FIVE

CINCINNATI, O., May 1.—Nine persons were injured early today in a head-on collision between a passenger and a freight on the Big Four, north of Middletown, Ohio.

PERSONALITIES IN TARIFF DEBATE

Democratic and Republican Members Have Bitter Clashes in the House

Representative Falconer of Washington Assails Majority and Chief in Bitter Terms

WASHINGTON, May 1.—President Wilson's decision to put sugar on the free list in three years was sustained this afternoon by the house in considering the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill in committee of the whole. By a vote of 156 to 85 the house defeated an amendment of Representative Mann of Illinois proposing to strike the free sugar clause from the bill.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—A bitter exchange of personalities enlivened the house debate today on the tariff. From the time the legislators met it was apparent that the tension of the debate was wearing on several members' tempers and before long there were outbursts.

Representative Humphrey of Washington got "peevish" at Representative Palmer of Pennsylvania when the latter sought to interrupt his speech.

"The gentleman from Pennsylvania has been strutting around here egotistically," Humphrey shouted. "The gentleman from Washington has had a personal grudge against me," Palmer retorted. "Ever since I tied up his mileage graft of which he was the chief beneficiary in this house, amounting to $4,000 a year for traveling here to three sessions of congress. Since then he has been criticizing me at every opportunity." Before this passage to say about resending Wilson, "Leaping over and reaching his finger at the democratic speaker," he declared: "You findoo-Japanese-Chinese lovers who want to put shingles on the free list, if you had a grain of sense must know you are ruining a great industry. You're trying to put the Japanese into California with a pedagogic president, who knows a lot of fine phrases, but little about the labor economics of our country."

The wood schedule was finally approved and the sugar rates taken up.

BALD JACK SPEAKER

NEW YORK, May 1.—Jack Rose, the bald-headed gambler who figured so prominently in the murder of Herman Rosenthal and the trial of Lieut. Becker, qualified as an after-dinner speaker at the dinner of the Twilight club last night. Among those who spoke and listened to Rose's speech were Judge Ben B. Lindsay of Denver, Assistant District Attorney Frank Moss; Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes and the Rev. Christian F. Reiser. Rose told his audience that if juvenile courts had existed when he was a boy his life might have been a different story.

DETECTIVE HUNTS GIRL

NEWCASTLE, Ind., May 1.—Though money has been raised locally to keep a Burns detective a month on the job of searching for little Catherine Winters, who mysteriously disappeared on March 20, the sleuth has been here for several days picking up the threads of the story and today was following a clew the nature of which was a secret.

RAIN CHECKS FIRES.

BEMIDJI, Minn., May 1.—Late reports show that Bemidji's danger from the threatening forest fire at Bemidji and near Remer and Lake George is past. A heavy fall of rain early this morning, coupled with a fall of the wind and the heroic efforts of fire-fighters, led by Ranger Thornton, stayed the course of the holocaust.

U. S. BOATS HERE.

The Elinore and the David Tipton, two government boats, docked on the levee here last night, and continued on their journey up the river this morning. The Elinore is the boat that has been detailed to place buoys and government lights on the river in this section. The Iris passed through the wagon bridge this morning, going down the river with a barge load of lumber.

SNOW IN NORTHWEST

WINNIPEG, Man., May 1.—A heavy fall of snow was general throughout Alberta province yesterday, according to reports received here today.

LIVINGSTON, Mont., May 1.

Snow covers the valleys in this section to the depth of four inches today. The farmers were complaining of dry soil and the unseasonable weather comes as a great relief.

WEATHER

Temperature for La Crosse during past 24 hours:
High, 84.
Low, 60.
Precipitation, 0.

Forecast for La Crosse and vicinity: Unsettled and cooler tonight and Friday.

Wisconsin: Fair and continued warm southeast; probably unsettled and cooler north and west portions tonight and Friday.

Minnesota: Mostly cloudy tonight and Friday; frost tonight with cooler east and south portions.

Iowa: Generally fair; showers west and central portions tonight and Friday; colder west portion tonight and central portion Friday.

Weather Conditions.

A vast area of low pressure covers the southern Rocky mountain region this morning and another low has appeared in the Canadian northwest. The high over the east central states yesterday morning has moved eastward and lies over the Atlantic states this morning. The pressure is also high over the northwest Pacific coast.

The weather has been generally fair in most sections during the past twenty-four hours. Light rains have occurred in the Rocky mountain states, South Dakota and southern Canada. It is snowing this morning at Sheridan, Wyoming, Qu'Appelle, Assiniboia and Modena, Utah. It is cooler this morning in North Dakota and South Dakota and warmer in the upper Mississippi valley and lake region.

URGE VICE PROBE

MADISON, Wis., May 1.—(Special.)—Senator Victor Linley and a delegation of clubwomen and representatives of Associated Charities appeared to the assembly committee on public welfare yesterday to recommend the Linley bill for a legislative investigation of the white slave traffic and ancillary conditions. The bill has passed the senate and has been favorably reported by the joint finance committee.

SUICIDES IN JAIL

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 1.—A purely formal verdict of suicide was returned by the coroner's jury that investigated the death of John Rami, 49, who hanged himself to the ceiling of his cell in the local jail with a pair of suspenders. Rami had been arrested for abusing his family.

MEETS DEATH VIA DYNAMITE ROUTE

Young Man Residing Near Sparta Commits Suicide
by Blowing Himself Up

SPARTA, Wis., April 30.—Oscar Olson, a young man twenty-four years of age, living north of Big Creek, deliberately committed suicide Tuesday evening with the aid of dynamite. The young man's body was blown to fragments by the explosion of the cartridge. No cause or reason for this terrible self-destruction is known. Sheriff Vieth was called and, accompanied by an undertaker, went to the scene of the explosion, and upon his report is based the determination that it was a suicide.

Council Votes Paving
The common council met Tuesday evening in special session on the call of the mayor and adopted the resolution for the paving of Court street from the south line of Franklin street to the south line of Oak street, West Main street from the west line of Court street to the west line of K street, Franklin street from the east line of Water street to the east line of Spring street, with brick; and for the pavement of Franklin street from Spring street to Chester street, and Montgomery street from the west line of Water street to the east line of Kent street with asphalt macadam; and for the construction of a fourteen foot macadam roadway on Wisconsin street from L street to Black River street, and on Rusk avenue from Montgomery street to the city limits, and on Wolcott street from Douglas street to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway company's right of way, and on South Water street from the bridge over the La Crosse river to the south line of High Court street. A remonstrance signed by Montgomery street property owners was tabled after being read by the clerk. A report of the street committee estimated the cost of the pavements at a little over $18,000.

May Bond City
The next step in the street improvement plans for the city will be the bonding proposition. In case a bonding ordinance is adopted by a vote of three-fourths of the council, the matter may be brought to a vote of the people by a petition of ten percent of the electors. There is much enthusiasm expressed in some localities in favor of bonding and there is much active opposition to the proposition to bond in other localities. It is said that the Sparta Herald will support the bonding issue and the Monroe County Democrat will oppose bonding. The mayor and street committee of the council are in favor of bonding the city because they believe that it will be cheaper and better for the city to do up a big bond issue than to improve at once of the council is opposed to a part of a great many of the larger and heavier taxpayers of the city.

Another subject for much heated discussion in local circles is the question as to the desirability of asphalt macadam pavement as compared with brick pavement. The street committee seems to be committed to asphalt macadam and has the support of a number of enthusiastic agitators. In favor of brick because of its desirability and cleanliness, are found a number of the older heads and more experienced in municipal improvements, as well as a number of the big taxpayers who seem committed to brick because it won't wear out. There seems to be no one ready to make a statement on authority that asphalt macadam is short lived and is not a desirable pavement, but the opposition seems to be based simply upon the known qualities of brick pavement. Supporters of asphalt macadam state that it has been satisfactory in other cities and will be here and that it is very durable and clean.

ASK BILLIONS FOR GOOD ROADS

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Expenditure of one billion for the construction of good roads and two billion dollars for their maintenance during the next fifty years, is proposed by Jonathan Bourne, Jr., former Senator from Oregon, today in a plan reported to the joint congressional committee on this subject.
The billion dollar construction fund, Bourne proposes, will be raised by sale of government bonds and will be loaned to the states, which will give their own fifty year bonds in return.

Try the New Way Of Curing Corns

Easy. As One, Two, Three; No Fuss, No Pain, by Using "GETS-IT."
Just take two seconds to put a little "GETS-IT" on that corn. That corn is "done for" as sure as the sun rises. The corn shrivels up, vanishes. That's the surprise you get by using this new-plan corn cure. There's nothing to stick to the stocking or sock; your corn pains stop. You're saved the bother of applying plasters that make the corn bulge out from the core. You're saved salves that eat into the healthy flesh and "pull"; no more fussing with bandages. You don't have to help by picking and dragging out your corns, or cutting with knives or razors.

"When I think of All the Things I Tried for Corns and Failed, and 'GETS-IT' Got 'em in a Hurry

"GETS-IT" is safe, painless, stops pain, never hurts healthy flesh. It is guaranteed. Try it on warts, calluses and bunions, too.

"GETS-IT" is sold at all druggists at 25 cents a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago. Sold in La Crosse by Columbian Pharmacy, City Book and Drug Store, Spencer, McCord Drug Co., Chas. Bayschlag, Geo. Mariner, C. F. & L. Runckel.

MORE TROUBLE FOR STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Besides the Chinese recognition, the California-Japanese embargo, the Guatemalan-English debt dispute and numerous other complications now pending before the state department for solution, still another was added today. Venustiano Carranza, Mexican revolutionist, was responsible.

Carranza has issued a proclamation, according to state department dispatches authorizing a state debt of $2,500,000. He proposes to issue and force the circulation of paper money and jail all persons—natives or foreigners—who refuse to accept it as legal tender.

The state department anticipates trouble if Carranza insists on his plan.

And many a homely woman provides for trouble when can go out looking for trouble.

A Spring Health Mistake Many Make

(Marty's Health Guide)
"It is a common mistake, made by most people after the winter season, to think they can go through the summer enjoying good health without first ridding the system of the poisons and impurities in the blood which cause most spring ailments, fever and sickness. To act properly, giving needed energy and nourishment to the body, the blood must be pure."

"Of all spring-medicines none equals the good old-fashioned home-remedy made by dissolving 1/2 cupful sugar and one ounce karoene (which can be bought at any drug store) in 1/2 pint alcohol, then adding hot water to make a quart. It is easily made at small cost and a tablespoonful taken before meals will do wonders in purifying the blood, removing sallowness, pimples and restoring the liver to normal action. It restores perfect health and energy to a worn-out body—gives one vigor, an appetite and strengthens the body tissues of both old and young."

URGES CONNECTION OF LAKE AND RIVER

Assemblyman Chincock Pleads for Canal Between Mississippi
and Superior

MADISON, Wis., May 1.—(Special.)—Instead of allowing the Panama canal machinery to go to the scrap heap when the ditch is dug, Assemblyman John Chincock, Hudson, plans to have it utilized in building a canal to connect the Mississippi river at Prescott, Wis., and Lake Superior. His bill calling for a legislative commission to confer with a similar body recently created by the state of Minnesota to urge the plan on congress had a hearing before the finance committee yesterday. An appropriation of $2,500 is asked, but the canal otherwise is not to cost the state a cent, he said. He quoted former Secretary of War Stimson as endorsing the plan from an economical standpoint.

It was estimated that 125,000 tons of power can be developed at the rapids and locks to be built, from which the government would reap fees of $1,500,000 a year. By this proposed route, mammoth barges holding the equivalent of trainloads would transport millions of tons of coal, ore, produce and grain to markets at a cost much less than railroad rates. Whereas the Erie canal—over 400 miles long—cost $101,000,000, the proposed channel would not be costly, he said, as only about forty miles of actual excavation and grading needed to be done. Its importance to the development of northern and northwestern Wisconsin cannot be over-estimated, he said. A long stretch of the proposed route is already navigable at the southern end. Assemblyman Chincock expressed confidence that congress would be favorably inclined toward a project which meant so much to the industrial and commercial development of a large middle western territory.

RESERVATION HAS BAD FOREST FIRES

ASHLAND, Wis., May 1.—Forest fires, the most serious since the great fires four years ago, have sprung up on the Bad River reservation.

A squad of fire fighters left Odanah on Wednesday in charge of the Indian farmer to fight the flames, which are less than a mile from the city. Two separate fires on opposite sides of the Northwestern lines are keeping the station men busy.

The family of John Harlo, north of Odanah, was driven from home after the barn and hay sheds were burned and the residence destroyed. A strong wind prevails and rain is badly needed. Several farms on the reservation are seriously threatened. The atmosphere at Ashland is heavily charged with smoke, showing the existence of numerous scattering fires. The smoke on the lakes is hindering navigation.

MINE ATTACKED BY $50,000 FIRE

BESSEMER, Mich., May 1.—Fire destroyed the boiler room at shaft house No. 9 of the Tilden mine yesterday morning. Hundreds of men were put to work to keep the fire from getting down the shaft into the mine. Machinery and building loss amounts to over $50,000. Should the fire get into the mine the loss would be several hundred thousand dollars. Friction on the hoisting cable caused the blaze.

O. K. OPTOMETRY BILL

MADISON, Wis., May 1.—(Special.)—The Nordman optometry bill has been recommended for passage by the joint committee on finance with three dissenting votes. Assemblymen Nye, Roethe and Roessler. Although there are a number of senators on the committee, all were in favor of the bill. The measure will be on the calendar tomorrow. A bill of a similar nature has been enacted into law in thirty states.

TRY IT! SAYS SAGE TE DARKENS AND BEAUTIFIES ADED, GRAY HAIR

Hair Soft and Luxuriant
and Removes Dandruff

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is coming in vogue again, says a well-known downtown druggist. It was our grandmother's treatment and hundreds of women and men too, are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-made product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy" for 50 cents a bottle. It is the popular because nobody can give it has been applied. Simply give a soft brush or sponge with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and this through your hair, taking a small strand at a time. Do this at night, and by morning the gray disappears and after another application it is restored to its natural color.

What delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that it beautifully darkens the hair, say it produces that soft lustrous appearance of abundance which so attractive; besides prevents dandruff; itching scalp and falling hair. Here, you gray-haired folks, busy: look years younger. O. T. Hart, agent.

MILWAUKEE ELKS IN MINSTREL SHOW

MILWAUKEE, May 1.—One hundred and twenty-five Milwaukee Elks left their hotel Tuesday night for their annual minstrel gambol and for 195 consecutive minutes introducing comedy with good singing and dancing and novelty, took quips at political personages, discussed national topics and caricatured one another. By the way, the Davidson was filled with the huge volume of music by these Elks' piano "phileas" brought entertainment to a close not a per-performed some time ago on account of lack of evidence.

By the way, the Davidson was filled with the huge volume of music by these Elks' piano "phileas" brought entertainment to a close not a per-performed some time ago on account of lack of evidence.

KILL CUNNINGHAM BILL

MADISON, Wis., May 1.—(Special.)—Senate last night voted to kill the Cunningham bill empowering the county board, instead of the state tax commission as at present, to appoint the board of review for income taxes, and also amending the law to eliminate the requirement that the board need not take the statements of the assessors in arriving at their settlements of dispute.

The vote was 14 to 14, but Lieut. Gov. Morris broke the tie by voting against the bill. The measure caused an extended debate.

Bunny Told the Tortoise to Go Home.

Daddy's Bedtime

It's a Poor Rule
Stry—That Can't Be Broken Sometimes.

VELYN had been told that was bedtime, but she coaxed to be allowed to stay up until she had finished the picture she was painting.

"When Evelyn starts anything she doesn't like to stop till it is done," Jack said.

"H'm," remarked daddy; "that reminds me of a story of the tortoise."

"The tortoise bragged that he began anything he never stopped until he had it finished. That might be good plan sometimes, but it is not wise to make a rule that you never break."

"One day the tortoise as he was crawling along through the woods came to an old half rotten tree trunk."

"The tree trunk was covered with mushrooms, and when he saw them the tortoise smacked his lips, for he was fond of mushrooms."

"So he climbed up on the tree trunk, and he began to eat and eat."

"I won't stop," said he, "until I get them all eaten." And he gobbled so fast that it looked as though it might not take him long.

"Just then Mr. Rabbit came hurrying along. 'You'd better go right home and hide,' Mr. Rabbit cried; 'the dogs are out hunting.'"

"Mr. Tortoise didn't stop eating. 'Do you see all these fine mushrooms?' he asked."

"Very foolish of you," Mr. Tortoise answered. "You'd better stop and have a bite with me. You can't tell when you'll come across nice mushrooms like these."

"I don't care," Mr. Rabbit said. "I'm afraid if I stop the dogs will get a bite at me. Come along, Mr. Tortoise. It isn't safe for you to stay there. You may get killed."

"No," replied Mr. Tortoise obstinately; "I've said I wouldn't leave here until I'd finished the mushrooms, and when I say a thing I keep my word."

"All right," answered Mr. Rabbit. "There come the dogs. I'm going."

"The dogs rushed up, looking for Mr. Rabbit. They looked inside the old hollow tree on which the mushrooms grew, and they couldn't find him."

"Then they looked on top of the tree, and they found Mr. Tortoise."

"'Boorny!' they barked. Then they grabbed the tortoise and pulled him off the log and shook him and bit him until he was sorry he had ever seen those mushrooms."

"Poor Mr. Tortoise, the hunters got him, and I'm sure if he hadn't been dead he would have agreed that it was very foolish of him not to have broken his rule that time."

A PRACTICAL LESSON
IN BALLOT VALUES

The spring election in Duluth resulted in a contested election regarding a high office, and the recount
showed that nearly all the ballots in
one precinct had been checked off
with lead pencil marks opposite the
crosses made by the voters. As a result all these ballots were thrown
out, and the election result was changed.

It doesn't matter whether the
marking was innocently done by an
election official, or was done design-
edly with the definite idea that a re-
count could be secured and the bal-
lots thus tampered with thrown out.
The important thing is that the things
COULD BE DONE, and that when
done IT ALTERED THE RESULT OF AN ELECTION.

That is the failure of any system
of voting in which the intent of the
voter is indicated by pencil marks.
It opens the way to the vitiation of
the election either by fraud or error, and it signally fails to protect the voter in his right to a voice in elections.

That is what the Coupon Ballot
obviates, and it will come back and
be used, sooner or later.

We note that in the current issue
La Follette's Weekly recognizes the
value of the Coupon Ballot as a safe
way to overcome the objections to
the system of voting by mail.

FARM KNOWLEDGE

The new secretary of agriculture,
Prof. Houston, believes that the big
job before his department now is to
organize rural life so that country
dwellers may secure the benefit of
the vast amount of information and
scientific learning which for years has
been accumulating in the department.
This knowledge does not get distributed. The problem is to distribute
it. A knowledge of farming, practical farm credits, methods for marketing farm products—these are the
farmer.

In order to further this work Secretary Houston has secured the services of Dr. T. N. Carver, professor
of economics in Harvard University,

to give his entire time and attention
to this work. "Rural Organization Service," is what the new work will
be called and one branch of it will
be the new division of markets for
which congress appropriated $50,000
last session.

"Marketing," said Secretary Hous-
ton, "is only one aspect of the great
problem of rural organization. Other
phases should be considered at
once. The general education board
has for years sought avenues for
useful service to the people and has
now promised to co-operate with us
in the support of our farm demonstration work and this proposed rural extension service."

Organization will be conducted
around subjects which interest the
particular locality. In one place it
may be roads, in another mosquitoes,
in another forestation or the protection of the range. The purpose
is to bring the rural dwellers into cooperative unity. Money in plenty has
been spent by the agricultural department for years in securing valuable information for farmers and it
is a sharp reflection upon one phase
of its efficiency that so little has
reached the people it was intended to
serve.

LET COUNCIL SEEK
PEACE AND PROGRESS

In the midst of a difficult situation
there is presented an opportunity for
members of the city council to do a patriotic duty. Of some members it
will exact suppression of personal
feelings and ignoring of slights, and
red-blooded men hate to "turn the
other cheek." But if they would be respected by their constituents they
must ignore every consideration of
a personal nature and look ahead on
the broad pathway of public duty.

Mayor Sorensen has declared in
the most emphatic language that he
is in favor of things that will build
for a growing city, a busy and prosperous city, a healthful city, a beautiful city, a city clean physically and
morally.

For every one of these things
members of the council who supported another candidate for mayor declared themselves in the recent campaign. If they were for them then,
they certainly are for them now, and
to get them is the big achievement.
They can be secured ONLY BY CO-
OPERATION OF THE SOLID COUN-CIL AND THE MAYOR.

The Tribune believes justice demands that we take Mayor Sorensen
at his word, for he has spoken earnestly. It believes aldermen should
not "lay for him" with hair-trigger
criticism, but should accept the situation and join hands in the attempt
to make the administration worth
while. Humans can't do this while
their minds are filled with thoughts
of resentment, with factionalism of a personal nature. If we are to make history in La Crosse during the next
two years, we must get together for
the community. Let every alderman
who has a grievance FORGET IT.
Bickering is a confession of disappointment—a smile is man's best fortification. After all, these personal
misfortunes but strengthen us for
life's real work. Let the test of action be, not whether the mayor is for
or against it, but whether it is sound
and good and honorable. That way
lies Greater La Crosse. If Ori J.
Sorensen leads in that direction, who
dare decline to follow him!

OF THE STORY

That the people of California may
by legislative enactment violate an
international treaty in no sense
proves that there is no justice in
their contentions. Their side of the conflict does not fail to make an impression, and perhaps we cannot
realize its real strength without
stepping into their shoes.

No doubt race prejudice is one
active motive in the minds of Californians, but prejudice seldom exists without something back of it.
For instance, back of what certain
people have been pleased to call
"class prejudice" in the United States is the trust question with all
its ramifications.

Californians claim that notwith-
standing the coolie treaty cheap Japanese labor is flooding the country
districts of the state in the employ
of wealthy Japanese who are gradually absorbing the land holdings,
and that the progress they are making warrants the fear that the whites
will shortly be dispossessed.

In Wisconsin we are friendly to
the Japanese, because we admire the
pluck of the aggressive little men,
and because we have no reason to
dislike them. But when we consider
the California situation let us trans-
pose the conditions and try to imagine how we would feel were Japanese rapidly acquiring the farm lands
of Wisconsin.

Drinking Song
Secretary of State Bryan serves no-
thing but soft drinks to the members
of the diplomatic corps at state dinners.—News Item.

Be our fortunes straight or bevel,
Let us riot, let us revel!
Let us fling care to a person whom
to mention we decline.

Bring the flowing bowl, and fill her
To the brim with—sars-parilla,
Or some other unfurnished substitute for wicked wine.

Flushed with drink and fain of pleasure,
Tread we now a careless measure—
Doctor Watts or Wesley made.

Wreaths around our temples twine!
Let us sing of joys divine
Mounting in the ruby-grapejuice,
colored pop or lemonade.

Ever since the world began
Drink has been the friend of man!

Boy, the brimming bumper bring—
Then we'll dance! Then we'll sing!

Daylight Economy
A girl from the country who had recently come to town to work and
who was busy all day went to a dentist one evening to have him ex-
tract a tooth which had been troubling her. She asked him what he
would charge for the operation.
"Five dollars with gas, two with-
out," was the answer.
"Oh," said the girl, "then I'll drop
light."

He Was Putting In
That it is sometimes mighty easy
to get the truth if we ask for it was
demonstrated the other evening by a story told by George Ois Smith, director of the geological survey at Washington.

One afternoon a philanthropic
party visited a public school in the poorer section of a big city, and while
making a study of the conditions in
the knowledge factory thought it proper to ask the youngsters a few
questions.

"Can any little boy or girl tell
me," said he impressively, "what is
the greatest of all the virtues?"
Nothing doing. Every bright little face looked as if the mind back of it was doing a hard piece of thinking, but there was no reply.

"We will try it again," encouragingly said the philanthropist. "What
am I doing when I give up my time
and pleasure to come and talk to you
in your school?"
"I know now, mister!" exclaimed
Johnny Smith, raising his hand and
snapping his fingers.
"Well, what am I doing, little
man?" smilingly asked the visitor.
"Buttin' in," was the startling re-
joinder of Johnny.

All-Absorbing Meals
A farmer who went to a large city
to see the sights engaged a room at a
hotel, and before asked the clerk
about the hours for dining.

"We have breakfast from 6 to 11,
dinner from 11 to 3, and supper from
3 to 8," explained the clerk.
"Wa-al, say," inquired the farmer
in surprise, "what time air I goin'
to git ter see the town?"—The Ladies' Home Journal.

Wouldn't Take Air
The bartender grasped the man
next the stove by the shoulder and
shook him until he was awake.
"Here, Zeph," he told him, "you'd
better go out and get some fresh air.
It'll do you good."

Zeph merely grunted drunkenly
and huddled back in his chair. The bartender tried it again, with like result.
"You won't get out, won't you?"
he roared angrily. Seizing the unfortunate Zeph by the collar and the
seat of the trousers, he escorted him
forcibly to the alley. "Get out there
in the air and brace up," was his
parting advice.

"Y' kin put me out if y' like, but"
—Zeph straightened up with drunk-
en dignity—"ye can't make me take
no air, durn ye."—Everybody's Magazine.

Found More than All of Them
A city woman who recently passed
a few days at a farm bought some
poultry from the farmer with a view
to providing fresh eggs for breakfast
every morning. She sent them to
town by messenger, at the same time
dispatching a note to her husband,
telling him to look out for the con-
signments. Her husband, on reaching
his home that night, asked if the poultry had arrived. He was informed that it had, but explained the
servant, he had carelessly left the hatchery door open and all the chickens had escaped. A fowl hunt
was immediately organized. The next day the husband, meeting his wife on
her return, exclaimed: "A nice time
I had with your poultry. I spent three hours hunting and only found
ten."

"You may consider yourself lucky,
then," replied his wife, "for I

Send at Once for Free Trial Package

Everyone who is troubled with sore, swollen, or tender feet—swollen
feet—smelly feet, corns, calluses or
bunions can quickly make their feet
well now. TIZ makes sore feet well
and swollen feet are quickly reduced
to their natural size. Thousands of
ladies have been able to wear shoes
a full size smaller with perfect com-
fort. R. H. Cheney, Grundy Center,
Iowa, says: "I put on a new pair of
shoes the first of the week and have
worn them every day since. I could never do this before using TIZ, and
they are a half size smaller than I
have been wearing."

TIZ is the only foot remedy ever
made which acts on the principle of
drawing out all the poisonous ex-
udations which cause sore feet. Pow-
ders and other remedies merely clog
up the pores. TIZ cleanses them out
and keeps them clean. It works right
off. You will feel better the very first time it is used. Use it a week and you can forget you ever had sore
feet. Even if you should let your self be fooled into taking a substitute for TIZ, you can't fool your feet. TIZ

The Just and
The Unjust

By Vaughan Kester
The Prodigal Judge

As he listened to these sounds,
from somewhere off in the distance
he heard the shriek of an engine's
whistle. They were coming now if
they came at all! In spite of himself, his hope revived. To believe that they had failed was out of the question, and the beat of his pulse
and the throb of his heart quick-
ened.

He endured twenty minutes of
suspense, then he heard voices.
Brockett threw open the door, and Elizabeth, white-faced and shaking, was before him.

"John!" she cried, with such
anguish that in one terrible instant
all hope went from him.

His soul seemed to stand naked
at the very gates of death, and the
vision of his brutal ending came before his burning eyes. Words of protest trembled on his lips. This
endured but for an imperceptible
space of time, and then that larger pity which was not for himself but
for Elizabeth, took him quickly to
her side.

"John—" she cried again, and
held out her arms.

"Do not speak—I know," he said.
Her head dropped on his shoulder
and her strength seemed to forsake
her.

"I know, dear!" he repeated.
"We could do nothing!" she
gasped.

"You have done everything that
love and devotion could do!"
She looked up into his face.

"You are not afraid?" she whis-
pered, clinging to him.

"I think not," he said simply.
"You are very brave, John—I shall try to be brave, also."

"My dear, dear Elizabeth!" he
murmured sadly, and they were
silent.

Without in the corridor, an occasional whispered word passed between General Herbert and the
deputy.

"The governor would do nothing,"
John, Elizabeth faltered at length.
"I understand, dear," he said
tenderly.

"He would not even see us; we
went repeatedly to his house and to
his secretary. The governor had left
town; he never intended to see us!"
To reach this end—when nothing
can be done—Her eyes grew wide
with horror.

He drew her closer, and touched
her cold lips with his.

"There is one thing you can do
that will be a comfort to me: Elizabeth, let your father take you home!"

"No, no, I must stay till morning, until the day breaks—don't
send me away, John!" she en-
treated.

"It will be easier—" he said.
Yet his arms still held her close
to him, and he gazed down into the
upturned face that rested against
his breast. It was his keen sense of
her suffering that weighed on him
now. What a wreck he had made of
her life—what infinite compassion
and pity he felt! He held her closer.

"What is it, dear?" she asked.
But he could not translate his
feelings into words.

"Oh, if there were only something
we could do!" she moaned.

"Through all these weeks you have given me hope and strength! You say that I am brave! Your love
and devotion have lifted me out of
myself; I would be ashamed to be a coward when I think of all you have
endured!"

He felt her shiver in his arms,
then in the momentary silence the
court-house bell struck the half-
hour.

"I thought it was later," she said,
as the stroke of the bell died out
in the stillness.

"It is best that you should leave
this place, dearest—" he said.
"Don't send me from you, John—I can not bear that yet—" she im-
plored.

Pitifully and tenderly his eyes
looked deep into hers. What had
she not endured for his sake! And
the long days of effort had terminated in this last agony of disappointment; but now, and almost
mercifully, he felt the fruitless
struggle was ended. All that remained was the acceptance of an inexorable fate. He drew forward his chair for her, and as she sank wearily into it, he seated himself on the edge of the cot at her side.

"McBride's murderer will be found one of these days, and then all the world will know that what you believe is the truth," said North at length.

"Yes, dear," replied Elizabeth simply.

Some whispered word of General Herbert's or the deputy's
reached them in the interval of
silence that ensued. Then presently
in that silence they had both feared to
break, the court-house bell rang
again. It was twelve o'clock. Elizabeth rose.

"I am going now, John—" she
said, in a voice so low that he
scarcely heard her. "I am going
home. You wish it—and you must sleep." She caught his hands and
pressed them to her heart. "Oh,
my darling—good night!"

She came closer in his arms, and
held up her lips for him to kiss. The
passion of life had given place to
the chill of death. It was today
that he was to die! No longer could
they think of it as a thing of tomorrow, for at last the day had
come.

"Yes, you must go," he said, in

Daily Short Story

DEFEAT

By LOUISE OLNEY

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

Tired, dirty in his mechanic's clothes, Jim Foster swung out of the shop just in time to meet the charming stream of down town closing time. He would not have minded that—but he almost ran into Ellie, who was listening so intently to a upper young fellow bonding over her that she did not see Jim at all. It was bitter not to be seen by this pretty thing with her big, tired eyes and delicate air.

Jim turned to look after them. He knew contentedly that he made a day nearly as much as such fellows did in a week. Why didn't they get a man-size job? And what could girl see in, say, the specimen Elsie now walked with? It was a cheap eater, a cheaper dance, a lunch and then as a treat—but what lady? And, at the end, what did girl get? She only cheapened herself, wasted her time. This fellow, Perry Benson, could never make a home—probably it hadn't entered his head that she needed one. That any able-bodied man should support at least one other than himself.

His latter idea was part of Jim's life. Now, as he swung toward the little house in the suburbs, a house that would be his with a few more installments, took off his cap and let the May breeze blow through his heavy black hair. The wind felt good on his face and he liked the children running in the streets as he got further from the center of the city, and playing baseball and old ladies coming back from belated calls, and the edge of town. That was he had bought there—it was a disorderly and run down place, but on vacant lots trim little houses were going up. His own house was a made-over one.

He unlocked and entered his little back door and washed precariously to lighting the little gas stove and getting his own supper. Heretofore it had been a bit of a bother. He hadn't minded getting breakfast and supper when he had a good noon-day meal down town. The home cooking had been a temporary sort of thing—a make-do. He had planned to have a wife to have things cheery and ready for him some day.

He heated a can of beans and made some coffee and cut the baker's bread and tried not to see Ellie's face in the purely imaginary chair opposite him. He had never intended choosing her anyhow. Her face just sort of put itself there from the time a few months ago when he had gone into Hanson's linen department to buy some towels. She had sold them to him, and her fragility and sweetness and a certain reserve and gravity made him remember her. He had found himself buying things from her a few days ago. He must have been in a daze—always for some trifle or getting.

His supper was without flavor. He recalled that a month ago he met her on the street one day and had asked leave to walk with her. She shrank and and he had some ado to prove that he meant no harm. Of he should have found some other girl. He had known his speaking to her was not very friendly. Finally, finding him, she let him come very frank and pleasant, but disinclined to let him come. He liked her for that. Work was not always so careful.

But this is not what took the flavor from his picked-up meal. After meeting with her he had found that who did know her—it was a chance, too, of a sort which he hated.

od. He never went to the Dream-On Dances, but Bom Merrill fairly bullied him into entering one night. And almost the first girl face he saw pass him was that of Ellie. He had gone hot and cold and angry. Then he remembered that her goings and comings were not his to regulate.

Bob had a dance with her and Jim watched them, wondering that she had come here. Didn't she know better? She would meet men that should not even know of her existence. He waited for the wait to end and presented himself for an introduction. After that he had danced with her a few rounds and then asked to take her off the floor. He proceeded to talk to her like a brother. It was a frank talk. He went too far, he knew—he lectured her. And, since she had avoided him. He had been twice to see her and she refused to appear—at least he thought she did. The woman said she was not in, but he was sure that he caught a glimpse of her on one of the times. Now he ate and mentally went over what he told her.

His warning had been to the effect that she was too good for this sort of thing; that she was in danger of being misjudged, making bad acquaintances; that she was too delicate and should be outdoors in the air. Finally her silence irritated him and he insisted in taking her home forthwith. She had come with a group of others and got off on the plea of a headache. But she had not promised not to go again. And here she was with that worthless Perry Benson—and what business did he, Jim, have with her, after all? He asked himself that, and answered that he must be crazy. He would put her out of his mind.

After he had tidied up and mended a place in the fence, he thoughtfully put on his good clothes and went down the street for a walk. All roads led to Ellie, and he found himself going in the direction of her boarding house. He rang the bell, asked the hard faced woman who answered for Miss Cadwell, and waited. Would she see him? Why did she avoid him? He only wanted a walk with her—she had walked with him a few times. He seemed to see her childlike face beside him, her fair head not up to his shoulder, and to hear her gentle, precise little speeches. Once he had called forth a rippling laugh out of her seriousness.

"She's out," was the woman's answer. Jim simply turned and went down the steps and into the twilight. He hated the gas lamp at the corner, and the children and the boys playing hide and seek. He was sick of everything. And now he knew what all this was—he was in love, like any goose of a youth; he, twenty-six years old and in his senses on other subjects! And, probably, she was off to a dance with that fellow Benson! Probably she was like all the rest—probably she was not the girl for him; but he couldn't think so! His thoughts clung to her, all that was protective and affectionate in him went out to shelter her.

He turned a corner sharp and without warning ran squarely into one of those women—no a girl, by the soft, alarmed "Oh!" of fright and pain. He caught at and saved her from falling, trying to excuse his unpardonable blindness. Then he saw who it was.

"Oh, Ellie!" he said, using her first name. "Oh, Ellie!" He was ready now to be quiet and good. He had mentally accepted his defeat. She had plainly showed she didn't care for him, so he would be simply friendly. Looking down at her now, wondering that she did not speak, he perceived to his amazement and dismay that she was crying. Tears ran down her cheeks. He put a hand under her arm and protected her down the street lest passers should note her distress.

"Oh—did I hurt you, Ellie. I'm a great stupid brute, as well as a fool! I chase after you when I ought to see that you just can't love me! I couldn't help loving you—I wanted to take care of you. I lectured and interfered because I wanted to take care of you. I—"

She drew her arm from his and stopped short to look up at him. Her face fairly shined through the tears. Her voice was a revelation.

"Oh!" she breathed. "Oh! you—really—care? And—oh, couldn't you understand—that I cared too from—the very—first?"

He had no words for a moment. She—cared! The thought made him silent and dizzy and dumb and ineffectually happy. He drew her very close as they walked along the way. Then he whispered what made her hold her breath for joy. She was to be a wife. She was to have a real home.

News Of The North Side

Mississippi River Field for Sportsmen of Rod and Reel; Many Parties Out

Fishermen of the city who have had the idea that the season for catching game fish did not open until June 1, will miss the best part of the time allotted them for the sport, if they do not turn to the game and fish laws of the state, and find that at 12 o'clock last night, the lid was decidedly off for the catching of the fighting variety of the finny tribe.

The law reads that all game fish may be caught in the Mississippi river and adjoining sloughs, between May 1 to March 1. In the vicinity of La Crosse are several lakes, that are but juts from the Mississippi river, and these have been in doubt, as legal fishing grounds. Rice Lake, French Lake, Goose Lake, Round Lake and Broken Gun stream, are fishing places, according to game wardens.

Expert fishermen state that everything points to an excellent season for the catching of game fish this year in the Mississippi, as the water conditions have been just right for the fish to stay in these waters. Several fish fans from the north side, seizing opportunity by the forelock, left their homes at midnight, to await the rising of the sun. Several parties who returned at a late hour report good catches.

NEAR RIOT AT PROBE

LAST NIGHT'S SESSION OF ILLINOIS SENATE VICE COMMISSION DISTURBED BY UNRULY CROWD

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 1.—The Illinois senate vice commissioners were not through with their investigation of wages in Springfield factories, when a riot broke out in the hall.

"The opposition that developed here was unexpected, but it has aroused our fighting blood," said the young lieutenant governor, "we have uncovered some interesting facts and we intend to stop in Springfield every once in a while and give them a probe."

Some of the "interesting facts," O'Hara referred to were obtained from the testimony of Mrs. Ella Morris, a little woman with pallid face and drawn features, who testified after policemen had quieted an unruly crowd and instructed C. F. Mortimer and Arthur Fitzgerald, two young attorneys, who interrupted the proceedings, to sit down or leave the room.

Mrs. Morris, a widow, told a story of hardship and a struggle to support herself and a little baby on wages earned at the factory of the International Shoe company; of sickness that resulted, she said, from conditions under which she worked, and of alleged harsh treatment by a foreman.

WILSON MAY BE AT PEACE MEET

S. LOUIS, May 1.—There is a strong possibility that President Wilson will attend the fourth annual peace congress for Saturday night at the Ideon instead of Secretary of State Bryan, who is detained in California, according to a statement today by James E. Smith, chairman of the executive committee of the peace congress.

BOX MAKERS TO HOLD A MEETING

Charter Membership List of Union to Be Closed; Employers Favor the Plan

Local Organizer of the Trades and Labor Council John Rae will preside at a meeting of the box makers of La Crosse tonight with the endeavor to have all box makers join the union, before the charter is closed, which takes place tonight.

Officials of the box companies of the city look favorably on the plan of a union organization of the workmen, as they say that in their opinion, it will tend toward making a uniform and higher price for their output, which will allow them to charge more, and pay their employees more.

The men employed in the box companies here favor the plan of organization, and it is expected that a large number of them will join the union tonight.

The present contracts with workmen, held by the companies here will not expire for nearly a year, and nothing in the way of a change in wage scales will be made until the contracts expire.

Charles Stannard and B. Larkin spent the day fishing at Stony Point. They report good catches of fish.

Patrolman Daniel Deneen of No. 4 Police station, who has been confined at the St. Francis hospital for the last few weeks, will soon be able to be moved to his home. As soon as he is able he will resume his duties on the police force.

I Would Be Absolute.

And the first thing I would do in my government, I would have nobody to control me. I would be absolute; and who but I. Now, he that is absolute can do what he likes; he that can do what he likes, can take his pleasure; he that can take his pleasure, can be content; and he that can be content, has no more to desire; so the matter's over.—Cervantes, "Don Quixote."

TOMORROW IS THE DAY TO PLANT

Arbor Day and Fire Prevention Exercises Are Planned in the Schools

Tomorrow being Arbor day, the public schools of La Crosse will observe it with special exercises. The Arbor Day Manual has been sent to all the public schools from Madison and this will be read to the children. Some of the schools are planning to plant shrubbery and small trees in the school yards.

In his Arbor day proclamation Gov. F. E. McGovern requested that along with the exercises there be held fire drills in the schools. In some cities in the state the public schools will observe Fire Prevention day, under the direction of State Fire Marshal T. M. Partell and W. E. McCullough, president of the state Fire Prevention association. The fire marshal has requested the mayors of the state to assist in a campaign for fewer fires.

The schools of La Crosse have fire drills frequently at intervals throughout the year, and will not have any special exercises at this time.

OADAMS LECTURES AT CHURCH TONIGHT

Personally photographed views of Ian MacLaren's famous Scottish glen will illustrate Rev. T. S. Oadams' lecture on "Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" at the First Methodist church at 8 o'clock this evening. Concerning this lecture Rev. Oadams treasures the following testimonials:

Rev. F. W. Gunsaulus, D. D., of Chicago, wrote: "Armour Institute greatly appreciated the excellent lecture of Rev. T. S. Oadams, Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush, and the students and faculty wish it the success it deserves."

Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, D. D., the great Brooklyn preacher, says, "I have known Rev. T. S. Oadams all my life. He is capable of great things. His lecture, Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush, is entitled to the best patronage."

A New Cure.

A doctor whose practice lies mostly in the country districts was recently called to attend a plowman's boy, whom he found to be suffering from whooping cough. Among his instructions he told the mother to "put some ice in a bag and tie it around the boy's head." Next day he called again and was met at the door by the girlwife, who, in answer to his query, replied, "Aye, Jackie's a heap better the day, but the mice are a' deid."—Dundee Weekly News.

Parsees.

The Parsees refuse to burn or bury the bodies of their dead because they consider a dead body impure, and they will not suffer themselves to defile any of the elements. Hence, their "Towers of Silence," 50 or 60 feet in height, on which the bodies of the dead are left to be devoured by the vultures; the bones afterward being thrown into a receptacle and covered with charcoal.

Too Fond of Giving Advice.

He gave advice and never quit. He tossed it around both far and nigh, and was annoyed when some of it flew back and hit him in the eye.

CHRISTOBEL PANKHURST SAYS "SUFFRAGETTE" WILL CROSS CHANNEL IF SUPPRESSED IN ENGLAND

PARIS, May 1.—Miss Christobel Pankhurst, exiled daughter of the leader of the British militant suffragettes, today told the United Press that the women would publish their daily newspaper, the Suffragette, in France if the English government succeeded in suppressing it at home.

Miss Pankhurst is editor-in-chief of the Suffragette and has directed its publication from this side of the channel ever since prosecution drove her from London. She was charged with conspiracy at the same time that her mother and Pethick Lawrence were sent to prison, but evaded prosecution by coming to France.

Oldest Treaty.

The oldest text of a real treaty extant is that of the convention between Ramesses II, king of Egypt, and the prince of Kheba, which embraces the articles of a permanent offensive and defensive alliance, with clauses providing for the extradition of emigrants, deserters, criminals and skilled workmen. This treaty was drawn up in the fourteenth century B. C., and is the earliest record that we have of any international transaction.

Don't Poison Baby.

Forty years ago almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrup," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without your or your physician's knowledge of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Far Reaching Advertisement for La Crosse and
Good Investment Is
the ArgumentA vigorous campaign will be waged
on the south side by the members of
the factory site committee of the
board of trade to raise the necessary
$10,000 for the purchase of the six-
ty-four acre tract on the north side,
half of which will be sold in lots and
half of which will be reserved for
free factory sites for incoming industries. This was the decision of the directorate of the board of trade at a
noon day luncheon at the LaCrosse
Club yesterday. The meeting was attended by President William Doer-
finger, Vice President E. S. Hebbard, Secretary J. L. Ostermoehl and Directors Frank Stinson, John C.
Burns, C. P. Thompson, L. H. Mar-
tin, W. F. Goodrich, A. P. Funk, George Linker and William Hickish.
Substantial Support
The movement received substantial support at the meeting in a sub-
scription of $1,000 in $100 and $200
blocks from the directors present.
More than half of the $20,000, the
purchase price of the tract, has now
been subscribed, the greater part by residents of the north side. The
movement was conceived by John Salz.A committee was appointed to take
the matter up with the business men
and capitalists of the city and this
committee will report at another
meeting of the directorate of the
board next Tuesday. The committee
is as follows: John C. Burns, W.
F. Goodrich, George Linker and J.
L. Ostermoehl. Several of the other
directors volunteered to assist the
committee in the sale of stock.A strong argument in favor of the purchase of the tract of land was
made by several of those present. It
was argued that the tract made an
ideal site for factories being located
on the Black river and touched by
two trunk line railroads. It is also
within easy reach of the street car
service and is amply protected against
fire. Water and electric power, service will be installed as the necessity arises. It was pointed out that
free sites to incoming factories will
be a far reaching and valuable advertisement for the city.Good Investment
The contention was made that sub-
scriptions for the stock are in no
wise donations but are the best kind
of investment. It is the plan of the board to sell half of the tract in
building lots and it is expected that
nearly the entire purchase price of
the tract will be returned to the
investors in this way. Ninety percent of the payroll of workmen on
the north side, more than a million
dollars a year, is spent on the south
side, so that any movement tending
to increase the laboring population
of this part of the city is directly
beneficial to all La Crosse.Hans Company First
The Hans Motor Equipment company, which will be the first to occupy the new site in a $20,000 factory built by the Industrial association this summer, is swamped with
orders and will be compelled to add
a large number of men to their payroll. The company is making such
strenuous endeavors to fill their orders that they have one machine now
operating under a canvas tent. A larger factory space is imperative immediately.It is the hope of the committee
that the balance of the stock in the
factory site proposition will be subscribed within the next week.
The directors endorsed the Chau-
taqua which will be given in La Crosse July 13 to 20 under the auspices and for the benefit of the Associated Charities and volunteered to dispose of 100 tickets for $2 each.A. F. Kneibusch and C. N. Wagent were voted new members of the board of trade yesterday.It takes a woman to remember

Now Easily Attained(From Popular Science)
You no longer need to "doctor"
that sallow, freckled, blackheaded,
rough, blotchy, pimply or over-red
skin. You can remove it, instead—
easily, painlessly, inexpensively. By
a new scientific process, which any-
one can use without assistance, the
dead and near-dead surface skin,
with all its imperfections, is gently,
gradually absorbed—and a radiant
youthful and beautiful complexion
comes forth! Go to your druggist,
get an ounce of pure mercurized wax;
at night apply enough of this to completely cover the face; don't rub it in.
Next morning remove the wax with warm water. The result after a few days is astonishing. You won't wonder why this secret wasn't discovered long ago.
Let the wrinkled folks also take
hope. Put an ounce of powdered sax-
olite into a half pint witch hazel,
bathe the face in the solution and—
say!—there's nothing that will so effectually, so promptly, smooth out all those hateful lines. You'll find this lotion, as well as mercurized
wax, works equally well on neck and
hands.IMPORTANT

BRAIN RUPTUREDSHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 1.—Physicians here today are puzzled by the case of Paul Lubenow, 16, who is alive despite the fact that he suffered most painful and serious injuries late Monday afternoon. The boy turned suddenly and collided
with another lad carrying a fish pole.
The small end of the pole penetrated Lubenow's eye, gouging it from the socket, and continued down into the brain cavity, along the course followed by the optic nerve until the membrane envelope of the cerebrum was ruptured. Physicians say death in such cases usually is instantaneous and that the child has but one chance for recovery in a

SEEK A NEW LAWFear that Raising of Hatfield Dam May Cause Repetition of Flood

Original Charter of Company Allows a Fifty-five
Foot Head of WaterFearing that the extra head of
water, which will be raised at Hat-
field dam by the ten foot flash
boards now being installed by the Wisconsin Railroad, Light and Power
company, will menace the safety of Black River Falls, the citizens of that
city may seek recourse in the present
legislature to prevent the company
from completing the work of height-ening the dam. Because of the fact
that the original charter of the company building the dam allows a fifty-
five foot head of water and the present
dam is only fifty-two feet high
from the base of its foundation, the
complaint of the Black River Falls
citizens cannot be taken to the
courts. If any action is taken it must be by new or special legislation.The fact that Merlin Enli, speaker
of the house, is a resident of Black River Falls adds to the strength of
the complaint and may result in the
attention of the legislature being
called to the Hatfield dam situation
before adjournment.Remembering the disastrous flood
of two years ago in which the entire
business portion of the city was swept
from existence the citizens of Black River Falls declare that the light
structure which is being built on top of the dam may be the cause of a repetition of the former ruin.The water power company, on the other hand, takes the attitude that
any sudden rise in the waters will
be amply taken care of by the opening of the large flood gates that have
been installed in the rebuilt structure. They point to the fact that the
retaining wall on one wing of the
dam was swept out in the former
flood, allowing the back water in the entire lake out at once. The retaining walls have been rebuilt so that it is hardly possible for the accident
to be repeated and have been further
safeguarded with flood gates.The ten foot flashboards will give
an additional 5,500 acre feet of water in the reservoir and materially
increase the power at the dam. If the
water rises to the top of the flash
boards it will be fifty-five feet deep
at the dam.

and appears as soft, lustrous and
beautiful as a young girl's after a Danderine hair cleanse. Just try
this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it
through your hair, taking one small
strand at a time. This will cleanse
the hair of dust, dirt or excessive oil
and in just a few moments you have

McAdoo Says Uncle Sam
Has Lost 30 Millions
in Sixteen
Years

NEW YORK BANKERS REFUSE

Say Government Has No
Right to Expect Interest on Active
Accounts

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Uncle Sam has lost $30,610,381 during the last sixteen years. This assertion was made today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, in amplifying today the reasons which led to the failure of an order requiring the national banks to pay interest on government deposits. He said: "If the national bank depositors had been required to pay interest on their average balances at the rate of 2 per cent per annum, the revenue of the government would have increased during this period by the sum of $30,610,381. It appears that no interest was paid by the banks on any government funds whatsoever until the passage of the Aldrich-Vreeland act in 1908, which provided for the collection of interest only in certain special and inactive accounts, and the total interest thus collected up to January 1, last, amounted to only $713,408. "If the national banks had paid interest on their government deposits during Cleveland's administration for the years 1893-1896, a good rate of interest which the government would have collected during these four years would have been only $2,919,218, as the government deposits during that period were not large."

NEW YORK, May 1.—The national banks of New York handling deposits of government money refuse to pay interest on active accounts as ordered by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, according to officials today. None of the officers of the big financial institutions, however, was willing to be quoted positively as antagonistic to the treasury department's program. A consensus of opinion advanced by a dozen leading bankers was that the government had no right to expect interest on active accounts, against which checks were constantly being drawn.

NO FEAR OF JAPS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 1.—When Andrew Carnegie demanded all who were not afraid of Japan to get on their feet, 1,500 delegates to the Fourth American Peace congress responded in an instant. "Some one in the audience had uttered a challenge demanding that Carnegie did not believe in the United States was afraid of Japan." The speaker followed the ironmaster's statement that the government had a navy to with-stand any international war.

GETS A YEAR FOR ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

Van Courtland Asks Mercy
Because He Is About to Be Married; Shoe
Thieves Sentenced

George Van Courtland, 905 Nicollet Avenue, Minneapolis, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary at Waupun by Judge John Brindley in county court today pleading guilty to a charge of attempted burglary in the night. Van Courtland was captured by Patrolman Frank Groeschner early yesterday morning in the act of entering Knut Knutson's grocery store through a transom. A gunny sack and a slingshot were found in his possession, when searched.

Van Courtland pleaded with District Attorney D. S. Law today to show him leniency claiming that he was to be married within a few weeks if he was not sent to jail. John Donahue, John Callan and John Hall were found guilty of stealing several pairs of shoes from the Dahl shoe store today and sentenced to the county jail. Donahue drew forty days, Callan forty-five days and Hall fifty days. They will be just five days apart when released. They are said to have sold the stolen shoes to several persons in the city.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION

Richard Mann, who has been in the city for about a week without apparent employment, was picked up by the police today on suspicion. He may be arraigned in county court on a charge of vagrancy.

ONLY ONE "BEST"

La Crosse People Give Credit Where Credit is Due

People of La Crosse who suffer with weak kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. Doan's Kidney Pills is a medicine for the kidneys only, and one that is backed by willing testimony of La Crosse people. Here's a case:

Mrs. O. Kendall, 804 S. Eighth St., La Crosse, Wis., says: "I can say that Doan's Kidney Pills are the best kidney medicine to be had. They have been used in our family with good results. The person who took this remedy was restored to health in a short time and his back and kidneys were strengthened."

REFUSE DEMANDS FOR HIGHER PAY

Eastern Roads Turn Down
Request of Conductors
for Better
Wages

NEW YORK, May 1.—The managers of the fifty-two eastern railroads today flatly refused to grant demands for increased wages and modifications in working conditions made by the conductors and trainmen employed on the lines. In a letter to representatives of the trainmen, the managers declare: "The wages and working conditions, which you request would increase the pay of the 100,000 conductors and trainmen for service now rendered by approximately 17,000,000, or 20 per cent."

It is expected that further negotiations between the representatives of the employers and managers will be arranged.

Money Matters.

In all money matters a fair start is essential, and there should be a clear understanding about it from the first. Begging for money is undignified, to say the least. A girl's parents should arrange this matter for her before she is married, and also that of her own personal expenses, that she may not have to go to her husband every time she wants money.—Phoebe Wardell.

Strange Custom of the Harem.

Every woman in the harem has her face decorated in the most curious manner. The practice is to elongate the eyebrows to the ears and to embellish the chin with little points of black paint. In contrast with the men, their complexions are very fair, as they are shut within walls and are never exposed to the sun.

Just a Billville Opinion.

"We are so fond of worry," says a Billville philosopher, "that if we ever reach paradise we'll worry about having to fly too high and sing too often. We once knew a man who spent his lifetime trying to find out what he had to worry about!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Plaything of Fate.

"Fate is a funny thing," says the Philosopher of Folly. "I know a man who was driven to writing poetry by having a girl jilt him. His next sweetheart jilted him when she read the poetry."

One Kind of Declaration.

"I love you, Estelle," he continued, "star of my soul. I loved you through opera-glasses at the opera. . . and I shall love no one else."—"Women I Have Loved," by Henry Drane.

Beef of 1889 Still Fresh.

R. Whympier, writing in Knowledge, mentioned that a piece of beefsteak which his uncle, the late Edward Whympier, the Alpinist, sealed up in a vacuum in 1889, is still in a remarkably good state of preservation.

Hard Work Called For.

One of the popular song demonstrators was making more racket than usual the other day in one of the big stores, his voice reaching far beyond its usual limits. A sales woman in another department, seeing one of her customers wince at the terrible vocal noise, explained: "You see he got here a little late this morning and has to sing loud to catch up."

KICK TO WILSON ON TARIFF DUTIES

Wool and Free Sugar in Conference with the President

WASHINGTON, May 1.—The first concerted assault on the free wool and prospective free sugar schedules of the Wilson-Underwood tariff bill came today. With President Wilson sitting as judge and jury, the democratic senators from the intermountain and north Pacific coast states, presented their arguments against these clauses. Dite predictions of disaster to the industries were made to the executive.

The conference was arranged by Senator Newlands of Nevada. He came to the president last week and told him that he had been deceived in the statistics presented to him; that a small revenue duty on wool and the elimination of the free-sugar-at-the-end-of-three-years clause from the sugar schedule of the bill would save millions of small investors and at the same time would have no appreciable effect on the president's plans to reduce the high cost of living to the common people.

He arranged to have three hours set aside today when the senators associated with him could tell their stories to the president.

GUNDLACH GOES INTO REAL ESTATE LINE

Edward Gundlach, manager of the Western Hammock company, has resigned his position in the factory to go into the real estate business with William Haffner at Conrad, Mont. Mr. Gundlach left for his new field of business Tuesday evening. Both Mr. Haffner and Mr. Gundlach are well known in the younger business circles of the city, and have gained the reputation of hustlers. They have secured options on a large amount of land in the vicinity of Great Falls and Conrad and expect to open a real estate exchange in the latter city. Mr. Haffner also has a large ranch near Conrad which he is operating. Mr. Gundlach will return in the fall to attend the November meeting of the county board of supervisors of which he is a member, representing the twenty-first ward.

FRAUDULENT ADS SUBJECT OF LECTURE

A large number of business men attended the La Crosse Ad club illustrated lecture which was given in the Longfellow school building last night. The subject of the lecture was "Fraudulent Advertising." Land swindlers and patent medicine advertisements were given a severe arraignment by R. D. Featress who delivered the lecture. Considerable time was devoted to the best course to be pursued in the raising of advertising standards in La Crosse.

Socialism and Religion.

My whole religion is not socialism, but Christ. The difficulty which the church feels in contact with most of the socialists of the day, with many indeed, of the workmen even when they are not socialists, is that they are ruled by certain social ideals, concerned especially, though not exclusively, with the exaltation of their own class.—British Congregationalist.

Woman Less Valuable Than Man.

Personal admiration never turns a woman's head as it does a man's. She is not naturally vain like a man, and compliments after a time become too much a matter of course to disturb her equanimity. If she is pretty she is already aware of the fact, without being told it; if she is not, she has sufficient imagination to believe that she is.

Remedies for Minor Accidents.

When children go barefooted accidents are almost sure to occur. If a rusty nail is run into the foot use a piece of fat salt meat, binding it to the wound. This heals the wound in a few hours. If the foot is badly injured with flesh torn, while severe, there is nothing that effects a cure more speedily than an application of arnica or turpentine, the latter for small scratches.

The Ways of a Watch

The ways of a watch are past finding out. Don't try. If your watch is lazy and won't run, let your repairer spur it up—he'll make it on time to a dot. Ten to one you're neglected it—let it get dirty, or rusty from lack of oil. Whatever the reason, don't delay—delay costs money and spoils the watch. We give thorough examination and regulating free—anything more costly as little as satisfactory work can be done for.

ARMY AND NAVY JOBS ARE SAFE

Carnegie Ridicules Coun-

LAUGHS AT THE INVASION BODY

Ironmaster Declares Invasion Army Would Stay
Here as Settlers in
Any Event

Pointed punches for peace from Andrew Carnegie's speech: "If three or four leading nations combined, constituting as they would an overwhelming force, unbroken peace would most certainly be assured. This is the easiest and speediest method of attaining international peace."

The greatest heroes are those developed by peace.

President Wilson will prove to be a man of sound judgment and his care will be to guard our country from present obvious dangers, consigning imaginary dangers to that future in which so many of our imaginary troubles vanish.

No armed nation or combination of nations is so foolish as to dream of invading this country. No power could or would attempt to land and march inland, if any did the number left to answer the roll call would be small indeed.

Thousands might decide to stay in the great west and work and save until they could buy a farm. We would turn invaders into citizens.

If a man wished to select the safest life possible, the one free from all danger of violent death, let him enter our army or navy.

There will never be occasion for war if this country simply treats all nations with justice and friendliness.

Our military and naval expenditures exceed $300,000,000 every year—about $1,000,000 every working day—a ruinous security price for supposed security from invasion from which we have been free for 160 years and which today is impracticable.

Men who refuse today to walk abroad without lighting rods down their backs with ground connection because men have been struck by lightning, would be counterparts of those who fear invasion.

ST. LOUIS, May 1.—In an address punctuated with satirical comment upon the life of tranquility enjoyed by the United States army and navy and ridicule for those sponsors of militarism who see the danger of war in every international controversy, Andrew Carnegie today opened the fourth American peace congress in this city.

Army and Navy Safe

The grizzled "ironmaster" in his favorite role of America's foremost exponent of world peace, paid his respects to the army and navy by declaring them the avocations involving the least risk any man can enter. He ridiculed the idea that any of the powers has the slightest desire to go to war with the United States, and declared that there never would be occasion for war if this country will simply treat all nations with justice and friendliness.

"Little do our people realize," said the speaker, "the cost of what is called national defense against imaginary foes of unduly frightened army and navy officials, doomed to live peaceful days, and spend their lives dreaming of active life which they are destined never to experience."

"Not one admiral or captain, not one officer in our army or navy was ever engaged in war, ever fired a hostile shot, if we except the petty skirmishes involved in our taking Texas from Mexico and expelling Spain from our continent. No nation has attacked us successfully."

Workers in More Danger

"If a man wished to select the safest life possible, the one free from all danger of violent death, let him enter our army or navy. There is not a workman attending machinery or erecting buildings, a railway train employee or a policeman, the soldier of civilization whose duty is never to attack, but always to protect—not one but runs far greater risk of sudden death or injury than the soldier or marine of our country does today."

"There is little danger of any of these ever seeing war, thank God. They will only have to parade. The chivalry, the heroism of war is gone. To shoot from a warship at unseen foes ten miles distant or shooting from under cover at a foe a mile distant, is not conducive to the growth of the heroic."

War Clouds Lower

With war clouds lowering over all Europe and Secretary of State Bryan on the Pacific coast unable to attend on account of the California-Japanese situation, men and women of national and international reputation as leaders in the cause of betterment for humanity today assembled at the Odeon, in the peace congress. Representatives of the nineteen nations planned a concerted effort to prove to the world the uselessness and waste of war, and not only the waste of war, but the enormous burden of war preparations. Complete disarmament was the aim of all speakers.

Addresses of welcome by Governor Major of Missouri and Mayor Kiel, with Congressman Richard Barthold, presiding, were the preliminaries

Mr. Halik, second bass.

WATER COMMITTEE TO ORGANIZE TODAY

The special water committee of the common council will hold a meeting in the office of Mayor Ori Sorenson this afternoon for the purpose of organizing for the term. Although no definite announcements have been made it is the talk in the city hall that Alderman Bert Smith and Adam Kroener are candidates for the office of chairman of the committee. There has not yet appeared any opposition to Alderman Paul Mahoney for the position of secretary. Mr. Mahoney has been secretary for the last two years, ever since the water plant was started.

ALLEGED THIEF ARRESTED

August Stone, who said he came from Chicago, was arrested by Patrolman Emil Last, last night, on a charge of stealing a pair of shoes from the Paulson shoe store yesterday. The shoe company complained to the police that the shoes were stolen and word from a downtown saloon that a stranger had changed an old pair of shoes for new there shortly after furnished Patrolman Last with the clew for the arrest.

Clever New York Advertiser.

There is a shopkeeper in New York who is a firm believer in the saying "Sweet Are the Uses of Adversity," as well as in the proverb of it in which the last word is changed to "advertisement." A glass show case outside the store was broken into and despoiled the other day and now it has a sign on it which reads: "All men want our goods; when they haven't the price, they steal them."

Proof.

"Do you think," said the intellectual young woman, "that there is any truth in the theory that big creatures are better natured than small ones?" "Yes," answered the young man, "I do. Look at the difference between the Jersey mosquito and the Jersey cow."—Life.

Bad Manners Are Expensive.

No polly pays like politeness. Bad manners are the most expensive luxuries in the world. Good manners go further than letters of recommendation—like the gold standard, they are current the world around.

What Joy.

Legitimate actors may sneer, but the actor who acts to the "movies" has one privilege worth more than gold or precious stone—he can see himself act.

What?

If it wasn't for dress, her neighbors and cooking, what would a woman have to talk about?—Detroit Free Press.

Might Well Be Dispensed With.

One of the most useless things in the world is a man who is continually making it necessary for his friends to explain that he means well.

to the opening session today. Andrew Carnegie, the world's most ardent advocate of international peace, then opened the congress formally with an address on "The Baseless Fear of War."

MILITANTS RETALIATE

SERIES OF INCENDIARY FIRES VOICE SUFFRAGETTE INDIG-NATION OVER DESTRU-
TION OF QUARTERS

LONDON, May 1.—If Mr. Reginald McKenna, home secretary of Great Britain, thought that the militant suffragettes would tamely submit to the demolition of their headquarters, he is fated to revise that opinion. So said the hashibazoukesses today, when they began a country-wide campaign of retaliation.

They burned to the ground a coach-house and stable at Mendon and the boathouse and a score of craft were burned at Hampton court. At Plymouth numerous shop windows were smashed, and suffragettes placarded the city with this sign: "You have razed our headquarters, but you cannot stop militancy without giving votes for women."

From a dozen other cities and towns came reports of broken windows and damaged property.

ROAD SELLS STOCK TO ITS EMPLOYEES

FOND DU LAC, Wis., May 1.—A plan, the purpose of which is to promote thrift among its employees and add to their interest in the road, was put into operation today by the Soo line. The road has forced a "co-operative association," with employees of more than six months in the service, are eligible to membership. The road will deduct each month from the salaries of the members whatever percentage is desired, and will invest the money in Soo line securities.

M'CALEB IN SHEBOYGAN

R. C. McCaleb, organizer for the socialist party, left for Sheboygan today, where he will spend a week lecturing. He has just finished a month's lecture course in Kenosha and when he completes the course in Sheboygan he will be sent for a month's tour of Pennsylvania where he will be engaged in organization work.

TWENTY-EIGHT MARRIAGES

Twenty-eight marriage certificates were recorded in the office of County Clerk Bert Jolivet during the month of April according to the monthly statement issued today.

CARD OF THANKS.

I wish to thank friends and neighbors, Rev. Sluyter and Order of Eagles for their kindness during the illness and death of my husband, James C. Henratty, and for their beautiful floral offerings.
MRS. J. C. HENRATTY.

THE LAND OF Opportunity for La Crosse County people is not away off under the Rainbow, but closer at home, in Northern Wisconsin. The profit in farming is largely in the increase of value of the farm. You buy when cheap and you hold till it becomes valuable. Lands are cheap in Oneida County, but are steadily increasing in price. At the same time these lands are as fertile as the best La Crosse County lands. There is no trouble to prove it. This argument is not used to crowd over you but to induce you to buy some of our lands. The fare to Rhinelander is about $4.25 each way. Why not slip up here and see what we have to offer. Write or wire to Crosby Land Co., Rhinelander, Wis. 4 28 5 10
